President claims no prior knowledge of break-in, cover-up

Nixon sends transcripts to impeachment panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, in sending to the House Judiciary Committee edited transcripts of many of his Watergate-related conversations, said through his lawyers today that the tapes do not once make it "appear that the President of the United States was engaged in a criminal plot to obstruct justice."

A 50-page submission to the panel considering possible impeachment, prepared by defense counsel James D. St. Clair, also concluded that "the raw material of these recorded confidential conversations establishes that the President had no prior knowledge of the break-in" at Democratic National Committee headquarters "and that he had no knowledge of any cover-up prior to March 21, 1973."

The 1,200 pages of edited tapes were to be made public later in the day but the St. Clair document repeatedly quoted from the tape transcripts. And at points comparisons were made between the content of the transcripts and sworn testimony by ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III who has been the President's chief public accuser.

The transcripts were delivered earlier to an apparently skeptical House Judiciary Committee in a black station wagon. There were stacks of papers for each member.

An hour before the committee's 10 a.m. deadline, White House aides had loaded 38 manila folders and four large black briefcases into the station wagon and headed for Capitol Hill.

The White House submission concluded by referring directly to the acquittal Sunday of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans in a Watergate-related case tried in New York.

It said the acquittals "demonstrate the wisdom of the President's actions in insisting that the orderly process of the judicial system be utilized to determine the guilt or innocence of individuals charged with crimes, rather than participating in trials in the public media."

The President said Monday night, in a national radio and television address, he would deliver the transcripts, "blemishes and all," and expected the American public to find in them proof of his innocence.

In announcing Monday night over national radio and television his plan to release 1,200 pages of edited transcripts, Nixon said, "I am placing my trust in the basic fairness of the American people."

While the edited transcripts were to be delivered to the House panel today, Nixon is not turning over the tape recordings the committee has subpoenaed, drawing complaints from Democrats and at least one Republican.

In a bid to win committee support for his compromise offer, Nixon has invited Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., and Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., the senior Republican, to listen to the tapes and verify the transcripts.

The President said the material he was making available should end, once and for all, speculation about his role in Watergate.

"As far as what the President personally knew and did with regard to Watergate and the cover-up is concerned, these materials—together with those already made available—will tell it all," Nixon said. Watergate is only one of six areas of presidential conduct the committee is studying in its impeachment inquiry. Nixon did not refer to any others—the activities of the special White House investigating unit known as the plumbers, the ITT anti-trust settlement, political contributions by dairy co-ops, White House plans for domestic intelligence gathering and the secret bombing of Cambodia.

Nixon also faces a deadline of Thursday to answer a subpoena from Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski for tapes and records of 64 presidential conversations.

Rodino, who insisted shortly before Nixon's address that only full compliance with the subpoena would be acceptable to the committee, declined comment on the compromise offer. The National Broadcasting Co. offered him (Please turn to page 14)

Ohio food prices held down

By KEN DAVIS

Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Cost-conscious Ohio housewives—doing battle against escalating food prices—apparently have forced inflation at the supermarkets to slow down to a surprising 1.3 per cent increase in the last six months.

Six months ago today a marketbasket of 14 selected items cost on the average around the state a total of $10.40.

Today the same marketbasket, a Associated Press survey showed, costs $10.54—up only 14 cents or 1.3 per cent. "It's consumer reaction to high prices," said a food chain official who asked to remain anonymous.

Of the 14 items, only six showed price increases in the six-month interval. The other eight showed price decreases.

A consumer triumph showed in the prices for the marketbasket's three meat items—center cut pork chops, ground chuck and all-beef frankfurters. Pork chops dropped 6.8 per cent in price between Nov. 1, 1973, and today—an average in the 14 Ohio cities checked of $1.49 a pound last fall compared to $1.39 a pound today.

All-beef frankfurters sold last November in the same cities on an average of $1.30 a pound. Today they go for $1.23 a pound.

Ground chuck sold for $1.29 a pound last November and in the latest AP survey average $1.47 a pound, down 1.6 per cent.

"Consumer reaction has figured heavily here," said the supermarket chain official. "As a matter of fact, meat is moving so slowly that growers complain it costs them more to produce the meat than they get for it when they sell."

The influence of the consumer is less clear in big price drops in the price of eggs and butter.

"Hens lay fewer eggs in colder weather," the supermarket chain official said. "So there would be fewer eggs and the price would go up."

Whatever the cause, eggs in Ohio dropped 19.5 per cent in the six months since last November—from an average of 77 cents for a dozen medium to 62 cents today.

Butter prices fell 14.6 per cent in the six months, from 96 cents for a pound wrapped in sticks to 82 cents for the same butter today.

These were the largest of the six-month price decreases. There were increases as large or larger, led by granulated sugar.

In six months the price of sugar has rocketed upward 33.7 per cent, and the average ascent would have been greater if many supermarkets, edgy about consumer reaction, hadn't kept (Please turn to page 2)

U.S. oilman finally freed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — American oilman Victor Samuelson arrived in the United States this morning after being freed six weeks after his company paid Marxist Argentine guerrillas a record $14.2 million ransom.

Samuelson, flanked by Exxon officials on his arrival at Miami International Airport, was smiling and appeared healthy.

"I'm very happy and I am well," he told reporters. "I have no further comment. I'm anxious to get back to my family."

When asked if he would be flying to Cleveland, his home town, he said: "No, not right away."

The 36-year-old Esso Argentina executive was whisked into a privately chartered twin-engine aircraft which took off minutes after his 8:30 a.m. landing from South America.

Exxon officials would not disclose his destination.

Promote arena for Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — City Councilman Charles Mentel has proposed development of a 50,000-seat sports arena for downtown Columbus.

Mentel, who made the suggestion Monday night, didn't estimate a cost for the arena, but said voted bond money could finance the project.

Plans for the city's estimated $46 million convention center complex do not include a sports arena.

Citizens applaud, deride action by President

By JIM WILLSE

Associated Press Writer

In the Oval Office of the White House, Richard M. Nixon gazed into the eye of the television camera and promised America that the pile of looseleaf folders to his left would, finally, "tell it all."

In Hallandale, Fla., Harold Harris gazed back at the President of the United States. "He's lying," Harris said, puffing on a cigar. "The accused shouldn't be the one to decide what is relevant."

A continent away, in Santa Monica, Calif., Sydney Albright munched a tossed salad as he watched Nixon on a small black and white TV. "I knew in time the other side of the story would be told. I hope the President's actions tomorrow will indeed be the other side of the story."

Once again, President Nixon turned to the national broadcast media to present a defense of his role in the Watergate scandal. And once again, America listened.

Seated at his desk, the camera panning periodically to the stacks of black notebooks containing transcripts of taped White House conversations, Nixon placed his case in the hands of the public.

"In giving you these—blemishes and all—I am placing my trust in the basic fairness of the American people," he said. "... I was trying to discover what was right and to do what was right. I hope and trust that when you have seen the evidence in its entirety, you will see the truth of that statement."

But for Bill Sweeney, an executive with an electronics firm, the President's plea was not enough.

Politicos' reaction to speech divided

WASHINGTON (AP) — Initial reaction outside the House Judiciary Committee to President Nixon's offer Monday night of Watergate tape transcripts divided generally along party lines.

"The President is giving the House Judiciary Committee more than enough information with which to carry out its investigation," said Vice President Gerald R. Ford.

"I think the President's willingness to subject himself to sworn testimony before Chairman Rodino and Congressman Hutchinson is evidence of good faith," said Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott.

George Bush, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said: "I am convinced this is a major step in putting the impeachment proceedings behind us and in laying to rest the charges against the President."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who had earlier questioned whether Nixon retains the ability to govern, said it would have been better to deliver the tapes months ago. "But for the moment it is unnecessary to haggle with the President," Javits said.

discuss the Adoption reform Bill he introduced in the legislature with members of services to Unwed Mothers and Adoption.

He said he saw no reason why people must be married to adopt children. He said his bill would remove that requirement, plus improve management of the adoption system by setting up boards in each community to oversee the placement of children in proper homes.

Rhodes, making a stop in his home town of Springfield Monday, also indicated to newsmen he was concentrating more on the general election than the primary.

"We are holding many news conferences around the state and not spending much money," Rhodes said. "We're saving our money for the November election."

"I'm so sick of all his difficult days and all of his trusted friends and all of his transcripts," the 36-year-old father of six said in the family room of his home in Arlington Heights, Ill.

Nor was it enough for Don Peterson of Pleasant Hill, Iowa. "He's just trying to get more sympathy," Peterson said as he watched the speech with a neighbor, Bill Sinnott.

Coffee Break...

REGISTRATION for kindergarten students in the Washington C.H. school system will be held at 1 p.m. Thursday and Friday in the Eastside Elementary School gymnasium, reminds Hugh Rea, district elementary coordinator.

Students with last name initials A-L will register on Thursday and those with last name initials M-Z will register on Friday, Rea said. Children must be 5 years old on or before Sept. 30, 1974, to be eligible to enter kindergarten in the 1974-75 school year. Birth certificates and immunization records will be required at the registration.

ARMCO'S DECISION to build a new Metal Products Division plant in Longview, Tex., has resulted in some major supervisory changes in Washington C.H.

For a story and pictures of newly promoted employees see Page 8.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., said the committee should get the tapes, not the transcripts.

She added: "Mr. Nixon's grandstand play complete with props should not obscure the fact that the Judiciary Committee has at least 37 charges pending against the President in its impeachment inquiry, and the Watergate cover-up is involved only in several of them."

Samples of other reactions: —Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich.: "It was an effective presentation by a confident President."

—Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn.: "I'm happy the President is providing the transcript information and the opportunity to monitor the tapes."

—Joe Rauh, vice chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action: "No rational congressional committee should accept these demands."

—Republican Gov. William G. Milliken of Michigan: "Clearly this is a major step forward. It is overdue but most welcome."

Fry, Rhodes' opponent, has said Rhodes could not beat Gilligan. Asked about that, Rhodes said: "The last time I was with Fry I spoke for him three times and in his district he only won by a margin. All of those times I was introduced as the best governor Ohio ever had."

Fry charged Monday that Rhodes is afraid to disclose his income tax returns and is hoping "he can steal this nomination without ever surfacing to answer questions about his personal financial gains as governor and thereafter."

Rhodes said he would make no disclosures about his finances "at this time."

In other political activity Monday, U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum toured (Please turn to page 2)

Nor for Walter Juskiewicz, a salesman from Cape Elizabeth, Maine. "I don't think he ever had it in his mind to turn over the tapes," Juskiewicz said. "He's trying to run the investigation himself."

Sen. Gurney blasts fund indictment

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Sen. Edward J. Gurney says his indictment on a charge of failing to report campaign contributions results from a "political Pearl Harbor attack" by Democrats.

"I am absolutely innocent," the Florida Republican said in a Monday statement confirming reports that a Leon County grand jury had voted to indict him for allegedly violating a Florida election law. "This is deliberate political harassment of the basest sort."

Gurney's Florida attorney, C. Harris Dittmar of Jacksonville, said he would file immediately a motion for dismissal.

The indictment reportedly was voted by the grand jury Friday. The jury is in recess until Wednesday.

A spokesman in Gurney's Washington office said the 60-year-old senator was accused in the one-count indictment of accepting campaign contributions without appointing a campaign treasurer or setting up a campaign bank account, as required by Florida law.

The charge carries a maximum sentence of one year in prison and a $1,000 fine. State officials may be removed from office under the law, but state officials say the statute was unclear whether federal officeholders also could be ousted.

Gurney, a member of the Senate Watergate Committee who is up for reelection this year, charged the indictment was motivated by one of the Democrats seeking his Senate seat.

"I am confident that the processes of justice and the court will operate swiftly to vindicate me of this unlawful charge and any wrongdoing," said Gurney, who was first elected to the Senate in 1968 after serving three terms in the House.

The grand jury launched its investigation last week after State Rep. Marshall Harris, D-Miami, charged that Gurney admitted during a December news conference that he had violated the reporting law. Harris also appeared before the panel.

At the news conference, Gurney said he learned in mid-1972 that $100,000 had been raised in his name without his knowledge.

He said he ordered the fund raising stopped but did not report the money already collected because he was not a candidate at the time and did not have a fund-raising committee. He still has not reported the money because he says he does not know who gave it.

Gurney charged in his statement that Harris had gone before the grand jury to help his "crony," State Sen. Richard Pettigrew, D-Miami, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for Gurney's seat.

"A U.S. Senate seat is clearly at stake here," Gurney said. "That's why Harris and Pettigrew started this in hopes that the Democrats won't have to face me this fall."

Wage, price controls end at midnight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Price controls will end over steel, health and a few other industries at midnight tonight when the administration's 2½-year-old wage and price control program dies an unceremonious death.

Despite high hopes when the controls program was imposed by President Nixon in August 1971, controls have been the clear loser in the battle with inflation. Prices, which increased at a 3.6 per cent annual rate then, now are rising at a 14.5 per cent rate.

Besides steel and health, controls also will end at midnight over all wages, the copper industry, construction, food processors and retail auto sales.

The only exception is the petroleum industry, which will remain under a separate set of controls until March 1975.

The nation may soon feel the effects of the end of controls, since there are predictions that steel prices could jump 13 per cent in the next few months and that health costs, including doctor and hospital fees, could soar even higher.

Most of the nation's industry previously was exempted from controls, frequently in exchange for price-restraining commitments, although the administration's Cost of Living Council will lack authority even to enforce these commitments after controls expire.

Gary L. Seevers, a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, warned Monday that if inflation continues unchecked, controls may be back within a year.

Seevers told a meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce here the nation may finally have entered "a period of fairly stable food prices." He said prices of fresh foods already are falling, and those of processed foods will not be far behind.

Deaths, Funerals

Walter Frye

Walter Frye, 83, of 1003 Briar Ave., died at 2 a.m. Tuesday in Fayette Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient two days. He had been in failing health several years.

Born in Clinton County, Mr. Frye had spent most of his life in the Sabina community and had resided in Washington C.H. for the past six years. He was a retired carpenter and a member of the Pilgrim Holiness Church in Leesburg.

He is survived by a son, Dean, 1003 Briar Ave.; two grandchildren; a great-grandson and a sister, Mrs. Marie Stickdon, of Moxahala.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home here with the Rev. Don Baker, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiating. Burial will be in Highlawn Memory Gardens.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 3 to 5 and 7 until 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Ivan Hyer

NEW HOLLAND — Mrs. Leah Hyer, 65, of New Holland, died at 5 a.m. Tuesday at her home of an apparent heart attack. She had suffered a heart attack a year ago.

Born in Clarksburg, Mrs. Hyer moved to New Holland with her husband, Ivan, in 1964. She was a member of the Clarksburg United Methodist Church and Purity Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, in New Holland.

Besides her husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Roy Godden, Clarksburg; a daughter, Miss Barbara Hyer, New Holland; and two sisters, Mrs. Madge Southard, Clarksburg, and Mrs. Ruth Asher, New Holland.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland, with the Rev. Printis Spear officiating. Burial will be in Brown's Chapel Cemetery, Clarksburg.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Caroline Johnson

SPRINGFIELD — Services for Mrs. Caroline Johnson, 78, of Springfield will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Richards Memorial Home. Mrs. Johnson, the widow of Walter Johnson, died in Mercy Medical Center at 8:50 p.m. Sunday. Born in New Vienna to James and Melissa Neff Wise, she had resided in Springfield most of her life.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Lanora Bartley and a niece, Helen Morris, both of Washington C.H.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday. Burial will be in Glen Haven Memorial Gardens.

Mrs. Nora Trowbridge

COLUMBUS — Graveside services will be conducted at 1:15 p.m. Wednesday in the Sabina Cemetery, Sabina, for Mrs. Nora V. Trowbridge, of 455 Belvidere Ave., who died Monday. A retired employee of North American, she is survived by two nephews, James and Robert Roberds, both of Washington C.H.; a niece, Mrs. Estel (Patty) Spurluck of Sabina; and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Myrtle Roberds of Sabina.

The Jerry Spears Funeral Home, 2893 W. Broad St., is in charge of the services.

EDWARD SHACKLEFORD — Services for Edward Shackleford, 89, of 614 W. Market St., were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Harold Shackleford Jr. officiating. Mr. Shackleford, a retired meat cutter for Gorton Frozen Food Locker, died Thursday.

The obituary was read by Mrs. Medreth Havens. Pallbearers for the burial in Washington Cemetery were Dustin Gorton, Frank Boylan, Jack Noel, Charles Calhoun, Jeff Coates and the Rev. Harold Shackleford Jr.

Bonus Commission seeks ex-POWs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission is looking for eligible former prisoners of war.

"The only criterion ex-POW's must meet to qualify for a special bonus of $1,000 is proof of one full year of Ohio residency immediately prior to entering service during the compensable period of the Vietnam conflict," said John W. Bush, the commission's director.

Bush said a special effort is being made to find the eligible ex-Pow's.

Glenn, Metzenbaum continue to hurl campaign charges

By The Associated Press
Charges continued to fly in the heated campaign between U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum and former astronaut John Glenn for the Democratic Senate nomination as the race entered its final full week Monday.

Glenn's campaign manager denied a charge by Metzenbaum that Glenn didn't vote until he was 37 and accused the senator of "personally conducting a smear campaign based on outright lies."

Metzenbaum made the charge about Glenn's voting record during a debate in Cleveland last week.

Stephen J. Kovczik Jr. said that "from the time he was 21, John Glenn voted from Muskingum County."

"Muskingum County at that time was a nonregistration county; there are no records dating further back than 1958, when John was 37 years old," he said.

Kovaczik said Metzenbaum's people "know damned well that there is no way on earth for anyone to check on whether or not John Glenn—or anyone

No college expansion needed for Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A citizens' task force on higher education recommended today that no new two-year or four-year colleges be established in Ohio.

The 46-page document submitted to the state Board of Regents and the legislature further suggests that no existing two-year schools be expanded into four-year facilities.

The full report was to be made available this afternoon, a spokeswoman for the group said. She said proposed projects with funds already appropriated are not affected by the report.

Probably another year of study will be done before recommendations are finalized, she said.

"On the basis of geography and current and projected enrollment trends, Ohio's system is complete," the report states.

"The larger and, more important issue now is to promote participation by all citizens, particularly students from low income families."

The task force, created by Gov. John J. Gilligan, recommended an increase in maximum grants awarded to students under the Ohio Instructional Grants Program and an upward adjustment of the income ceiling to $15,000 for families eligible to participate in the program.

The report also suggested that private schools be awarded additional developmental funds for OIP students.

the black Elizabeth Park area of Akron with City Council President Edward Davis, who told residents the senator "has been our friend and helped us for a long time, and we remember our friend."

Metzenbaum's opponent for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination, John Glenn, also visited Akron and declared: "The thing that overrides almost everything else this year is the need to elect people to office in whom the public have confidence."

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown's campaign committee announced it had filed its second voluntary financial disclosure statement with Common Cause, the consumer lobby.

The report listed all contributors from Jan. 27, 1972 through April 20, 1974, the committee said, and showed receipts of $236,516 and expenditures totaling $139,049, with a balance of $97,466.

Thomas Cloud, Republican candidate for state auditor, charged the Democratic officeholder and his son are the beneficiaries of an illegal "flower fund."

Cloud leveled the charge against Auditor Joseph Ferguson and his son, Deputy Auditor Thomas Ferguson, who is seeking the Democratic nomination, before newsmen in the presence of the younger Ferguson.

Cloud said auditor's office employees were required to contribute to the campaign, in violation of state law.

Ferguson declared, "If he has any proof of those charges, he should back them up. If not, he ought to apologize and get out of the campaign."

He said office employees have contributed to his campaign, but did so voluntarily. He said about half of the $80,000 in his campaign chest came from employee contributions.

Henry Eckhart, candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, pledged his full support of Gilligan's policies and programs, if elected.

Eckhart, who was on Gilligan's cabinet for two years as chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, said he felt he understood the governor's policies and programs and "can effectively carry them out."

A Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, state Sen. Stanley Aronoff of Cincinnati, disclosed campaign contributions since November 1972 of $41,972, with expenditures totaling $41,854.

Nixon pays

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — President Nixon has paid most of the $432,787 plus interest that the Internal Revenue service said he owes in back income taxes, the Baltimore Sun said today in a story attributed to an authoritative source.

The Sun, in a dispatch from its Washington bureau, said the source refused to reveal how much of the debt had been paid.

else in Muskingum County voted." Meanwhile, Metzenbaum's campaign office in Cleveland released copies of a letter purporting to support the senator's contention that Glenn is avoiding face-to-face confrontations.

The letter was from Fred L. Wymore, associate producer of Nick Clooney Productions, Inc., in Cincinnati, to Jerry Brown, director of scheduling for the Metzenbaum For Senate Committee.

In it Wymore said Glenn decided "not to appear on the air with the senator" but "did ask for separate appearances on the same day." That request was rejected, Wymore said.

He apparently referred to a proposed joint appearance of the two candidates on the Nick Clooney Show on WKRC-TV.

sifically, $400 per student from a family with an income of less than $8,000 and $200 for those from families of $15,000 incomes or less.

The board of regents should modify its present formula for funding colleges and universities to help cover costs of admitting counseling and providing student services to parttime students, the report said.

Hopefully, it said, this will encourage more night time classes and services for older adults.

The report recommended against a consolidation of individual school trustees into a statewide higher educational system.

"To make it a super governing board through the elimination of boards of trustees would violate the ardent desire of Ohioans to avoid a monolithic, centralized bureaucracy with a 'Columbus knows best' philosophy," the report said.

The report said state funding of higher education should be increased substantially, although it didn't recommend a dollar figure. It pointed out that Ohio ranks 34th among the states in the percentage of state monies that go to support colleges and universities.

Also, the report called for a freeze of college costs during the first two years, but said fees should be higher the remaining two years because of more costly teaching materials and instructors.

By The Associated Press
A high pressure system will begin to dominate Ohio's weather Wednesday, bringing clear skies except for possible cloudy conditions along the shores of Lake Erie. The temperatures Wednesday will be cooler than recent days, with highs from the low 60s north to the low 70s south.

Clouds spread across the state overnight and rain was spreading over the state from the north Tuesday morning. Temperatures have remained mild with all sections of the state having early morning readings in the upper 50s and low 60s.

Many areas of the state were reporting low visibilities in fog Tuesday morning as a cold front approached Ohio from the Mississippi Valley. As it passes across the state temperatures will fall back to near normal spring levels.

Highs across the state today will range from the upper 60s in the north to the upper 70s in the south where the front will pass this afternoon and evening.

A chance of showers Thursday through Saturday. Cool Thursday with highs in the 60s, warming to the 70s Friday and Saturday. Lows in the 40s Thursday and Friday and in the 50s Saturday.

Demo sample ballot hit by candidate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — R. Kent Bell, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, Monday blasted the Ohio Democratic party for not including the names of all candidates on a sample ballot being mailed to Democrats throughout the state.

Bell, who was not endorsed by the party's executive committee for the May 7 primary, has asked Secretary of State Ted W. Brown to investigate the mailing of the ballot which lists only endorsed Democratic candidates.

"To call a piece of literature a sample ballot when it does not contain names of all the candidates to me is not legal and is misleading to the Democratic voters of Ohio," Bell said.

James Marsh, assistant secretary of state, said Brown will answer Bell's complaint, but said he doubted the party had violated any law.

More than a million letters, each containing two sample ballots, will be delivered to registered Democratic households May 2-6, a party spokesman said.

The party executive committee endorsed candidates who received 60 per cent or more of the committee's votes. Party support of these candidates includes the sample ballot mailing, which will cost $68,000 in postage alone, said Michael Lorz, party communications director.

Jury probes killing at Wilmington

WILMINGTON — A special Clinton County grand jury summoned to consider evidence surrounding last week's shotgun slaying of a Martinsville man resumed deliberations at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

The special grand jury recessed shortly after 4 p.m. Monday after a full day's deliberation into. April 22 killing of Randall Goldie, of Martinsville.

A number of witnesses appeared before the special grand jury during Monday's opening session and several more were scheduled Tuesday.

Accused of aggravated murder in Goldie's death is Dale A. Powell, 26, a member of the Wilmington Police Department for the past 26 months who is now under suspension.

Powell was charged with aggravated murder last Wednesday, just two days after the 22-year-old owner of a novelty import shop was found shot to death in his car in the parking lot of Scottie's Restaurant, 1032 Wayne Road.

Meanwhile, a preliminary hearing which had originally been scheduled for 3 p.m. Monday in Wilmington Municipal Court was postponed until 3 p.m. Wednesday.

A police department source said the preliminary hearing would not be held if the special grand jury reports an indictment against the former Wilmington police officer before then.

POWELL, who was arrested in city hall Wednesday, has been free on $25,000 bond since Thursday when he appeared in Wilmington Municipal Court for a bond-setting hearing. He has been suspended from the police force by Police Chief Thomas E. White pending final disposition of the aggravated murder charge.

White, who was appointed to the police chief's position five months ago, said Monday that police are holding a female juvenile for questioning in the case at an undisclosed location.

Two other Wilmington police officers, Ursel Webb, 37, and Paul Dischner, 32, were suspended from the force Friday for alleged failure to disclose all information they knew about the shooting case. White has said Webb and Dischner are not involved in any way in the shooting incident.

There has been widespread speculation that Goldie's shooting was related to illegal drug activities in the area, but no one close to the investigation, including Chief White would confirm it.

Goldie was shot several times at close range with a shotgun. He was discovered dead in his late model sports car at 11 p.m. Monday in the restaurant parking lot after residents in the area reported hearing gunshots. Police found four empty shotgun shells at the scene.

lot of air," said Albright, a 42-year-old apartment manager and self-described Nixon supporter. "But in the short run it's going to create a storm brewed primarily by his detractors."

Bill Sweeney remained generally silent during the speech, but when Nixon again asked that Watergate be left behind, he interjected: "Oh please, don't give me that again."

Later, he took out an envelope on which he had scribbled a passage from a book one of his children was reading. It was the eulogy Nixon had delivered for the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"His life is a reminder to us that there is a moral force in the world more powerful than the might of armies or the wealth of nations," Sweeney read. Then he added: "Why couldn't this man have shown that moral force he talked about?"

Juskiewicz, a 35-year-old salesman, said Nixon should have complied fully with the subpoena. "I think he's trying to be an honest guy, but he's going about it in the wrong way."

The Nixon speech did nothing to shake the opinions of Harold Harris, an 83-year-old retired diamond merchant. "You know the old saying, 'If at first you do deceive, what an awful web you weave.'"

"But I tell you, he's smart and clever," added Harris, who watched the speech in his apartment 15 miles north of Miami. "I'd hate to see him impeached. I'd rather have a smart crook in the White House than a dumb one."

Pemberton, 29, general manager of a consulting firm, said at one point, "He's either naive, or he thinks everyone else is. He let it drag on too long. But I think he's taking a good step."

While he spoke, his wife Linda, also 29 and registered an independent as her husband looked again at their large color television set in their suburban Little Rock home. "The past couple of years have really aged him," she said. "It seems so noticeable."

Stock prices up slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market eked out a small advance today in slow and inconclusive trading.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up .78 at 836.20, and advanced declines by about 5 to 4 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said many investors were holding off on any investment commitments until they could get some indication of when the surge in interest rates would ease.

Consolidated Edison of New York was the Big Board's most-active stock, down 1/2 at 9 1/2. The issue has fallen from a price of 18 since the company announced it was omitting its second quarter dividend.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was up .01 at 89.86.

Metals, aerospace, and oil service issues were among the gainers.

sugar as a leader at prices well below wholesale costs.

Five pounds of granulated sugar on Nov. 1, 1973, cost on the average in the 14 cities surveyed only 80 cents. Today the average is $1.07.

Supermarket officials say the carload wholesale price is about $1.27 for five-pound packages.

Big hikes in the price of flour and sugar contributed to a 17.9 per cent increase in chocolate chip cookies — from an average of 67 cents for a 14 one-half ounce package to an average of 79 cents today.

All paper products have shot up in price. A two-roll kitchen towel package, one of the items in the Ohio marketbasket jumped 19 per cent in price in six months, from 47 cents last November to 56 cents today.

Toilet tissue and napkins have followed much the same price spiral.

Milk prices shot up 12.5 per cent in the same six-month period, too. Government controlled prices paid by producers to farmers reflected higher feed and labor costs.

Peanut butter, a favorite source of protein, moved up 13 per cent as meat moved downward. Six months ago 12 ounces of peanut butter cost 46 cents on average against 56 cents Tuesday.

Cities surveyed for the Ohio marketbasket included Akron, Athens, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Portsmouth, Dayton, Lima, Massillon, Conneaut, Toledo, Van Wert, Youngstown, Coshocton and Zanesville.

The 14 selected items included pork chops, ground chuck, all-beef frankfurters, eggs, butter, cookies, orange juice, paper towels, peanut butter, detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk and sugar.

Executive privilege shift made

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a turnabout from past declarations, President Nixon cited three reasons Monday night why he is setting aside the principle of executive privilege to make public numerous transcripts of presidential conversations.

"First, in the present circumstances the House of Representatives must be able to reach an informed judgment about the President's role in Watergate," he said.

"Second, I am making a major exception to the principle of confidentiality because I believe such action is now necessary to restore the principle itself, by clearing the air of the central question that has brought such pressures upon it ....

"Third, in the context of the current impeachment climate, I believe all the American people as well as their representatives in Congress are entitled to have not only the facts, but also the evidence that demonstrates those facts. I want there to be no question remaining about the fact that the President has nothing to hide in this matter."

Nixon's statement Monday night on the value of the taped conversations precisely contradicted what he said last July in a letter to Chairman Sam J.

Ervin Jr., D-N.C., of the Senate Watergate committee.

This time Nixon referred to the accounts of the conversations as "the evidence which will allow this matter to be brought to a prompt conclusion."

But in the letter to Ervin rejecting a tapes request, Nixon had said much earlier in the Watergate affair:

"If the release of the tapes would settle the central questions at issue in the Watergate inquiries, then their disclosure might serve a substantial public interest that would have to be weighed very heavily against the negatives of disclosure. That fact is that the tapes would not finally settle the central issue."

Nixon said: "Unless a president can protect the privacy of the advice he gets, he cannot get the advice that he needs."

He had elaborated on that theme at length in past public appearances starting almost from the time last July when the existence of a White House tape recording system first was disclosed at the Senate Watergate hearings.

But this time, said Nixon, the three factors "combined to persuade me that a major, unprecedented exception to that principle is now necessary."

Nixon yielded on tapes before. After losing a federal court appeal on a case involving tapes sought by the Watergate special prosecutor, Nixon stopped short of going to the Supreme Court, choosing instead to hand over the tapes.

An appeal to the highest court, he explained later, would have brought confrontation "between the Supreme Court and the President. And second, it would have established very possibly a precedent, a precedent breaking down constitutionality that would plague future presidencies, not just (the) President."

Kissinger holds talks in Mideast

ALGIERS (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is meeting today with the presidents of Algeria and Egypt after receiving a Soviet assurance of help in getting Syria to agree to a troop disengagement agreement with Israel.

Kissinger talked with Algerian President Houari Boumedienne for 3½ hours Monday night after his arrival from Geneva, and another session was scheduled this morning. U.S. officials said Kissinger wanted to make sure of Boumedienne's "special relationship" with Syria.

The American secretary in a brief statement said the United States is making a major effort to find a basis acceptable to the Syrians and Israelis for stopping the fighting on the Golan Heights.

American officials also reported that relations between the U.S. and Algerian governments were improving but have not yet reached the point of formal restoration of diplomatic relations.

Kissinger was flying to Alexandria this afternoon to confer with President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, then on to Israel Wednesday and Damascus on Thursday. Informed sources said it was likely he also would visit Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and several other smaller Persian Gulf states sometime in the next week.

Kissinger flew to Algiers after nine hours of talks in Geneva with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. They issued a joint communique saying they had agreed to exercise their influence "towards a positive outcome and to remain in close touch with each other so as to strive to coordinate their efforts for a peaceful settlement in the area."

DeVALLS BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Prosecuting Atty. Sam Weems of Stuttgart said three women would be arraigned here today in connection with a robbery and slaying of a Hazen policeman.

State police said, Morris Greenwalt, 51, the policeman, was killed Monday night while trying to apprehend three women wanted in an armed robbery at Brinkley.

Authorities said the women, in their 20s, were captured at Hazen. No charges had been filed Monday night.

Chrysler sets price boosts of nearly $100

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp., staggering from a 98 per cent drop in first-quarter profits, has boosted the average price of its cars $99. It predicts two more increases in the next five months.

Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council condemned the increase Chrysler announced on Monday as "irresponsible."

The 2.9 per cent increase in sticker prices is Chrysler's third since Dec. 10, when the Cost of Living Council lifted controls on the auto industry in return for a promise from all auto makers except Chrysler to limit price hikes to $150 per car for the balance of the 1974 model year barring "unforeseen major economic events."

Chrysler Chairman Lynn Townsend said the new increase is justified because of skyrocketing costs, despite the commitment.

Dunlop fired back, "I view Mr. Townsend's statement as a display of consummate gall in announcing an interpretation of an agreement to which he chose not to be a party."

"While his competitors are participating in the effort through decontrol commitments to stabilize prices through the remainder of the 1974 model year, Mr. Townsend, in effect, now calls on his competitors to raise their prices in violation of their agreements with the council."

With worldwide vehicle sales off 14 per cent and U.S. car sales down 20.3 per cent from 1973, Chrysler reported sales of $2.7 billion, down 7 per cent from the first quarter of 1973.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From
WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

WASHINGTON — President Nixon recently requested an additional five billion dollars in foreign aid appropriations for the Mideast and Indochina.

For the nearly 14 years I have been in Congress, I have opposed foreign aid, but I am particularly against giving any money whatsoever to the Mideast countries for many, many reasons.

We are suffering from one of our worst and prolonged periods of inflation. Some economic experts even believe we are tottering on the brink of a recession, despite the rosy picture recently painted by one presidential advisor. He predicted the economy will begin to stabilize in the second quarter and be on an upturn in the second half of the year.

I don't see how this is possible when the Department of Labor figures for last month revealed that the consumer price index jumped another 1.1 per cent in March. This increase follows fast on the heels of consumer price index rises of one per cent in January and another 1.3 per cent in February.

What this also means is that the average rank-and-file production worker experienced another 0.9 per cent drop in his purchasing power. This is the ninth monthly dip in the last year.

In fact, real spendable earnings now stand a whopping 4.7 per cent below their level of a year ago, which is the largest drop ever on record.

Most people didn't have to wait for the Department of Labor to tell them this statistically: all they had to do was look in their wallets.

MOST CONSUMERS could also tell inflation was still king by checking the pump prices at their local gas stations or by totalling up their monthly grocery bills.

Once again, food and energy prices were the primary cause for the consumer price index increase. And the primary cause for the jump in both of these areas is directly related to the Arab oil embargo.

Under these circumstances, to give any Mideast country millions of dollars in foreign aid after their activities have caused us untold billions of dollars in economic hardship is absolutely ridiculous.

Of the Arab states involved in this latest foreign aid giveaway, Egypt would benefit the most with some $250 million. While Egypt was helpful in encouraging the rest of the Arab countries to end the oil embargo and does not export much oil herself, she did support the oil cutoff to the U.S. last fall.

I suspect she only changed her views once the prospects of getting foreign aid from the U.S. became a possibility, and by then at least three months of the embargo had taken their toll on the American economy in higher prices and fewer jobs.

So now the Administration wants to reward them with a few million dollars to rebuild their country after the latest round of fighting in the Mideast. Israel would also get $350 million and Jordan would be awarded a mere $207 million.

THE MONEY is supposed to be used for reconstruction and aid to refugees mainly, but in spite of the apparent humanitarian intent in giving the aid, I don't see how it will ever help to buy peace in the Mideast. The fighting is still going on there, and giving these countries this money for domestic purposes leaves them with more money to spend of their own on military purposes.

Furthermore, if the fighting flares up again into another major war, we have no assurance whatsoever that the Arabs would not resume their embargo. The money obviously cannot buy peace, then, and our foreign aid has never succeeded in buying friends, so all we would be doing is throwing needed money away, fanning the fires of inflation at home and keeping the flames of war glowing in the Mideast.

We don't have the money in the first place, and our primary responsibility is to keep spending down and try to bring inflation under control here at home. We won't do it with foreign aid. We never have and we never will.

We need, instead, to concentrate on more "domestic aid" and improving our own domestic relations. There is more than enough good uses for the taxpayers money at home than there ever is or will be abroad.

Impeachment effects said far-reaching

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says his impeachment by the House of Representatives would affect "the lives of all Americans for many years to come" and would be felt throughout the world.

In his broadcast address Monday night, Nixon said he is turning over transcripts of Watergate-related conversations to the House Judiciary Committee and making them public "because this (impeachment) is an issue that profoundly affects all the American people."

Even if he is not convicted by the Senate, his impeachment by the House "would put the nation through a wrenching ordeal it has endured only once in its lifetime, a century ago, and never since America has become a world power with global responsibilities," Nixon said.

Ohio campaign law signed by Gilligan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown says Ohio's new campaign finance reform law will free over 3,000 former candidates from a five-year penalty for failing to file expense reports on time.

The bill, signed last week by Gov. John J. Gilligan, will take effect July 23.

Before the legislature passed the bill in early April, a joint conference committee added a provision that would disqualify late filers from seeking office for one year and eliminate the five-year penalty.

The one-year penalty was removed from the bill before it was approved, but the five-year penalty was not reinstated.

James Marsh, assistant secretary of state, said the measure eliminates the five-year penalty, and contains only monetary penalties for late filing.

Brown is sending a directive to county boards of elections this week authorizing them to reject a candidate's petition if it violates the election law. But there is nothing prohibiting acceptance of a petition if a candidate was disqualified under the previous law, Brown said.

Other Statehouse sources contend the law applies only to future candidates. They point out that retroactive laws are unconstitutional in Ohio.

State Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-4 Middletown, is one of the candidates who would be affected by Brown's interpretation.

Lukens was barred from seeking public office until 1978 after his 1972 state senate campaign expense report was filed late. Lukens said he had mailed an expense statement on time, but that it was lost in the mail.

The President returned several times to the theme of what would happen to the United States if he is impeached, and he stressed how it would affect America's role as a world power.

Asserting that, "We live in a time of very great challenge and great opportunity for America," he provided his assessment of what could happen under a continued Nixon administration:

"We live at a time when peace may become possible in the Middle East, for the first time in a generation."

"We are at last in the process of fulfilling the hope of mankind, for a limitation on nuclear arms—a process that will continue when I meet with the Soviet leaders in Moscow in a few weeks."

"We are well on the way toward building a peace that can last, not just for this, but for other generations as well."

Turning to domestic matters, Nixon said, "There is vital work to be done in moving to control inflation, to develop our energy resources, to strengthen our economy so that Americans can enjoy what they have not had since 1956: Full prosperity without war and without inflation."

He said the voluminous materials he is making public "will provide all the additional evidence needed to get Watergate behind us, and to get it behind us now."

"Every day absorbed by Watergate is a day lost from the work that must be done—by your President and by your Congress—work that must be done in dealing with the great problems that affect your prosperity, affect your security, that could affect your lives."

Ohio lottery tickets ordered by board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's first lottery tickets, described as "a four-month's supply, are being ordered from a Philadelphia firm at a cost of $119,000."

The State Controlling Board approved the purchase Monday after being told they will be printed by the Globe Ticket Co. at a cost of $17.71 per thousand sheets. Delivery is expected by June 24, a spokesman for the Department of Administrative Services said.

In other business, the board approved $3,119,000 in additional costs growing out of the tragic tornadoes that wrecked the Xenia area April 3.

Of the total, all but $119,000 went for repairs to the campus of Central State University. The adjunct general's office received $119,000 to pay the remainder of costs of the Ohio National Guard for its service in the storm area.

Along with an earlier allocation for the guard, its total rose to $798,000. The latest amount was for the period from April 11 through April 22 — last day guardsmen were on duty in the area.

In other business, the board approved:

—Release of $1.4 million for the University of Akron's Institute of Polymer Science addition.

—Authorized spending $1.1 million by Kent State University for physical education and other facilities at its Trumbull County branch.

—Authorized the release of $2.3 million for a new technical building and renovation work at Ohio University's Zanesville branch.

—Approved $160,000 and $100,000 for planning at Ohio State University's Mansfield and Marion campuses, respectively.

—Okayed four land purchases totaling slightly more than $1 million for Youngstown State University, most of it for property at the corner of Lincoln Ave. and Phelps St., Youngstown.

—Released $335,764 to the Ohio Board of Regents to purchase equipment for technical institutes at a total of 17 locations.

—Authorized the Department of Natural Resources to spend $26,200 for acquisition of more land for Kelleys Island State Park, and $107,500 for a 75-acre addition to Punderson State Park in Geauga County.

Lame duck junkets

The public benefits derived from congressional travel abroad at public expense are at best somewhat "iffy" in many cases.

Still, one may be inclined to give members of Congress the benefit of the doubt when they head for distant places in supposed pursuance of an obligation to inform themselves about their concerns as lawmakers.

Downright skepticism is warranted, though, when — as happens every year — we hear about lame duck senators or representatives traveling overseas. In such cases it is often hard to find any justification at all for spending tax money.

Examples are instructive. Rep.

Why object to Cuba?

WASHINGTON — If you refuse — as I do — to have favorite dictatorships, you are constantly on somebody's blacklist.

For some reason or other, perfectly intelligent, nice people get furious when you inquire why we should boycott Rhodesian chrome and buy it from the Soviet Union. I met with some concerned clerics recently who have been trying to get American universities to rid their investment portfolios of South African stocks — they didn't even smile when I asked if Chase Manhattan should be penalized for establishing a Moscow branch (and or Karl Marx Street, at that).

I gathered they thought I was letting down the side, and perhaps a racist to boot.

Admittedly, I would like to live in a world composed of free nations — I reject the essentially patronizing notion that democracy is simply not appropriate for the "Third World."

But I don't confuse my hopes with reality: the democratic nations at the U.N. could caucus in a small conference room. Indeed, I have long suspected that a secret ballot would find a U.N. majority convinced that representative, free government is dangerous and inherently unstable.

WITH THIS IN MIND, what can one say about the American position on Castro's Cuba? For openers, it is silly. At a time when we find pictures of President Nixon hugging Soviet Party chief Brezhnev, why should Cuba be left out in the cold? Chairman Mao has probably eliminated more Chinese opponents in any of the last three decades than there are people in Cuba.

Cuban history since the Eisenhower Administration has been interesting, in large part because of the myths involved. First of all, Castro would possibly still be in the hills if the United States, in the late 1950s, had not abandoned Batista.

I hold no brief for Batista — he was a tin-pot dictator — but it is vital to realize that American policy opened the road to Castro.

Once the word got out, the Cuban

The party is going by way of Greece, Turkey and Bulgaria, with a weekend stopoff in Paris on the way home.

Utah's retiring Sen. Wallace F. Bennett and Rep. Thomas S. Gettys

of South Carolina, who won't be around Capitol Hill after his present term either, are on a recess trip to Malaysia. In Kuala Lumpur they will be among "observers" as Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz — also outgoing — takes part in an Asian Development Bank meeting.

Participation in such journeys by lawmakers who will continue on the job may, in varying degree, ultimately serve the public interest. How that interest is served by the participation at public expense of those in the last few months of their public service escapes us.

That derogatory word, "junket," comes insistently to mind.

which in 1956 was on the edge of economic take-off (with the highest per capita income in Latin America), has become a model outdoor slum.

(It has gotten so bad that all the good "Cuban" cigars now come from Tampa, the Canary Islands and Honduras. The home-made ones taste as though they had been filled with pulverized tobacco roots. This, in my judgment, ranks as one of the real tragedies of the Cold War.)

Now the Organization of American States (OAS) is considering Cuban readmission. Secretary of State Kissinger, after delivering the patent-orifice speech on inter-American partnership, stated that we have yet to consider the Cuban issue on the merits.

It seems to me that as long as the Soviets have to pick up the tab, there is no sensible reason why we should object. In other words, let us normalize relations, get good tobacco for the Tampa cigarmakers (mostly Cuban refugees), but insist that the Soviets send Castro his monthly welfare checks.

Our relations, after all, are not based on love: we simply do business with the characters who run various kinds of regimes. That is, unless we have favorite dictatorships and play with a double moral standard.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 1

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

A day for distinguished planning and achievement. No circuitous road for you, nor lack of enthusiasm! Some of your objectives are close to attainment.

TAURUS

(April; 21 to May 21)

Good stellar influences should encourage you to step out and try for bigger gains. Accelerate your pace, but do not reduce effectiveness by scattering energies.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Your chances for advancement in cherished pursuits are good now, but don't go too far out on the proverbial limb and don't go off on tangents.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Stars indicate that you could now strike out for a higher goal. You may have to take a different route to achieve it, but the new avenue could be a better one.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Unique ideas, thoughtfully presented — and at the right time — could bring new gains now. A good period, also, for making long-range plans.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Objectivity and foresight will be this day's prime requirements. Do not be coerced into deals or activities which you would not normally consider.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Your artistry may be so stimulated now that you wonder where all your ideas come from. But just follow them to their logical conclusion and you'll be amazed at results.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

It may be your turn to take the initiative now, but be as careful in details as you would be in major issues.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Even though you disagree, LISTEN to others. Their methods may be different but possibly are as good or better than yours. Discuss, don't hassle.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Channel efforts where they will serve advantageously, where your unusual talents are recognized and appreciated. Don't be led off a constructive course.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

The Piscean is noted for his generosity, but don't let excessive sympathy or emotions divert your altruism into unwise channels. Use good judgment.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine intellect, lofty ambitions and the tenacity required to attain them. The fields in which you can succeed are almost endless since your versatility is outstanding. You have definite inclinations toward art, but are also attracted to science (especially in the medical and research fields); could succeed in the law, diplomacy, music or practically any area of the entertainment world. Do not let tendencies toward willfulness and obstinacy alienate those who have your best interests at heart.

Demo quits Cincy Council

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati City Council was shaken Monday by the unexpected resignation of Vice Mayor Gerald Springer, who was to succeed Theodore Berry as mayor in December.

The announcement leaves only one Democrat now on the council, although the party scored a sweeping victory last fall.

Springer cited "very personal family considerations" for his resignation. The 30-year-old New York native had been one of the Democrats' top vote-getters since entering local politics in 1970.

"My family must and does come before my own political career," Springer said in a message left at his City Hall office.

The move came a day before Springer was to meet with Democratic leaders to assist in the selection of a successor to fill U.S. Rep. Thomas Luken's vacant council seat. Luken was elected in March in a special election to fill the chair of U.S. Rep. William Keating, who resigned to become president of The Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mayor court dispute flares

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Backers call it a bill whose time has arrived. Opponents contend it is a pork barrel attempt to usurp local authority.

What they are arguing over is a controversial measure that would abolish the some 500 mayors' courts in operation around the state.

Similar legislation has been introduced in every session of the legislature for the past dozen years, but the latest attempt is different.

The difference has backers of mayors' courts worried.

In an effort to get support for his bill, Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, had the measure amended to create 38 new judgeships throughout the state.

Wilkowski admits it is pork barrel legislation.

"Frankly, without creating the new judgeships we would never have gotten the bill out of committee."

It came out — just barely — the day prior to the spring legislative recess. It is now in the House Rules Committee, which can schedule it for a floor vote.

Wilkowski said he hopes to get the bill out of the Rules Committee May 8 and have it on the House floor May 15, the day after the full legislature convenes.

"I have 45 votes counted for it and that is not including a single Republican vote," he said. "I think there are at least four Republicans who will vote for it."

Wilkowski said his main worry will be attendance after the primary.

"Some of the members who are defeated may not show up," he said. Wilkowski said in that case he would try to delay the May 15 floor vote.

The Toledo legislator said he believed the costs of the new judges would be worth the price. "You can't put a dollar figure on justice," he said, "and there is little justice in mayors' courts."

Wilkowski and his supporters believe mayors' courts are little more than revenue-producing sources for municipalities. Many mayors agreed.

"It is the worst kind of justice," said Richard Broughton, former mayor of suburban Upper Arlington. "As a mayor I know. I practiced it."

Broughton said there always was a tendency for a mayor acting as a judge to back his policemen to the fullest, even if they could be wrong.

"They don't want to go against their police officers," he said, "because good ones are hard to find. You try to keep them happy."

Rep. Raymond Luther, R-1 Newark, opposes the bill, contending mayors' courts should remain.

"Nobody knows the problems a person may have like the mayor in a small community," he said. "Anybody who doesn't want to be tried by one can always transfer the case to a municipal court."

Wilkowski counted that few people know of that provision of the law and that few mayors inform them of that right.

Dear Abby:

Young mother really is husband's sister

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago, when I married Peter, we were both 30 years old. I recall that when he introduced me to his mother, I said: "My what a young-looking mother you have!" (That's what everybody says when they first meet her. She looks about Peter's age.)

After being in this family for ten years, I found out accidentally that Peter's "mother" is not his mother at all. She is his sister! He calls her "Mom." She is only 14 years older than Peter. His real mother died when he was an infant, and his sister raised him after she got married. (Peter was 2 and she was 16.) Why everyone keeps this a big secret is beyond me. It also bugs me because I'm sure everyone wonders how come Peter has such a young-looking mother and such an old looking wife.

It would make me feel a lot better if their relationship were to come out. Would it be wrong for me to spill the beans?

PETER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes. If Peter and his family prefer to keep it a secret, keep quiet. "Mom" may not be Peter's biological mother, but she's the only mother he has ever known, and if it gives him (and her) pleasure to perpetuate the illusion, don't destroy it.

DEAR ABBY: I am having a difference of opinion with my mother. I just started dating and my mother says that when my date comes to pick me up I should be upstairs dressing, and keep him waiting about ten minutes.

I think that when my date rings the doorbell I should be the one to answer it. My mom says that if I do, it will make me look too eager. What do you say?

CANDI

DEAR CANDI: I say that at the sound of the bell, come out smiling. I once knew a girl who kept her date waiting half an hour every time he came to pick her up because she didn't want to appear too eager. She'd send her kid sister to answer the door and entertain her date while he waited. (P.S. He married the kid sister.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a pet peeve I have never seen aired in your column. It's women who wear heavy charm bracelets that go "jingle, jangle, clunkety clunk" in church.

This friend of mine always wears a bracelet like that, and she insists on saving me a seat in church beside her. She always picks a seat down in front and in the middle. Every time she moves her hand, those charm bracelets make a dreadful racket, which is annoying to those sitting near us and embarrassing to me. (I've even seen the organist turn around and give her dirty looks between hymns.)

What is wrong with people like my friend? Don't they know any better? Or don't they care? And how can I tell her without hurting her feelings? She doesn't take criticism very well. LIKES CHURCH-HATES BRACELETS

DEAR LIKES: If your friend isn't aware that her bracelets are annoying to you and others, do the friendly thing and tell her. Then, if she doesn't leave the hardware home, find another seat as far from her as possible.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, April 30, the 120th day of 1974. There are 245 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1789, George Washington was inaugurated as the first President of the United States, at Federal Hall in New York.

On this date: In 1798, the U.S. Navy Department was created by an act of Congress.

In 1803, the Louisiana Purchase was made from France. The size of the United States was more than doubled.

In 1812, Louisiana was admitted to the Union as the 18th state.

In 1900, the engineer of a famous American folk song, Casey Jones, was killed in a train wreck at Vaughan, Miss.

In 1915, wireless communication was established between the District of Columbia and the Panama Canal Zone.

In 1945, Moscow announced that the Soviet flag had been raised over the ruins of the Reichstag in Berlin.

Ten years ago ... the Soviet Union was reported putting out feelers about establishing relations with the European Common Market.

Five years ago ... there were artillery battles along the Suez Canal after an Israeli commando raid deep inside Egypt.

One year ago ... White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman; President Nixon's chief domestic adviser, John D. Ehrlichman; Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, and White House counsel John W. Dean left office as the Watergate scandal mushroomed.

Today's birthdays: Queen Juliana of the Netherlands is 65 years old. Conductor Robert Shaw is 58.

Thought for today: Who gives to me teaches me to give — a Dutch saying.

NEW YORK (AP) — Alan Alda has a system for fighting homesickness when he's in Los Angeles filming "M-A-S-H." He writes. But because of this system he'll have to work doubly hard this summer and next fall.

He now has a second CBS series to worry about. It's "We'll Get By," a half-hour comedy show coming up in September. Alda created it, has written six scripts for it and will be its coproducer.

Alda, who lives in suburban New Jersey with his wife and three kids when "M-A-S-H" isn't shooting, was at home with them, toiling at the typewriter, when asked how he found time to write the new show.

"Well, I'm out there (Hollywood) by myself," he said. "And because my family's back here in New Jersey, I keep myself busy with work so I don't get lonely. So I'd write at night and on weekends."

The new show isn't the first TV writing he's done. The Manhattan-born actor said he'd written two "M-A-S-H" scripts that were filmed and a pilot for another proposed series ABC turned

Charles Fry fights for identity

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

BLANCHESTER, Ohio (AP) — It was another long campaign day for Charles E. Fry when he walked into Chester Bates' accounting office in Blancheater, passing out literature and shaking hands.

Bates was an old classmate from Ohio State, so Fry took a few minutes to exchange pleasantries. Then Bates wrote out a $75 check for the Fry campaign.

"When are you up for re-election, Charlie?" Bates asked.

Fry's smile flickered for a second, then quickly returned.

"I'm in the May 7 primary, Chester," he said, "for the nomination for governor."

Bates seemed taken aback. "You're running for governor? Against Jim Rhodes?"

He paused for a second, thinking. "I didn't realize that," Bates said, handing over the check. "Boy, Charlie, you've got a tough row to hoe."

Fry kept on smiling. A 12-year member of the General Assembly, former speaker pro tem of the House, voted outstanding first-term senator, a member of the so-called Little Hoover Commission and a former special agent for the FBI, Fry knows his biggest problem in the primary is that no one knows who he is or that he's running.

He's working hard to keep former Gov. James A. Rhodes from winning by default.

"You can't deny that the name recognition factor is a problem," said Russ Adams, Fry's campaign consultant. Adams' firm also handled the campaign of U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio.

"He hasn't really capitalized on the matters of state that he's been involved with," Adams said. "He does his job, and he doesn't take advantage of his position."

The anonymity of the legislature means that Fry is spending the last two weeks before the election on an exhausting, 12-hour a day whistlestop bus tour through the state.

He's spending his campaign funds on radio spots, trying to get the name across.

And he pounds away on what he calls his number one plank — integrity in government.

"We're going to take the lead in giving Ohio the most honest government in the nation," Fry says. "This is an issue we can carry."

Fry contends Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan is vulnerable on the question of integrity. But he says Rhodes can't capitalize on the issue because of questions raised about the Rhodes administration.

"We need someone who doesn't need to be defensive about his own record," Fry said, "and that isn't Jim Rhodes."

We're going to take what could be an issue against Republicans and turn it to our advantage."

Fry says if Rhodes does win the nomination, he will lose to Gilligan in November. And he's afraid the rest of the Republican ticket may follow.

"It's going to be a tough campaign," he said. "And it's going to be particularly tough for all Republicans if Jim Rhodes heads the ticket."

Royal Chapter, OES, has 80th inspection

One hundred and twenty members and guests assembled in the Masonic Temple for the 80th annual inspection. Mrs. Jessie Denen, Worthy Matron, and Robert Whitaker, Worthy Patron, opened the chapter meeting.

Distinguished guests were introduced: Past Grand Matron and Grand Trustees Irene E. Thornburg, Robert K. South, Past Grand Matron, also a Grand Trustee of Springboro.

Grand officers presented were Associate Grand Patron Raymond E. Belfrage of Reynoldsburg, and Kay Black, Grand Esther of New Holland; Deputy Grand Matron Mrs. Loraine Latham of Waverly, inspecting Grand Officer; and Grand Representatives of other Grand Jurisdiction in Ohio: District of Columbia, Mrs. Margaret Swank of Chillicothe; California, Mrs. Dottie Belfrage of Reynoldsburg; Michigan, Mrs. Elsie Schoenian of Glaston; Nova Scotia, Mrs. Georgia Powell; and Oregon, Mrs. Katherine Stoud.

Worthy Matrons and Worthy Patrons of other chapters were also introduced as well as Past Matrons and Past Patrons of Royal Chapter No. 29.

Fifty-year pins were presented to Mrs. Emma Kelley, Mrs. Ida Kaufman and Robert Rothrock by Past Grand Matron Irene E. Thornburg. Rella Silcot was to receive her 50-year pin but was unable to be present.

Also recognized and welcomed were honored Masons Ronnie Sears and David Six, who is also a trustee of the OES Home in Mount Vernon. Past Grand appointments were recognized and welcomed.

An initiatory ceremony was conducted for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Applegate and Mr. Charles Ellis.

Marvin Thornburg, Associate Patron, presented the new members with a white Bible.

Music was presented by Pauline Benfield. The 'sunshine' offering was given to the Fire Safety Code at the OES Home in Mount Vernon.

Mrs. Loraine Latham, inspecting officer, complimented the officers on the work and records, which were found to be in perfect condition.

The tea table was graced with an arrangement of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Deane Powell was chairman of refreshments with committee members Mrs. Smith Mace, Mrs. Charles Hurtt and Mrs. Lillian Williams.

On the registration committee were Mrs. Russell Giebelhouse, Mrs. Ruth Jenkins, Mrs. Russell Miller and Mrs. Frank Terrell.

Balzers observe silver anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George Balzer of 612 W. Oakland Ave., are observing their 25th wedding today (Tuesday). Mr. Balzer and Doris Jean Schumacher were married in Frankfort in the Methodist parsonage by the Rev. J.L. Burton.

Mr. Balzer is employed at Cudahy Foods Company here.

They are the parents of a son, Brian, and a daughter, Mrs. Terry (Brenda Kay) Morris, Rt. 4, and have two granddaughters, Teresa and Jennifer.

Class meets in Purcell home

Miss Florence Purcell welcomed the Friendship Circle Class of the Bloomingburg United Methodist Church to her home recently. Mr. William Purcell, vice president, conducted the meeting. Devotions, presented by Mrs. Charley Hughes, consisted of a poem "One Knee" and the group sang a hymn. Mrs. Frank Slager read a humorous poem and the group repeated the Lord's Prayer.

Various reports were made.

Money Does Matter . . .

By Robert E. English

BANKERS NOW MUST REALLY BE POSITIVE THINKERS!

"Let's see if we can work this out" is a POSITIVE approach which resourceful, successful bankers characteristically use these days.

Gone is the old cold, austere "image" of a banker whose one conservative answer was generally "No!"

Sincerely concerned about helping individuals and merchants, business and industry work out their problems — that is the breed of bankers who are handling today's financial affairs.

The banking business has become highly competitive. To succeed, a bank has to lend money and must not only conform to strict governmental regulations but be sincerely concerned and involved in helping today's often confused individual — helping him work out the complexities in handling his personal money matters.

Today's "commercial bank" is more than a bank for business and industry. It just has to be a warm, friendly, concerned place

'Spring Carousel' is theme of ESA charity ball

Mahan Hall was gaily decorated in pink and white for the annual 'Charity Ball' of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, Saturday evening. Approximately 130 couples enjoyed the evening and danced to the music of Herkie Coe and The Wellington's.

Carrying out the theme of the dance, "Spring Carousel", the tables featured miniature pink and white carousels with tiny animals riding around. On the walls were darling baby animals riding on pink and white polls. White streamers hung from the ceiling and various stuffed animals were found about the room.

The main door prize was a blender, donated by a local drugstore.

The Alpha Theta chapter and its president, Mrs. Clyde Cramer, and Beta Omega chapter and Mrs. Jack Shoemaker, president, were in charge of the "fun" evening.

A check for the proceeds of the dance, which will go to Fayette Memorial Hospital, will be presented at a later date.

Miss Milstead bride-elect is feted

A bridal shower complimenting Miss Lynn Milstead, bride-elect of Rick Lewis, was held in the home of Mrs. Richard Houseman and daughter, Jacie.

Prizes for contests conducted were won by Miss Elaine Houseman, Mrs. Robert Sollars, Mrs. Donald Moore, Mrs. Kenneth Houseman and Mrs. Harry Houseman, who in turn, presented them to the guest of honor.

The gifts were arranged on a table covered with an orange and yellow cloth, and centered with an arrangement of spring flowers. Orange and yellow streamers completed the setting.

Each guest was given a corsage made by the hostess and refreshments of cake, coffee, mints and nuts were served by Miss Jackie Mitchell and Miss Elaine Houseman to Mrs. John Milstead, bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Leonard Milstead and Mrs. Dorothy Bowen, grandmothers of the bride-elect, Mrs. Allen Lewis, prospective groom's mother, Mrs. Roy Dill, Mrs. Richard Bonner and daughter Belinda, Mrs. James DeWitt, Mrs. Robert Sollars, Mrs. Jack Jack.

Also Mrs. Tiffin Houseman, Mrs. Gary Albright, Mrs. Kenneth Houseman, Mrs. Wayne Houseman and daughter, Elaine, Mrs. Harry Houseman, Mrs. Donald Moore, Mrs. Mahline Axline, Mrs. Ethel Long, Mrs. Oleeta Stewart, Mrs. Everett Blakeley, Mrs. Oyer Williams, Mrs. Ralph Cheetum, Mrs. Andy McCann and Miss Susan Milstead.

Trojan Squares guests of Jud-I-Ques

The Jud-I-Ques Western Square Dance Club was visited by the Trojan Squares of Troy recently. They were accompanied by their club caller, Jess Fugate, who called part of the tips along with Jim Lambert, the Jud-I-Ques caller. They 'stole' the club's banner and at least eight couples will have to attend one of their dances to retrieve it.

Attending in addition to local members were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Copeland and Brenda, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Copeland, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holman, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Minnich, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Coate, all of Troy and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Shaton of the Belles and Beaus of Chillicothe, also attended.

Members of the club attending the Spring Fling Dance at Howey Rd. Armory in Columbus were Mr. and Mrs. Lambert, Mrs. Willard Judy, Mr. and Mrs. James Puckett and Mr. and Mrs. Loran Guthrie. This dance was sponsored by the Central Ohio Callers Association.

Record speaks for self: Controls failed

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With economic activity declining at the steepest rate in 16 years and inflation raging at its hottest since 1951, the country today ends its first peacetime experiment with wage and price controls.

No matter what explanations are given for permitting the Economic Stabilization Act to expire at midnight, the record speaks for itself: Controls failed. Inflation is worse than ever, and the economic outlook is confused.

In the first quarter of the year the nation's gross national product, or total output of its goods and services, declined 5.8 per cent. At the same time, price rose at an annual rate of 10.8 per cent over-all, 14 per cent for consumer items.

Strongly suggesting that the inflation problem not only is with us but even growing worse is sharp rise in interest rates the past few months through the money market.

It appears now that interest rates bear almost the entire responsibility for restraining inflation. The prime lending rate for top corporate customers is close to 11 per cent and headed higher, perhaps to 12.

And with this rise in interest rates are coming some serious disruptions to an orderly economy. Money is flowing out of a money pinch.

Some economists foresee a real money crunch coming up because, in spite of those high interest rates, many corporations continue to make expansion plans. In fact, capital spending plans are 13 per cent higher than a year ago.

It can be argued, therefore, that monetary policy also is failing to discourage spending. And if business is

Claim Phillips cruel to horse

LONDON (AP) — Capt. Mark Phillips, Queen Elizabeth's son-in-law, has been accused of being cruel to a horse.

The complaint was leveled by Mrs. Jeane Pyke, who made it after watching Phillips ride a horse named Columbus to victory in the grueling Badminton Horse Trials during the weekend.

"Capt. Phillips obviously terrified Columbus, forcing him over some of those terrible jumps," said Mrs. Pyke, who watched the event on television. She said that Great Britain's Protection of Animals act makes it an offense to "terrify, beat, kick, torture or infuriate an animal."

Mrs. Pyke said she would ask a court to look into the matter. There was no comment from Buckingham Palace.

Service Notes

In outstanding unit

Richard S. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kibler R. Roberts, Rt. 1, Greenfield, is assigned to a Strategic Air Command organization that recently received the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

Capt. Roberts is a judge advocate at Minot AFB, N.D., with a unit of the 91st Strategic Missile Wing which was cited for meritorious service from July 1, 1972 to June 30, 1973.

A 1963 graduate of McClain High School, he received his B.A. degree in 1967 from Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware and was commissioned there through the Reserve Officers Training Corps program. He earned his J.D. degree in 1969 from the University of Michigan.

willing to continue to pay such high rates, almost inevitably it will be reflected in higher prices.

But the immediate verdict on controls isn't the final answer to the question of whether the federal government can or should play an effective role by intervening directly in the marketplace. That question still is debated.

A good many economists of various leanings maintain the Nixon administration never fully believed in controls, even though it resorted to them. That move, they feel, was largely political.

If the administration had unequivocally stated its faith in the power of wage-price restraints, it is argued, they might have been more effective. Instead, its doubts were revealed time after time.

Will the surge of prices recede without controls? The issue still divides economists, although many note that the factors responsible for price increases seem to have abated.

Agricultural output has improved, for example, and the big surge in oil prices already has taken place. These were the two areas of greatest trouble.

Moreover, the economic boom that seemed to occur in countries the world over at the same time seems to be fading. And there are indications that major industrial nations are less willing to tolerate excessive monetary growth.

At the same time, however, all the world's nations are dedicated to improving output, even if it strains their production facilities. And that's how the smoldering rags of industrial society eventually burst into flames.

If the world's governments are committed to accelerating their production to the limit, some economists believe they should be required also to step directly into the marketplace with brakes.

Manhole cover theft under council study

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland City Council has been asked to make theft of manhole covers a criminal offense. The request followed the fatal plunge of Jennifer Hill, 4, through an open manhole.

Councilman Joseph M. Kowalski, in making the request, also recommended that the covers be sealed or bolted in place. He said they often were stolen despite the need for special equipment for prying them up.

PAINTINGS STOLEN — Sir Alfred and Lady Beit stand in front of their home, Rusborough House, in Blessington, Ireland, about 15 miles from Dublin, after armed thieves invaded their home and stole paintings valued at more than $20 million.

Goodwill replaces collection boxes

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Goodwill Industries say it is replacing the bright yellow collection boxes which for years have been recipients of discarded clothing, household goods, personal items and, from time to time people.

"Yes," Goodwill Operations Director Robert Aylsworth admitted. "I have heard of people being trapped in boxes. They sometimes drop things in that they don't mean to drop, then try to climb in after them."

The new system will have attendants at trailers which the organization hopes will eliminate "the terrible vandalism problems and other disturbing factors related to deposit boxes."

The new system opens today.

Problems? Aylsworth said he occasionally gets calls from people who have dropped car keys or a ring in a collection box.

Then there was the woman had a fight with her husband and "threw all his clothes in the collection box."

"He had walked out on her, but then they made up, and she was down here frantically looking for his clothes," he added.

The collection boxes, while large enough to accommodate comfortably someone looking for a place to sleep for

Supreme Court upholds EPA authority

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency said it is "very pleased" with a U.S. Supreme Court ruling Monday affirming the U.S. EPA's authority to apply emission standards to power generating plants.

A spokesman for the Ohio EPA said the ruling upholds state regulations taken from EPA standards.

The high court upheld a U.S. Circuit Court decision in the case involving four Midwest power companies, despite the companies' charge that the EPA failed to discuss alternate pollution control methods and measure costs against the benefits of the method it chose.

EPA standards significantly curtail use of high-sulfur coal to generate electricity. The companies involved, the Appalachian Power Co., Indiana and Michigan Electric Co., Kentucky Power Co. and Ohio Power Co., said it is "absolutely necessary" that they continue to rely on coal from northern Appalachia, the Midwest, and northern Rocky Mountains.

They argued that uncertain supplies, shortages and growing demands make use of the coal indispensable.

A spokesman for the Ohio Power Co., based in Canton, had no comment Monday on the ruling, saying all officials involved were out of town.

The four companies involved rely almost exclusively on coal, they said. Noreen Wills, public information officer for the Ohio EPA, said Monday's decision applies to new power generating facilities.

The Ohio EPA has been holding hearings since March 4 concerning regulations governing existing power generating plants.

the night, "fill too fast," Aylsworth said.

"The stuff runs over and creates a mess," he added. "Then, people would bring items too big or too heavy and set them outside. Also, kids get into them and spread everything around."

Aylsworth said the attendant system being started on a demonstration basis today represents the biggest change in Goodwill's 56-year history.

The new center is a large, van-type truck trailer.

"When they fill one trailer, it will be towed away and replaced by an empty one," Aylsworth said.

But the main thing is that centers will have attendants available eight hours a day, six days a week to watch over the contents and police the surrounding areas, he said.

Attendants also will provide receipts, which donors can use with income tax returns.

And there's no big chute that donors may fall in and get trapped.

5-member council studies health plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A five-member council appointed by Atty. Gen. William J. Brown will develop a public health plan to use over $1.5 million in unclaimed consumer funds from a 1968 antitrust settlement with five drug companies.

Members of the Consumer Health Fund Advisory Council are William D. Ginn, president of the Ohio Citizens Council on Health and Welfare; Charles W. Edgar, Ohio State Medical Association; Dr. John Cashman, director of the Ohio Health Department; Dr. Kenneth D. Gaver, director of the Ohio Mental Health and Mental Retardation Department; and Dr. Henry G. Cramblett, dean of the Ohio State University College of Medicine.

Michael DeAngelo, assistant to Brown will serve as chairman.

The first basketball game was played on Jan. 20, 1892, in Springfield, Mass., and the first with fledgling fans on March 11 of that year.

KLONTZ

Armco Steel Corp.'s decision to open a new Metal Products Division plant in Longview, Tex., for the manufacture of steel buildings has resulted in a number of changes in the Washington C.H. organization.

The following changes were announced Monday afternoon by Edward C. Vollette, general manager of the Washington C.H. operation who also will be general manager of the Texas plant:

J.R. Hanawalt is promoted to general superintendent, Washington C.H. plant;

P.D. Wolford is promoted to superintendent - production services here;

Hargis Ramey is promoted to supervisor - scheduling;

Wesley Wilson is promoted to supervisor - order department;

Paul V. Johnson is promoted to superintendent - shipping and color - Washington C.H. plant;

Russell Klontz is promoted to supervisor - quality control;

Lee Lynch, superintendent of shipping and color here is promoted to superintendent of the Longview, Tex., plant;

Chester Maple, engineer in Washington C.H., is promoted to engineer - Longview, Tex., plant;

Philip Morrow personnel advisor at the local plant, is promoted to office supervisor, Longview, Tex. plant.

The Longview plant, smaller than the Washington C.H. installation, will operate under the supervision of the Washington C.H. management.

Ground was broken for the construction of the new plant on April 4 and actual construction is under way. It is expected that full operations of the Texas plant will begin in April, 1975.

The Washington C.H. plant presently employs 578 people.

Green Beret units being cut back

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Special Forces, once this country's glamour troops, are being cut back again as the Army builds a new elite force of light infantry.

Army officials say the strength of the Green Berets is being reduced to about 5,000 men with the withdrawal of the last 1,400 special forces troopers from the Taiwan and Okinawa by June 30. The peak strength was 11,700 in 1968.

When the pullout was announced some time ago, it was indicated the men would be sent to Special Forces units in the United States.

But officials now say most will be reassigned to other Army duties and that many will be encouraged to join three new battalions of Rangers to be formed.

Although the numbers involved are small, the decline of the Special Forces underscores a shift from major concern about guerrilla warfare toward highly mobile units tailored to fight conventional battles in Europe and possibly the Middle East.

The Green Berets got their big boost in the early 1960s when President John F. Kennedy and his advisers feared Communist China and Russia would promote guerrilla style "wars of national liberation" in Asia, Latin America and Africa.

Kennedy administration officials believed the tough, versatile forces, operating in small teams, could be instrumental in helping developing countries overcome such insurgencies.

In South Vietnam, where they reached their zenith, the special forces recruited, taught and led Vietnamese irregulars in reconnoitering and harassing North Vietnamese infiltrators. Sometimes they made forays into neighboring Cambodia and Southern Laos for this purpose.

The only Green Berets overseas will be a battalion in Germany and another in the Panama Canal Zone. Special Forces training teams from the Canal Zone have been helping some Latin American governments troubled by insurgency problems.

Meanwhile, the planned formation of three Ranger battalions represents a revival of a force created in World War II, when the Rangers were modeled after the British Commandos.

The aim of the new program is to provide specially trained light infantry units that can be moved where needed in a crisis even more swiftly than airborne battalions because they will be unencumbered by artillery, vehicles and other heavy equipment.

Numbering 588 officers and men, Ranger battalions will be about 200 fewer in strength than conventional Army battalions. Their biggest weapon will be 90mm recoilless guns, lightweight but heavy hitting. Each battalion will have only two jeeps and no other rolling stock.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED

Edgar L. Matthews, 1225 N. North St., has filed a damage suit in Common Pleas Court seeking $10,000 against the Ohio Water Service Co., 149 S. Fayette St.

The plaintiff alleges in the petition that the Ohio Water Service Co. installed a water line on his property for the purpose of pumping water to and from its reservoir to tanks located in Washington C.H.

Matthews demands that the court issue a permanent injunction upon the defendant and also order the water company to remove the pipeline from the property. The plaintiff also seeks $10,000 in damages for intentional trespass.

Hearing scheduled in officer's slaying

CLEVELAND, Ohio, (AP)—Anthony Roden, 21, of Cleveland, was scheduled to face preliminary hearing in Cleveland Municipal Court on Wednesday on a charge of aggravated murder in the slaying of a Cleveland policeman.

Patrolman William Shapiro was killed Friday by a pointblank blast from a shotgun while he and other officers investigated sniper reports on Cleveland's East Side.

Roden was being held in Cuyahoga County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.

Commissioners back Rattlesnake inquiry

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday afternoon adopted a resolution supporting a preliminary investigation concerning the proposed Rattlesnake Creek Watershed.

Commissioners, with the adoption of the resolution, joined a number of other area organizations, including Washington C.H. City Council and the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce who had earlier adopted similar resolutions supporting the preliminary investigation.

The proposed watershed project

Designer cuts dress prices

NEW YORK (AP) — The same inflation that is forcing middle-income Americans to switch from steak to casseroles is causing upper-crust consumers to cut back on the luxuries of life—those $3,000 evening dresses, for example.

That's why designer George Halley, who showed his fall collection on Monday, slashed prices drastically, cutting them by 90 per cent at the wholesale level.

Halley's prices used to start at $800—wholesale: Posh clothes with four-figure price tags that drew widespread publicity.

Flash flooding sweeps Texas

By The Associated Press

Thundershowers rolled along a line from Texas to western New York today, causing flash flooding in the Lone Star state.

The southwest Texas communities of Longfellow and Sanderson, swamped by up to 6 inches of rain, were hit by flash floods along the Rio Grande and its tributaries. A passenger train was delayed during the night at Longfellow, waiting for the waters to subside.

Flood watches were posted for other areas of Texas and parts of Oklahoma. Two inches of rain soaked Oklahoma City during the night.

Prayer Breakfast attendance grows

Attendance at the Teen Prayer Breakfast at the South Side Church of Christ climbed to 84 Tuesday morning. There were 25 freshmen, 21 sophomores, 25 juniors, eight seniors and five teachers present.

"The Lost Christ" was the theme for the meditation time led by the Rev. Charles J. Richmond. Gina Upthegrove and Linda Hollingsworth, sophomore at Washington Senior High School, led the singing. Kevin Pfeifer, also a sophomore, offered prayer.

Mrs. Patty Cox, who has headed up the kitchen staff for the past five years, spoke to the group on "The Game Plan of Life." She said the basic rule is to "do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Her son Garth, a senior at Washington dismissed the group with prayer.

The Prayer Breakfasts are made possible through contributions for churches, businesses, individuals, and organizations interested in our youth.

The next one will be next Tuesday at 6:45 a.m.

Tappan plans acquisition of Lawson firm

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—A pair of kitchen cabinet manufacturers, Tappan Co. of Mansfield and F. H. Lawson Co., Cincinnati, plan for Tappan to acquire Lawson, if directors approve.

The firms announced Monday they have signed a letter of intent.

Spokesmen said the acquisition probably would entail giving Lawson shareholders a combination of notes and Tappan stock, but details of the plan weren't announced.

Lawson, with plants in Ohio and Tennessee, also makes housewares, office and institutional products and city litter containers. Tappan is a manufacturer of major home appliances and air conditioning and heating equipment.

Pierson, who has been involved in the rodeo business for 15 years, explained to Kiwanians that he is closely associated with the Ohio Rodeo Cowboys Association which is the sanctioning group for rodeo events in Ohio.

Laurel Oaks COE awards presented

WILMINGTON — The Cooperative Office Education Class at the Laurel Oaks Career Development Campus near Wilmington held its' 1973-74 Employer-Employee Banquet at the Oak Club on the Laurel Oaks Campus.

Guests were welcomed by Tanya Kingery, class vice president and special guests were introduced by Debbie Johnson, class secretary. The students presented certificates of appreciation to their employers.

Mrs. Rachel Foster, teacher-coordinator presented the Boss of the Year Award to Robert Sollars, personnel manager at Cincinnati Milacron and the Outstanding COE Student Award to Janet White.

The class and guests enjoyed a meal served by the junior food service class and teacher, Mrs. Josie Garcia.

Connie Stayrook, Doug Joseph, and Donnie Pepper from Miami Trace High School provided entertainment accompanied by their vocal music teacher, Mrs. Cinda Stinson.

Attending the banquet were COE students from Washington Senior, Miami Trace, Wilmington, Greenfield McClain and Hillsboro high schools.

Sollars spoke for the employers in expressing gratitude for the recognition and complimented the students on their work during the past year.

Club member Gerald Begin introduced Pierson.

DURING the business meeting, conducted by club president George Gibbs, a letter of appreciation to the club from Carl Whitaker, administrator of the Fayette Progressive School, was read. The Kiwanis Club is paying the expenses of five Progressive School students on a Kings Island outing.

Tom Mossbarger reported on Teen Talent Show receipts and said that a final report should be available soon.

A five-year perfect attendance pin was presented to Richard Maddux by Duane French.

Sheila Gordon, an American Field Service student attending Miami Trace High School this year, will show slides and comment on her homeland in the Republic of South Africa during next week's program, Gibbs said.

Lions lose fifth straight

By MARK REA

Record-Herald Sports Writer
Washington C.H.'s Blue Lion baseball squad lost its fifth game in a row and sixth of its last seven, despite a fine pitching performance by senior Craig Stabelton, to the Tigers of Greenfield McClain by a score of 5-2. Stabelton gave up just two earned runs but four costly errors meant the difference.

Stabelton had control problems at times as he walked five batters. In his seven innings of work he struck out 12 Tigers and allowed only six hits in addition to his walks and earned runs. Greenfield pitcher Randy Carle pitched in spurts. He had control problems, walking six, but always seemed to bear down and get the important out. Carle, who went the distance, tallied six strikeouts, while giving up two runs on just five hits.

The first Washington C.H. run was scored in the first inning when Mark Johnson singled, stole second, took third on a strikeout and scored on a sacrifice bunt by Alan Coppock.

Greenfield fought back to tie the game at 1-1 in the third when Carle reached second on a two-base error and scored when batterymate Curt Hull rifled a single into right-center field.

The Tigers took the lead in the fifth on a walk issued to Bill Flynn, a single by Carle, a walk to Hull and a two-run double by first baseman Steve Willett to make it 3-1.

Greenfield got their final two runs in the sixth inning to put the game away.

Center fielder Make Adams and Flynn each reached on an error. Carle then lashed a double into the gap in right-center field to score both Adams and Flynn.

The Lions pushed across their final run in the sixth inning. Third sacker Larry Dumford walked and took second on a wild pitch. Second baseman David Rittenhouse then proceeded to smack his third hit of the day, a single, scoring Dumford. The

One of the objections of fans attending sporting events in this media-diluted age is that there are no replays.

Lee May took care of that gripe Monday night when the Houston Astros mugged the Chicago Cubs 18-2.

For those fans who missed May's two-run homer in the sixth inning, the Houston slugger belted ... another two-run homer in the sixth inning.

"All I do is go up there swinging," said the Astros' slugging first baseman, who went 5-for-5 in Houston's 20-hit attack. "I do the same thing every game. Both homers came off breaking pitches."

Elsewhere, the Cleveland Indians edged the Minnesota Twins 3-2 in baseball's only afternoon contest; the California Angels dropped the Boston Red Sox 7-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers squeezed past the New York Mets 8-7.

In all, the Astros scored five runs in the first, added single runs in the second and fourth, two more in the seventh, plus the nine-run sixth.

May slugged his first homer off Burt Hooton, the fifth of six Chicago pitchers, and followed eight batters later with a 400-foot blast off Jim Krummel, his fourth of the baseball season.

Dave Roberts, who tossed a seven-hitter, was the beneficiary of May's power production, pitched in offensively with two RBIs.

Indians 3, Twins 2

The Indians cashed in their first dividend from last Friday's seven-player deal with the New York Yankees

final score was 5-2.

In his last three games, of which he is 1-2, Stabelton has struck out 32 men for an average of almost 11 strikeouts per game.

The loss sends the Lions even further in the depths of the SCOL race with a 2-6 league mark while their overall mark is a dismal 3-9.

Court actions continue with WFL, NFL teams

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The new World Football League tries to score its first points against the National Football League today.

"We are asking this court to make a novel decision," said WFL attorney George Moscarino. "Evidence will show the NFL is... trying to suppress this league."

With that as the theme, the WFL hammered away Monday in U.S. District Court that the NFL has been guilty of the same acts the fledgling league has been accused of: illegal player raids.

The Cincinnati Bengals, in the NFL's first test case, are seeking a preliminary injunction against their star linebacker Bill Bergey and the WFL.

The Bengals claim the new league is inducing away its players and interfering in a manner which could leave the NFL club "decimated and wrecked."

Less than half the players and officials subpoenaed could testify Monday, and the hearing was carried over to today. A temporary restraining order, issued 10 days ago against the WFL, was not renewed, despite protests by Bengal attorneys.

Bergey, who has signed a $525,000 three-year contract with the Virginia Ambassadors of the WFL, testified he was "not interested in being pushed around."

He said he turned down an offer by the Bengals for a trade to another NFL club which could meet the salary offered by the WFL.

Mike McCormack, head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles, told the crowded courtroom that a trade was discussed in January. McCormack said he later turned down the swap because Bergey "would be a division on my club."

McCormack said he had been prepared to offer the Bengals a couple of high draft choices and a selection "from five of our starting players last year."

Trade discussion ended when Bergey announced he was joining the WFL in 1976, McCormack said.

"If I were to bring in Mr. Bergey, I'd be saying I'm compromising my position and telling my players they were fools because they didn't take advantage" of the new league, McCormack said.

Moscarino challenged the Bengals' claim of "foul" by noting that Cincinnati head coach and general manager Paul Brown was with the Cleveland Browns in 1955 when the team lured two players from the Canadian Football League.

LOUISVILLE (AP) — In Stalls 9 and 11 of Barn 42 at Churchill Downs are Set N' Go and Lexico, two contenders for the 100th Kentucky Derby who are American-bred and Venezuelan-raced and owned—as was Canonero II, who won the 97th Derby.

"I have a chance to win," Marcial Iriza, trainer of Lexico, said Monday. "He's a good horse. I think my horse will finish strong."

"I think this horse is better than he ever was," said Manuel Aspura, who will saddle Set N' Go for Saturday's Derby.

"We take a chance to bring him here. We know there are a lot of good horses, but none like Secretariat last year."

The strongest contenders for the Centennial Derby, which is expected to draw about 22 starters, appeared to be two entries and Meeken Stable's Agitate, who has five wins, including the California Derby, in six starts as a 3-year-old.

One of the entries is the Woody Stephens-trained pair of Seth Hancock's Judger, winner of the Florida Derby and Blue Grass Stakes, and John M. Clin's Cannonade, first in the Stepping Stone Purse at Churchill Downs last Saturday.

The other entry, owned by Sigmond Sommer and trained by Frank "Pancho" Martin, is Accipiter and Rube The Great. The latter was first in divisions of the Gotham and Wood Memorial.

Junior high posts victory

Jason Rummer reset his three-quarter mile mark, as the Washington Junior High track team defeated Hillsboro 69-40 in a dual meet, Monday evening.

Rummer, the seventh grader who had previously recorded a 3:57.2, ran the course in 3:52.8. His teammate, James Anders, once again finished second.

The Blue Lions captured eight first places in the meet. None of the thin-clads won more than one event in individual competition.

Other top finishers for the Lions were as follows:

Low Hurdles: 1. (tie) Greg Bullock and Terry Wilson, 18.5
100: 1. Jeff Elliott, 11.5 2. Greg Greene

440 relay: 1. Greg Greene, Greg Bullock, Devi Hargo and Terry Wilson, 54.7

440: 2. Bill Davis
880: 2. Tracy Wilson

180: 1. Gary Huysman, 21.5 2. Devic Hargo

880 relay: Bill Davis, Randy Hinkley, Gary Huysman and Jeff Elliott, 1:50

High jump: 1. John Denen, 5' 2. Gary Huysman

Pole vault: 1. James Brown, 8'6" 2. Randy Hinkley

Shot put: 3. Doug Stewart
Discus: 3. Doug Stewart

Karate club in state meet

Ku-Sustemi-Dojo, Washington Court House's karate club, will be competing in the 1974 state karate championships at Bishop Hartley High School in Columbus on May 4. Al Conaway, who is a third degree black belt, is the instructor of the local group.

Booster meeting

There will be a meeting for the Washington Senior High Baseball Boosters tonight. The meeting will take place at the high school at 8 p.m.

as Steve Kline hurled an eight-hitter in his first start for Cleveland.

Ninth-inning RBI singles by Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan made Kline a winner. Bill Campbell, who had not yielded an earned run in any of his 10 previous appearances, took the loss.

Angels 7, Red Sox 2

Tom McCraw knocked in four runs with a pair of doubles to help the Angels snap a five-game losing streak.

McCraw belted his first homer of the season in the second, doubled to set up a run in the fourth, doubled to drive in a run in the sixth and slammed a two-run homer in the eighth.

Bill Singer tossed a seven-hitter, struck out seven and walked three.

Dodgers 8, Mets 7

Willie Crawford singled in two runs in the first and one more in the second to help Los Angeles build an 8-0 lead after two innings and the Dodgers held on for their seventh straight victory.

Canonero II similarities have good chance in Derby

The final Derby prep was today's one-mile Derby Trial Stakes. Seven eligibles were entered.

Derby horses officially will be entered Thursday morning and a field of 22 would tie the record set in 1928.

The 100th certainly will be the richest Derby, breaking last year's record purse of $198,800. With only 10 starters, the race would gross $229,000 because of a record 290 nominations and stiff increases in entrance and starting fees. Twenty starters would bring a total purse of $304,000, with $260,250 to the winner.

Of the two Venezuela representatives, Lexico has the closer ties with Canonero II. The Florida-bred colt is owned by Vincenta Baptista, whose husband was a part owner of the Kentucky-bred Canonero.

No style changes planned by Bucks

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks plan no drastic style changes, but count on better execution tonight in hopes of squaring their National Basketball Association championship playoffs against the Utah Stars.

"They want this title, and they know what they have to do to get it," Loughery added.

What they have to do is beat the Stars, a veteran team which thrives on playoff pressure and which has an overwhelming edge in experience over the Nets, who do not have a starter over 25.

The Stars are a veteran unit—and a good one. They're the only team to win 50 or more games in each of the past four seasons, when they reached either the championship playoffs or the semifinal round.

But the Stars will be missing veteran center Zelmo Beaty when they take the floor at the Nassau Coliseum tonight. He missed the last three games of the Stars' playoff series with Indiana because of a leg infection and did not make the trip to New York.

Gerald Govan, a good defensive player but not much of an offensive threat, replaces him. That means Govan probably will not be assigned to cover Julius Erving, the Nets' explosive forward and the ABA's most valuable player, as he usually does.

That assignment may go to Willie Wise, who limited Indiana's George McGinnis to just 14 points in the seventh game of their series Saturday night.

pionship playoff series with the Boston Celtics.

The Celtics, scoring 15 baskets on fast breaks and stifling the Bucks' offense with in a full court pressing defense, won 9883 Sunday for a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Coach Tom Heinsohn said Monday the Celtics will use the same pressure tactics in tonight's nationally televised game (9:30 p.m., EDT). The third and fourth games will be in Boston Friday and Sunday.

"We feel we have people we can win with," Bucks' Coach Larry Costello said. "We're going to play the way we've been playing, the way we've been winning."

"But we can't score 83 points again or we're going to be shut out four to zero in this series," he said.

"We know the Bucks are a great basketball team and it's going to be a very tough series," Heinsohn said. "But we've shown we're capable of playing our style. They still have to establish that they can play their style."

"Obviously, they'll try to do something about our press," he said. "I'm sure they'll make some changes. But I'll tell you something. I looked at the films this morning, and I think we can press even better."

Mistakes costly to Panthers in Lancaster loss

LANCASTER — Behind a four run outburst in the bottom half of the first inning, Lancaster rode on to a 8-2 victory over Miami Trace, Monday evening.

Mistakes, both mentally and fielding, once again were major contributing factors to the Panthers' defeat. Miami Trace, which is now 5-3 in the South Central Ohio League and 6-9 overall, allowed the Golden Gales four unearned runs in the contest.

PLANTING SEASON — Members of the Jeffersonville Cub Scout dens began their planting season on Arbor Day at Jeffersonville Elementary School. In all, the young Scouts planted 50 trees over the weekend in the Jeffersonville community. One was planted at each boy's home, and 36 others were placed at the school, at churches, and other locations. Manning the project were Cub Scout Dens 1 and 2, under the leadership of Mrs. Jane Pollock, pictured above, the Webelos, supervised by Jack Hare.

Wilmington College offers 'tech school' cooperation

WILMINGTON — The Wilmington College board of trustees, in endorsing the establishment of a five-county general and technical college district has expressed its interest in working with the district to help provide educational services to residents of the district on a contractual basis.

The board's letter to the John M. Briley, chairman of the Ohio Board of Regents, dated April 12, and released to the public today, expressed the willingness of Wilmington College to contract for the offering of general studies courses on the Laurel Oaks Joint Vocational School campus on the former Clinton County Air Force Base in Wilmington, once the technical college is established.

It also proposes that Wilmington College provide on its own campus instruction for district students seeking an associate of arts degree, with reimbursement to the college on a full-time equivalent basis.

Under this arrangement, Wilmington College would retain its identity as a private four-year institution, serving a wide geographical area while offering the use of its classrooms and instructional and certain administrative services to associate of arts students of the district.

IN THE LETTER, signed by Wallace T. Collett, chairman of the college board of trustees, it was stated that the Wilmington College administration "has for some time indicated its support for post secondary technical education in the Adams, Brown, Highland, Clinton and Fayette county area.

The letter further said that the college recognizes that inevitably the district would offer not only a technical degree, but also the associate (two-year) of arts degree.

Therefore, the Wilmington College board feels its proposal to the Ohio Board of Regents "will meet the needs of area residents with substantial savings to the taxpayers of Ohio, while insuring Wilmington College's continued effective service."

The letter from the Wilmington College board of trustees concludes by saying:

"The board of trustees wants the public record to show that Wilmington College endorses the establishment of the five-county district and endorses the necessity of providing the full range of associate degrees to all citizens of the district. The board makes this endorsement in the faith that a mutually beneficial relationship between Wilmington College and the new district can be established with no duplication of educational programs in Clinton County."

Spring band concert at MTHS Friday

The 12th annual spring band concert will be presented by the county schools in the Miami Trace School auditorium Friday.

Participating in the program will be the Miami Trace Concert and Symphonic bands and the county's sixth grade band. The concert will begin at 8 p.m.

The Miami Trace bands, directed by Paul R. Febo, will present a variety of musical scores, including a number of popular tunes. The Concert Band will feature a medley of five Hal David-Burt Bacharach songs. The Symphonic Band will close with six selections from the musical score of the movie "Shaft."

The sixth grade band, directed by Charles B. Lutz, will present a number of old favorites, including two marches and "On Top of Old Smokey." Students from seven elementary schools will participate.

During the performance, senior band members will be introduced, and the John Philip Sousa Award will be presented to the outstanding senior band member.

This and other awards will be presented by Mrs. Doris White.

DP&L's tornado loss $1.7 million

DAYTON — The Dayton Power and Light Co. discloses that total losses to the company are now estimated at $1.7 million as a result of the Xenia tornado.

DP&L crews spent more than 30,000 man hours to restore service during the emergency. As many as 350 DP&L employees were assigned to Xenia around the clock for a week after the tornado hit. Electric service had to be restored to 8,000 homes.

Approximately 130,000 feet (about 24.6 miles) of electric lines had to be installed. In the gas system 90 mains had to be cut off. DP&L personnel visited 7,000 homes, first to turn off services, then to relight gas furnaces, water heaters and other appliances.

The company at one time had more than 250 people visiting homes in an all-out effort to turn furnaces back on before cold weather set in following the disaster.

Extra crews will continue to work in the Xenia area for several weeks — or as long as they are needed — extending services to new and rebuilt homes and businesses which suffered severe damages or were destroyed by the tornado.

Joe Spring of the San Francisco Seals, Pacific Coast League, caught a baseball dropped from an airship at about 1,000 feet over Treasure Island in 1939. The force of catching the ball broke his jaw.

Rhodes runs hard against Gilligan

By PERRY SMITH

Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Youthful-looking James A. Rhodes, at age 64, shows no sign of slacking from his customary 18 hours of go, go, go . . .

Seeking the governorship once again, the former eighty-year Republican chief executive says he will divide his time between his industrial development office and politics until after the primary.

"After the primary, we will devote full time to the campaign," Rhodes said. "I have got business commitments I have to take care of first." Rep. Charles E. Fry, R-75 Springfield, and Bert Dawson Jr., Columbiana County engineer, oppose Rhodes in the May 7 election. But Rhodes fails to mention either in his appearances.

"I am campaigning against John Gilligan," Rhodes emphasizes, claiming the Democratic governor who replaced Rhodes in 1970 is vulnerable on several fronts.

"The mismanagement of state affairs is the major weakness," he said.

"It is overlapping mismanagement. It's a shabby operation and messy approach to management."

"They've taken the old Parkinson's concept," he said of Gilligan and his cabinet. "When you can't solve a problem, add 200 people."

Rhodes contends state employment is up 8,000 since Gilligan took office. "When they reorganize a department, they add employees and give less service," he said.

Rhodes keeps his political appearances at a minimum, two or three a week until after the primary.

He's without a campaign staff now. Instead, his business workers research issues. Later, he'll assemble the professional campaigners.

"A lot of people seem to think I am still in government. They think I should be available every minute. When you are in business you can't pick up and go," he said.

Three years as a developer has given him insight into state problems, he said. "Your view is much broader of the needs in the state."

Rhodes indicated he would still campaign on a job-oriented platform. "But there will be new approaches, new ideas and new thoughts for the 80s," he said.

"When we were governor, we had the finest industrial development in the United States, the No. 1 highway program, and we saw that an institution of higher learning was within 30 miles of every Ohio boy and girl," he said.

Rhodes said he believes Gilligan will spend at least $1 million of taxpayers money in the re-election campaign.

"They will be using state autos, planes, publicity men, directors and photographers — all paid by the state," he added.

"They have around 60 people in statehouse offices now concentrating on the campaign," he said. "We'll have to go out and just go to work."

Rhodes, who still finds time to play a few rounds of golf with a four stroke handicap, said he will discuss the shortcomings of the Gilligan administration after the primary.

As he talks, he constantly repeats the phrase "after the primary," leaving no doubt he expects the nomination.

3 Republicans in attorney general race

By HENRY HEILBRUNN

Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three politically experienced Republicans from different Ohio geographical areas are seeking the nomination for attorney general in the May 7 primary.

One will be placed on the November ballot to face incumbent William J. Brown, a 33-year-old first-term Democratic attorney general.

Sen. Stanley Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, Stark County Prosecutor David Dowd of Canton and Franklin County Prosecuting Attorney George C. Smith in Columbus are running for the position as Ohio's chief legal officer.

Aronoff, a legislator since 1960, said that, if elected, he would "instill performance rather than public relations as the mark of achievement in the office, eliminate political favoritism in the trial and settlement of cases and curtail slush funds from special legal counsel."

The 41-year-old chairman of the Financial Institutions, Insurance and Elections Committee in the Senate also said he would "establish a policy of speedy trials and create firm policies against 'bugging' in order to protect the privacy of all Ohio residents."

Aronoff has lashed out against Brown, claiming he "made a mockery of campaign finance reform by failing to disclose the names of sources of more than $233,195."

Dowd, county prosecutor since 1967, said, "I've become more and more concerned about the fact that the law enforcement system in Ohio lacks coordination at the state level. Because of that fragmentation, it needs some person to pull it together so it is more responsive to the growing problem of crime.

"The attorney general is that person," he said. Dowd, 45, a member of the Commission for Revision of National Policy Toward Gambling appointed by President Nixon, recommends more money spent fighting crime through the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, more funds to train law enforcement officers and combat drugs.

Smith runs on experience. "The present attorney general is a man who, although serving a full term, simply did not possess the experience needed to create and effectively run the office,"

Rhodes raps Demo record

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Former Ohio Gov. James Rhodes, a candidate in next week's Republican gubernatorial primary, said Monday he wants Gov. John Gilligan's Democratic administration to run on its record — "not away from it."

Rhodes charged that Ohio's state income tax is shortchanging elementary and secondary education schools. He said the state welfare department has almost doubled in size and unemployment in parts of the state is above the national level.

He accused Gilligan of bad management.

Rhodes faces State Rep. Charles E. Fry, 57, a Springfield contractor, and Bert Dawson Jr., 23, a Columbiana County engineer.

the county prosecutor said.

"The evils which bred Watergate are now boiling in the state attorney general's office," he said. Smith, 38, claimed Brown has a massive political slush fund.

"The result is the establishment of Brown's own satellite political organization which owes no allegiance to the Democratic party," said Smith, who began public service by working for the city of Columbus as an assistant attorney in 1959.

Jack Madigan, a spokesman for Brown who was out of town last week, denied the charges.

"There is a responsibility, we feel, on the part of elected officials to communicate with the public," Madigan said. "That's what we're doing."

Madigan said Brown does not make decisions based on political expedience, created no slush fund and has available a list of campaign contributors at a certified public accountant's office.

Brown is opposed for the Democratic nomination.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♣	1♠	2♥	Pass
3♣	Pass	3NT

Opening lead - ten of spades.

Let's assume you're in three notrump and West leads the ten of spades. When you follow low from dummy, East signals with the eight and you win the trick with the king. You have eight winning tricks and the big question is what to do at trick two, remembering of course that you see only the North-South cards.

Two methods of play are worthy of consideration. One is to lead the king or queen of hearts, discarding a diamond from dummy, and the other is to lead the nine or jack of diamonds, planning to finesse.

The fact is that one of these plays is clearly correct and the other is clearly wrong. All the same, it is perfectly possible to make the wrong play, which is to lead a diamond instead of a heart at trick two.

The superficial attraction of leading a diamond is that you plan to finesse into the non-dangerous hand, East, who cannot advantageously return a spade. This reasoning is fallacious, as is demonstrated when West plays the queen of diamonds at trick two and knocks you right out of the box. As the cards lie, you are doomed, whatever you do next.

The correct view is that the contract cannot be made against proper defense unless East has the ace of hearts. The diamond setup is a snare and a delusion.

A diamond play at trick two contributes nothing of value to making the contract. Even if the diamonds are favorably placed, the contract will still be defeated with proper defense if West has the ace of hearts.

Leading the king or queen of hearts offers a much better chance for the contract and, in the actual case, settles the issue when it turns out that East has the ace.

Youth Activities

SCOUT TROOP 67

Scout Troop 67 held its weekly meeting with senior patrol leader Jeff Robinette opening the meeting. Mike Toppins led the Pledge of Allegiance; Mark Hoppes the Scout Oath; and Darrell Hanna the Scout Laws.

We received our new songbooks that the Mother's Auxiliary Club raised money for and we sang our first song out of them, "One Finger, One Thumb, One Hand." Stanley Burnett and Gary Conn led the song. We also received our tickets for the Scout-O-Rama, for May 18 and 19; we hope many people will buy them.

Troop 67's project for this year is going to be "Camping." We are interested in showing people who are not in Scouts, that camping is for everyone.

We discussed the campout and found out that we are going to use 13 canoes and that is a total of 26 people on the canoe trip down the Little Miami River. We also discussed the next paper drive for May 4.

Next we had the Scoutmaster's minutes, and Fred Doyle, Scoutmaster, talked with us regarding safety precautions in a canoe.

Then we had the closing with the Scout Benediction.

ADVENTURER 4-H

The Adventurer 4-H Club held its meeting in the Jeffersonville School when new officers were elected. They are: President, Gregg Crabtree; vice president, Ronnie Maxie; secretary, Denise Leeth; treasurer, David Keim; news reporter, Eric Crabtree; and health and safety leader, Gregg Holford.

Refreshments were then served by David Keim and Mike Smith. Larry Sword is the adviser of the club.

SILLY STITCHERS 4-H

The Silly Stitchers met at the Jeffersonville Methodist Church this month of April. The pledge was led by Nikki Robison. The 4-H pledge was led by Annette Cowden. Roll call was answered by eleven girls giving their boy friends name-we'll keep this secret though.

Crystal Cave gave the health report. The topic was "Food for Fitness."

Susan Morrow joined the club and we are pleased to have her.

New Business: We are to attend the 4-H Style Show at Miami Trace on April 26th from 7-9:00 p.m. A demonstration was given by Pam Pitzer. Work session was pinning patterns and straightening material.

Refreshments were served by Nancy Farmer.

STITCH AND STIR 4-H

The third meeting of the Staunton Stitch and Stir 4-H Club was held in the home of Kim and Lori Preston. President Karmel Knedler called the meeting to order and Kim led the 4-H Pledge.

We answered roll call by telling our hobbies. A report was given by Marsha Markle on "Tornadoes." Mrs. Pero gave a demonstration on "Material Weights."

The club has a new member, Debbie Neitz, and one guest, Angie Swackhamer. Lori Preston motioned the meeting be adjourned and Tracy Taylor seconded the motion.

Refreshments were served. The next meeting was held in the home of Carol Rex on April 18.

In Focus by Charlie Pensyl

Atlantic Richfield drilled the discovery well on the Alaskan North Slope, and pushed for the pipeline venture. Robert O. Anderson is chairman of the board of Atlantic Richfield. In 1969, Robert O. Anderson gave $80,000 to a militant activist who organized Friends of the Earth. Friends of the Earth was one of the three political-environmental groups that stopped the Alaska pipeline cold with a lawsuit. How come? Grayson I. Kirk (a Fayette County boy who made good), member of the board of Mobil Oil, also a participating company in the pipeline venture, is a director of the C. F. R. (Hang in there, I'm making a point.) Now the others and the guys who run the NEW YORK TIMES are leaders in the C. F. R. outfit, and they are supplying much loot to the environmental groups that are harassing small business in the United States. The TIMES has editorially condemned the Alaska pipeline venture (still with me?), but in the very same edition, the TIMES carried an article eulogizing Siberian oil operations in the Soviet Union. Like Howcome? There's something going on here, dad, and unless you know all about the C.F.R., the inner workings of these oil companies, Dr. Armand Hammer, of Oxy, his daddy, Julius, one of the founders of the American Communist Party, and lots of other trivia you just can't get the thing in focus.

That's where Dan's book comes in. THE BUSINESS END OF GOVERNMENT is the book. Dan Smoot, the author. Remember THE INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT? That was his book on the C.F.R. It's worth reading, too. To my way of thinking, however, THE BUSINESS END OF GOVERNMENT is the most important book published in the last two years. If you haven't read it, get a copy and read it — even if you have to buy a copy; after all, it's only a buck. Yes, you can buy the book at our place. Come in and browse through some of the new titles we've received recently.

"I am NOT giving you lots of fat and bone — you're paying for every bit of it!"

99 TODAY — Friends of Lewis H. Wolfe were planning to bring a cake Tuesday to celebrate his 99th birthday — if they can get him out of the garden. His canine friend is a stray recently adopted by Mr. Wolfe, his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Lovell, at 604 S. Fayette Street. A young friend, Willard Everhart, who is a mere 97, has suggested that when he (Mr. Everhart) reaches 100, the two centenarians should "paint the town" together. Mrs. Lovell said "they probably will."

Edited tapes released

television time for tonight to respond to Nixon.

Hutchinson said he would be "perfectly willing" to undertake the job of verifying the transcripts, but thought the committee should examine them first to see if anything further was needed.

"If it represents the complete record of Watergate, which the President says it does, then I think it would be adequate," he said.

It would take a majority vote of the committee's 21 Democrats and 17 Republicans to accept Nixon's plan. The vote for the subpoena was 33 to 3. Rodino has declared repeatedly that he does not want to have a confrontation with Nixon over the tapes, and it is likely the committee will take no immediate action.

A briefing session at which no votes can be taken is scheduled for today, and the next likely meeting date is Thursday.

Reaction among other committee members generally was along party lines, Republicans approving of Nixon's offer and Democrats finding it unsatisfactory.

One Republican not endorsing the proposal was Rep. Thomas F. Rainsback, R-Ill., who said he thought the edited tapes also should be turned over to the committee.

Rainsback said, however, that he thought Nixon had "for the first time come through in a very convincing way" in detailing his role in the Watergate investigation.

Nixon had the bound volumes of the transcripts in his office as he spoke and the television cameras showed them to viewers. He said in addition to turning them over to the Judiciary Committee he intends to make them public, along with relevant portions of other Watergate tapes he already has given the committee.

Nixon said he had spent hours over the last several days "personally deciding questions of relevancy"—the main point of dispute with committee members demanding full compliance with the subpoena.

"The overriding issue is can the President control the information we have access to?" said Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah.

Nixon said that if, in reviewing the tapes to verify the transcripts, Rodino and Hutchinson disagree with his decision of what is relevant, he would be willing to meet with them personally to settle the matter.

He said his determined effort to protect the privacy of the tapes was dictated by the need of a President to protect the confidentiality of the advice he gets.

But the compelling needs in the present climate of impeachment to clear the air and let the nation have the facts "have now combined to persuade me that a major, unprecedented exception to that principle is now necessary," he said.

Nixon said the transcripts he was releasing contained "the rough as well as the smooth," and admitted there were ambiguities in some of the conversations that could lead different people to different conclusions.

He dwelt at length on the conversation he had on March 21, 1973, with John W. Dean III, White House counsel at the time, in which blackmail demands by Howard Hunt, one of the Watergate defendants, were discussed.

Nixon said Hunt was threatening to reveal "highly secret national security matters" unless he was given $120,000 immediately and that his concern over protecting national security led him to suggest it might be necessary to meet Hunt's demands.

"But I also traced through where that would lead."

He said, "The money could be raised. But money demands would lead inescapably to clemency demands, and clemency could not be granted. I said, 'It's wrong, that's for sure.'"

Nixon singled out Dean as the main source of his Watergate troubles and said the transcripts will refute Dean's sworn Senate testimony that Nixon was aware of the Watergate cover-up in September 1971.

Girl, 4, bruised as car hits her

A 4-year-old Willard Street girl was hit by a car Monday evening, police reported.

Jody Benson, 1034 Willard St., suffered back and arm bruises when she ran in front of a car driven by Paul L. Mabry, Jr., 25, of 719 Willard St., at 8:10 p.m. Monday and was struck.

She was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by ambulance where she was treated and released.

The accident occurred on S. Elm Street, near the Willard Street intersection, police reported.

Paint Creek dedication plans made

HILLSBORO — A tentative schedule for dedication of the Paint Creek Lake on June 15 has been established by a multi-community planning committee.

The dedication ceremony and related activities will be based at the dam. The lake straddles the Highland-Ross county line, just seven miles south of Greenfield on Rapid Forge Road.

The festivities will open at 10:30 a.m. with a water skiing demonstration to be followed by a hot air balloon ascension. Band concerts will be held at 11:30 a.m. and at 1 p.m.

Congressman William H. Harsha will be the featured speaker for the dedication, and Carl Sitterle, a Greenfield insurance agent, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Following the dedication ceremony, a sailboat regatta has been planned to be followed by another hot air balloon ascension at 4 p.m.

The Greenfield McClain High School band will participate in the ceremonies, along with Greenfield Jaycees, who will operate a concession stand and Boy Scout Troop No. 440, which will distribute programs. The Rev. Clair Emrick, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Greenfield, will deliver the benediction at the dedication.

Glenn raps President's statement

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Democratic senate candidate John Glenn expressed dissatisfaction Monday night with President Nixon's decision to provide the House Judiciary Committee with transcripts of Watergate tapes.

"The President's arrogant refusal to cooperate with the Judiciary Committee should weigh heavily on the committee's decision of whether or not to impeach," the former astronaut said.

"It is high time for the Congress—representing the people of this country—to absolutely force the President's hand to get every bit of information surrounding the whole Watergate situation so that we punish the guilty."

"Even more important," Glenn said in a statement, "We need all of the information to prevent similar or worse catastrophes from occurring in the future."

"The powers of the leaders in government are well defined," Glenn said. "The President seems determined to change that balance."

Glenn's opponent for the Democratic Senate nomination, Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, declined comment on Nixon's televised statement.

Russell W. Hidy, 23, of 928 Lakeview, reported to police that his motorcycle was hit by an unidentified red Dodge car in the city parking lot at 2:24 p.m. Monday. A damage estimate was not made.

A minor accident occurred at 11:45 a.m. Monday, involving cars driven by Sarah J. Seitz, 29, Bloomingburg, and Donald E. Thornton, 26, Bloomingburg, on Court Street, near the Fayette Street intersection, police reported.

WSHS choir concert set for Friday

The Washington Senior High School choir will present its annual spring concert at 8 p.m. Friday in the Washington Junior High School auditorium.

Charles L. Shaffer, who will be directing the WSHS choir, said the program will also feature the junior high school freshman choir, under the direction of Miss Marci Willman, and an elementary choir led by Mrs. Sidney Terhune.

The program will be composed mainly of popular music featuring a medley from the rock opera, "Godspell." Other selections include, "If," "Top of the World," "If I Were a Carpenter," and many other popular hits.

The public is invited to attend and a small donation will be received at the door, Shaffer said.

CURATORS' AWARD — This award for outstanding achievement was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. B.E. Kelley, curators of the Fayette County Museum, during a joint annual meeting of the Ohio Historical Society and the Ohio Association of Historical Societies held over the weekend in Columbus. The Kelleys, who were honored with a standing ovation from the 400 persons attending the meeting, have been members of the organizations since 1924.

Police investigate brace of larcenies

A breaking and entering, in which $150 was stolen from coin-operated machines, was reported at Bert's Bar, 703 Delaware St.

City Police also report a tape player stolen from a Washington C.H. woman's car and two stolen bicycles. Bert's Bar was entered over the weekend through a hole in the roof of an adjoining garage by a thief, who once inside, rifled the coin operated cigarette, bowling and juke box machines for $150 worth of change, police have learned.

Specialists Bill Cales and Larry Walker of the Washington C.H. Police Department believe the larceny took place sometime between 2 a.m. and noon Sunday.

Heavy damage was incurred by the vending machines owned by Kirk Music Co., Williamsburg. Investigation is continuing.

A BRAND NEW TAPE PLAYER was taken from a car owned by Gretchen Grondalski, 730 Broadway, while it was parked in front of her residence between 11 p.m. Saturday and 12:45 p.m. Sunday, police were told.

Officers said there were no signs of forced entry into the Grondalski auto. Two new 10-speed bikes belonging to the sons of Mrs. Melvin Hinkley, 813 Pearl St., were taken from the front porch of the residence sometime between Friday evening and 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

Police said the bikes were valued at $110 each and described them as being dark green with city licenses.

Urge signup by farmers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Farmers employing one or more workers risk losing their farms if a worker is killed or injured and he is not covered under the Ohio workmen's compensation law, the president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation warned today.

Farmers employing one or more workers must be covered under workmen's compensation by July 1 under a new Ohio law, said Leonard Schnell. Schnell urged farmers to sign up immediately rather than wait until the last minute and risk being caught without coverage.

Employers not covered are liable for an injured worker's medical costs, Schnell said. If he is covered, however, the state pays the bills, he added.

Schnell estimated that at least half—or about 55,000—of Ohio's farmers have not signed up for the protection, which costs $7.19 per $100 of payroll.

The average Yugoslav eats 240 pounds of bread annually.

Nixon sends transcripts to impeachment panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, in sending to the House Judiciary Committee edited transcripts of many of his Watergate-related conversations, said through his lawyers today that the tapes do not once make it "appear that the President of the United States was engaged in a criminal plot to obstruct justice."

A 50-page submission to the panel considering possible impeachment, prepared by defense counsel James D. St. Clair, also concluded that "the raw material of these recorded confidential conversations establishes that the President had no prior knowledge of the break-in" at Democratic National Committee headquarters "and that he had no knowledge of any cover-up prior to March 21, 1973."

The 1,200 pages of edited tapes were to be made public later in the day but the St. Clair document repeatedly quoted from the tape transcripts. And at points comparisons were made between the content of the transcripts and sworn testimony by ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III who has been the President's chief public accuser.

The transcripts were delivered earlier to an apparently skeptical House Judiciary Committee in a black station wagon. There were stacks of papers for each member.

An hour before the committee's 10 a.m. deadline, White House aides had loaded 38 manila folders and four large black briefcases into the station wagon and headed for Capitol Hill.

The White House submission concluded by referring directly to the acquittal Sunday of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans in a Watergate-related case tried in New York.

It said the acquittals "demonstrate the wisdom of the President's actions in insisting that the orderly process of the judicial system be utilized to determine the guilt or innocence of individuals charged with crimes, rather than participating in trials in the public media."

The President said Monday night, in a national radio and television address, he would deliver the transcripts, "blemishes and all," and expected the American public to find in them proof of his innocence.

In announcing Monday night over national radio and television his plan to release 1,200 pages of edited transcripts, Nixon said, "I am placing my trust in the basic fairness of the American people."

While the edited transcripts were to be delivered to the House panel today, Nixon is not turning over the tape recordings the committee has subpoenaed, drawing complaints from Democrats and at least one Republican.

In a bid to win committee support for his compromise offer, Nixon has invited Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., and Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., the senior Republican, to listen to the tapes and verify the transcripts.

The President said the material he was making available should end, once and for all, speculation about his role in Watergate.

"As far as what the President personally knew and did with regard to Watergate and the cover-up is concerned, these materials—together with those already made available—will tell it all," Nixon said Watergate is only one of six areas of presidential conduct the committee is studying in its impeachment inquiry. Nixon did not refer to any others—the activities of the special White House investigating unit known as the plumbers, the ITT anti-trust settlement, political contributions by dairy co-ops, White House plans for domestic intelligence gathering and the secret bombing of Cambodia.

Nixon also faces a deadline of Thursday to answer a subpoena from Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski for tapes and records of 64 presidential conversations.

Rodino, who insisted shortly before Nixon's address that only full compliance with the subpoena would be acceptable to the committee, declined comment on the compromise offer. The National Broadcasting Co. offered him (Please turn to page 14)

Ohio food prices held down

By KEN DAVIS

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cost-conscious Ohio housewives—doing battle against escalating food prices—apparently have forced inflation at the supermarkets to slow down to a surprising 1.3 per cent increase in the last six months.

Six months ago today a marketbasket of 14 selected items cost on the average around the state a total of $10.40.

Today the same marketbasket, a Associated Press survey showed, costs $10.54—up only 14 cents or 1.3 per cent.

"It's consumer reaction to high prices," said a food chain official who asked to remain anonymous.

Of the 14 items, only six showed price increases in the six-month interval. The other eight showed price decreases.

A consumer triumph showed in the prices for the marketbasket's three meat items—center cut pork chops, ground chuck and all-beef frankfurters.

Pork chops dropped 6.8 per cent in price between Nov. 1, 1973, and today—an average in the 14 Ohio cities checked of $1.49 a pound last fall compared to $1.39 a pound today.

All-beef frankfurters sold last November in the same cities on an average of $1.30 a pound. Today they go for $1.23 a pound.

Ground chuck sold for $1.29 a pound last November and in the latest AP survey average $1.47 a pound, down 1.6 per cent.

"Consumer reaction has figured heavily here," said the supermarket chain official. "As a matter of fact, meat is moving so slowly that growers complain it costs them more to produce the meat than they get for it when they sell."

The influence of the consumer is less clear in big price drops in the price of eggs and butter.

"Hens lay fewer eggs in colder weather," the supermarket chain official said. "So there would be fewer eggs and the price would go up."

Whatever the cause, eggs in Ohio dropped 19.5 per cent in the six months since last November—from an average of 77 cents for a dozen medium to 62 cents today.

Butter prices fell 14.6 per cent in the six months, from 96 cents for a pound wrapped in sticks to 82 cents for the same butter today.

These were the largest of the six-month price decreases. There were increases as large or larger, led by granulated sugar.

In six months the price of sugar has rocketed upward 33.7 per cent, and the average ascent would have been greater if many supermarkets, edgy about consumer reaction, hadn't kept (Please turn to page 2)

U.S. oilman finally freed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — American oilman Victor Samuelson arrived in the United States this morning after being freed six weeks after his company paid Marxist Argentine guerrillas a record $14.2 million ransom.

Samuelson, flanked by Exxon officials on his arrival at Miami International Airport, was smiling and appeared healthy.

"I'm very happy and I am well," he told reporters. "I have no further comment. I'm anxious to get back to my family."

When asked if he would be flying to Cleveland, his home town, he said: "No, not right away."

The 36-year-old Esso Argentina executive was whisked into a privately chartered twin-engine aircraft which took off minutes after his 8:30 a.m. landing from South America.

Exxon officials would not disclose his destination.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — City Councilman Charles Mentel has proposed development of a 50,000-seat sports arena for downtown Columbus.

Mentel, who made the suggestion Monday night, didn't estimate a cost for the arena, but said voted bond money could finance the project.

Plans for the city's estimated $46 million convention center complex do not include a sports arena.

Citizens applaud, deride action by President

By JIM WILLSE

Associated Press Writer

In the Oval Office of the White House, Richard M. Nixon gazed into the eye of the television camera and promised America that the pile of looseleaf folders to his left would, finally, "tell it all."

In Hallandale, Fla., Harold Harris gazed back at the President of the United States. "He's lying," Harris said, puffing on a cigar. "The accused shouldn't be the one to decide what is relevant."

A continent away, in Santa Monica, Calif., Sydney Albright munched a tossed salad as he watched Nixon on a small black and white TV. "I knew in time the other side of the story would be told. I hope the President's actions tomorrow will indeed be the other side of the story."

Once again, President Nixon turned to the national broadcast media to present a defense of his role in the Watergate scandal. And once again, America listened.

Seated at his desk, the camera panning periodically to the stacks of black notebooks containing transcripts of taped White House conversations, Nixon placed his case in the hands of the public.

"In giving you these—blemishes and all—I am placing my trust in the basic fairness of the American people," he said. "... I was trying to discover what was right and to do what was right. I hope and trust that when you have seen the evidence in its entirety, you will see the truth of that statement."

But for Bill Sweeney, an executive with an electronics firm, the President's plea was not enough.

Politicos' reaction to speech divided

WASHINGTON (AP) — Initial reaction outside the House Judiciary Committee to President Nixon's offer Monday night of Watergate tape transcripts divided generally along party lines.

"The President is giving the House Judiciary Committee more than enough information with which to carry out its investigation," said Vice President Gerald R. Ford.

"I think the President's willingness to subject himself to sworn testimony before Chairman Rodino and Congressman Hutchinson is evidence of good faith," said Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott.

George Bush, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said: "I am convinced this is a major step in putting the impeachment proceedings behind us and in laying to rest the charges against the President."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who had earlier questioned whether Nixon retains the ability to govern, said it would have been better to deliver the tapes months ago. "But for the moment it is unnecessary to haggle with the President," Javits said.

discuss the Adoption reform Bill he introduced in the legislature with members of services to Unwed Mothers and Adoption.

He said he saw no reason why people must be married to adopt children. He said his bill would remove that requirement, plus improve management of the adoption system by setting up boards in each community to oversee the placement of children in proper homes.

Rhodes, making a stop in his home town of Springfield Monday, also indicated to newsmen he was concentrating more on the general election than the primary.

"We are holding many news conferences around the state and not spending much money," Rhodes said. "We're saving our money for the November election."

Fry, Rhodes' opponent, has said Rhodes could not beat Gilligan. Asked about that, Rhodes said:

"The last time I was with Fry I spoke for him three times and in his district he only won by a margin. All of those times I was introduced as the best governor Ohio ever had."

Fry charged Monday that Rhodes is afraid to disclose his income tax returns and is hoping "he can steal this nomination without ever surfacing to answer questions about his personal financial gains as governor and thereafter."

Rhodes said he would make no disclosures about his finances "at this time."

Sen. Gurney blasts fund indictment

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Sen. Edward J. Gurney says his indictment on a charge of failing to report campaign contributions results from a "political Pearl Harbor attack" by Democrats.

"I am absolutely innocent," the Florida Republican said in a Monday statement confirming reports that a Leon County grand jury had voted to indict him for allegedly violating a Florida election law. "This is deliberate political harassment of the basest sort."

Gurney's Florida attorney, C. Harris Dittmar of Jacksonville, said he would file immediately a motion for dismissal.

The indictment reportedly was voted by the grand jury Friday. The jury is in recess until Wednesday.

A spokesman in Gurney's Washington office said the 60-year-old senator was accused in the one-count indictment of accepting campaign contributions without appointing a campaign treasurer or setting up a campaign bank account, as required by Florida law.

The charge carries a maximum sentence of one year in prison and a $1,000 fine. State officials may be removed from office under the law, but state officials say the statute was unclear whether federal officeholders also could be ousted.

Gurney, a member of the Senate Watergate Committee who is up for reelection this year, charged the indictment was motivated by one of the Democrats seeking his Senate seat.

"I am confident that the processes of justice and the court will operate swiftly to vindicate me of this unlawful charge and any wrongdoing," said Gurney, who was first elected to the Senate in 1968 after serving three terms in the House.

The grand jury launched its investigation last week after State Rep. Marshall Harris, D-Miami, charged that Gurney admitted during a December news conference that he had violated the reporting law. Harris also appeared before the panel.

At the news conference, Gurney said he learned in mid-1972 that $100,000 had been raised in his name without his knowledge.

He said he ordered the fund raising stopped but did not report the money already collected because he was not a candidate at the time and did not have a fund-raising committee. He still has not reported the money because he says he does not know who gave it.

Gurney charged in his statement that Harris had gone before the grand jury to help his "crony," State Sen. Richard Pettigrew, D-Miami, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for Gurney's seat.

"A U.S. Senate seat is clearly at stake here," Gurney said. "That's why Harris and Pettigrew started this in hopes that the Democrats won't have to face me this fall."

Wage, price controls end at midnight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Price controls will end over steel, health and a few other industries at midnight tonight when the administration's 2½-year-old wage and price control program dies an unceremonious death.

Despite high hopes when the controls program was imposed by President Nixon in August 1971, controls have been the clear loser in the battle with inflation. Prices, which increased at a 3.6 per cent annual rate then, now are rising at a 14.5 per cent rate.

Besides steel and health, controls also will end at midnight over all wages, the copper industry, construction, food processors and retail auto sales.

The only exception is the petroleum industry, which will remain under a separate set of controls until March 1975.

The nation may soon feel the effects of the end of controls, since there are predictions that steel prices could jump 13 per cent in the next few months and that health costs, including doctor and hospital fees, could soar even higher.

Most of the nation's industry previously was exempted from controls, frequently in exchange for price-restraining commitments, although the administration's Cost of Living Council will lack authority even to enforce these commitments after controls expire.

Gary L. Seever, a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, warned Monday that if inflation continues unchecked, controls may be back within a year.

Seever told a meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce here the nation may finally have entered "a period of fairly stable food prices." He said prices of fresh foods already are falling, and those of processed foods will not be far behind.

Deaths, Funerals

Walter Frye

Walter Frye, 83, of 1003 Briar Ave., died at 2 a.m. Tuesday in Fayette Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient two days. He had been in failing health several years.

Born in Clinton County, Mr. Frye had spent most of his life in the Sabina community and had resided in Washington C.H. for the past six years. He was a retired carpenter and a member of the Pilgrim Holiness Church in Leesburg.

He is survived by a son, Dean, 1003 Briar Ave.; two grandchildren; a great-grandson and a sister, Mrs. Marie Stickdorn, of Moxahala.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home here with the Rev. Don Baker, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiating. Burial will be in Highlawn Memory Gardens.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 3 to 5 and 7 until 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Ivan Hyer

NEW HOLLAND — Mrs. Leah Hyer, 65, of New Holland, died at 5 a.m. Tuesday at her home of an apparent heart attack. She had suffered a heart attack a year ago.

Born in Clarksburg, Mrs. Hyer moved to New Holland with her husband, Ivan, in 1964. She was a member of the Clarksburg United Methodist Church and Purity Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, in New Holland.

Besides her husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Roy Godden, Clarksburg; a daughter, Miss Barbara Hyer, New Holland; and two sisters, Mrs. Madge Southard, Clarksburg, and Mrs. Ruth Asher, New Holland.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland, with the Rev. Printis Spear officiating. Burial will be in Brown's Chapel Cemetery, Clarksburg.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Caroline Johnson

SPRINGFIELD — Services for Mrs. Caroline Johnson, 78, of Springfield will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Richards Memorial Home. Mrs. Johnson, the widow of Walter Johnson, died in Mercy Medical Center at 8:50 p.m. Sunday. Born in New Vienna to James and Melissa Neff Wise, she had resided in Springfield most of her life.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Lanora Bartley and a niece, Helen Morris, both of Washington C.H.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday. Burial will be in Glen Haven Memorial Gardens.

Mrs. Nora Trowbridge

COLUMBUS — Graveside services will be conducted at 1:15 p.m. Wednesday in the Sabina Cemetery, Sabina, for Mrs. Nora V. Trowbridge, of 455 Belvidere Ave., who died Monday. A retired employe of North American, she is survived by two nephews, James and Robert Roberts, both of Washington C.H.; a niece, Mrs. Estel (Patty) Spurlock of Sabina; and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Myrtle Roberts of Sabina.

The Jerry Spears Funeral Home, 2893 W. Broad St., is in charge of the services.

EDWARD SHACKLEFORD — Services for Edward Shackleford, 89, of 614 W. Market St., were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Harold Shackleford Jr. officiating. Mr. Shackleford, a retired meat cutter for Gorton Frozen Food Locker, died Thursday.

The obituary was read by Mrs. Medreth Havens. Pallbearers for the burial in Washington Cemetery were Dustin Gorton, Frank Boylan, Jack Noel, Charles Calhoun, Jeff Coates and the Rev. Harold Shackleford Jr.

Bonus Commission seeks ex-POWs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission is looking for eligible former prisoners of war.

"The only criterion ex-POW's must meet to qualify for a special bonus of $1,000 is proof of one full year of Ohio residency immediately prior to entering service during the compensable period of the Vietnam conflict," said John W. Bush, the commission's director.

Bush said a special effort is being made to find the eligible ex-Pow's.

Glenn, Metzenbaum continue to hurl campaign charges

By The Associated Press
Charges continued to fly in the heated campaign between U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum and former astronaut John Glenn for the Democratic Senate nomination as the race entered its final full week Monday.

Glenn's campaign manager denied a charge by Metzenbaum that Glenn didn't vote until he was 37 and accused the senator of "personally conducting a smear campaign based on outright lies."

Metzenbaum made the charge about Glenn's voting record during a debate in Cleveland last week.

Stephen J. Kovacic Jr. said that "from the time he was 21, John Glenn voted from Muskingum County."

"Muskingum County at that time was a nonregistration county; there are no records dating further back than 1958, when John was 37 years old," he said.

Kovacic said Metzenbaum's people "know damned well that there is no way on earth for anyone to check on whether or not John Glenn—or anyone

No college expansion needed for Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A citizens' task force on higher education recommended today that no new two-year or four-year colleges be established in Ohio.

The 46-page document submitted to the state Board of Regents and the legislature further suggests that no existing two-year schools be expanded into four-year facilities.

The full report was to be made available this afternoon, a spokeswoman for the group said. She said proposed projects with funds already appropriated are not affected by the report.

Probably another year of study will be done before recommendations are finalized, she said.

"On the basis of geography and current and projected enrollment trends, Ohio's system is complete," the report states.

"The larger and, more important issue now is to promote participation by all citizens, particularly students from low income families."

The task force, created by Gov. John J. Gilligan, recommended an increase in maximum grants awarded to students under the Ohio Instructional Grants Program and an upward adjustment of the income ceiling to $15,000 for families eligible to participate in the program.

The report also suggested that private schools be awarded additional developmental funds for OIP students, the black Elizabeth Park area of Akron with City Council President Edward Davis, who told residents the senator "has been our friend and helped us for a long time, and we remember our friend."

Metzenbaum's opponent for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination, John Glenn, also visited Akron and declared: "The thing that overrides almost everything else this year is the need to elect people to office in whom the public have confidence."

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown's campaign committee announced it had filed its second voluntary financial disclosure statement with Common Cause, the consumer lobby.

The report listed all contributors from Jan. 27, 1972 through April 20, 1974, the committee said, and showed receipts of $236,516 and expenditures totaling $139,049, with a balance of $97,466.

Thomas Cloud, Republican candidate for state auditor, charged the Democratic officeholder and his son are the beneficiaries of an illegal "flower fund."

Cloud leveled the charge against Auditor Joseph Ferguson and his son, Deputy Auditor Thomas Ferguson, who is seeking the Democratic nomination, before newsmen in the presence of the younger Ferguson.

Cloud said auditor's office employes were required to contribute to the campaign, in violation of state law.

Ferguson declared, "If he has any proof of those charges, he should back them up. If not, he ought to apologize and get out of the campaign."

He said office employes have contributed to his campaign, but did so voluntarily. He said about half of the $80,000 in his campaign chest came from employe contributions.

Henry Eckhart, candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, pledged his full support of Gilligan's policies and programs, if elected.

Eckhart, who was on Gilligan's cabinet for two years as chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, said he felt he understood the governor's policies and programs and "can effectively carry them out."

A Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, state Sen. Stanley Aronoff of Cincinnati, disclosed campaign contributions since November 1972 of $41,972, with expenditures totaling $11,854.

Nixon pays

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — President Nixon has paid most of the $432,787 plus interest that the Internal Revenue service said he owes in back income taxes, the Baltimore Sun said today in a story attributed to an authoritative source.

The Sun, in a dispatch from its Washington bureau, said the source refused to reveal how much of the debt had been paid.

else in Muskingum County voted." Meanwhile, Metzenbaum's campaign office in Cleveland released copies of a letter purporting to support the senator's contention that Glenn is avoiding face-to-face confrontations.

The letter was from Fred L. Wymore, associate producer of Nick Clooney Productions, Inc., in Cincinnati, to Jerry Brown, director of scheduling for the Metzenbaum For Senate Committee.

In it Wymore said Glenn decided "not to appear on the air with the senator" but "did ask for separate appearances on the same day." That request was rejected, Wymore said.

He apparently referred to a proposed joint appearance of the two candidates on the Nick Clooney Show on WKRC-TV.

Metzenbaum and Glenn both campaigned in Akron Monday, with the senator going on to Cleveland for a black leadership rally and Glenn returning to Columbus.

specifically, $400 per student from a family with an income of less than $8,000 and $200 for those from families of $15,000 incomes or less.

The board of regents should modify its present formula for funding colleges and universities to help cover costs of admitting counseling and providing student services to parttime students, the report said.

Hopefully, it said, this will encourage more night time classes and services for older adults.

The report recommended against a consolidation of individual school trustees into a statewide higher educational system.

"To make it a super governing board through the elimination of boards of trustees would violate the ardent desire of Ohioans to avoid a monolithic, centralized bureaucracy with a 'Columbus knows best' philosophy," the report said.

The report said state funding of higher education should be increased substantially, although it didn't recommend a dollar figure. It pointed out that Ohio ranks 34th among the states in the percentage of state monies that go to support colleges and universities.

Also, the report called for a freeze of college costs during the first two years, but said fees should be higher the remaining two years because of more costly teaching materials and instructors.

By The Associated Press
A high pressure system will begin to dominate Ohio's weather Wednesday, bringing clear skies except for possible cloudy conditions along the shores of Lake Erie. The temperatures Wednesday will be cooler than recent days, with highs from the low 60s north to the low 70s south.

Clouds spread across the state overnight and rain was spreading over the state from the north Tuesday morning. Temperatures have remained mild with all sections of the state having early morning readings in the upper 50s and low 60s.

Many areas of the state were reporting low visibilities in fog Tuesday morning as a cold front approached Ohio from the Mississippi Valley. As it passes across the state temperatures will fall back to near normal spring levels.

Highs across the state today will range from the upper 60s in the north to the upper 70s in the south where the front will pass this afternoon and evening.

A chance of showers Thursday through Saturday. Cool Thursday with highs in the 60s, warming to the 70s Friday and Saturday. Lows in the 40s Thursday and Friday and in the 50s Saturday.

Demo sample ballot hit by candidate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — R. Kent Bell, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, Monday blasted the Ohio Democratic party for not including the names of all candidates on a sample ballot being mailed to Democrats throughout the state.

Bell, who was not endorsed by the party's executive committee for the May 7 primary, has asked Secretary of State Ted W. Brown to investigate the mailing of the ballot which lists only endorsed Democratic candidates.

"To call a piece of literature a sample ballot when it does not contain names of all the candidates to me is not legal and is misleading to the Democratic voters of Ohio," Bell said.

James Marsh, assistant secretary of state, said Brown will answer Bell's complaint, but said he doubted the party had violated any law.

More than a million letters, each containing two sample ballots, will be delivered to registered Democratic households May 2-6, a party spokesman said.

The party executive committee endorsed candidates who received 60 per cent or more of the committee's votes. Party support of these candidates includes the sample ballot mailing, which will cost $68,000 in postage alone, said Michael Lorz, party communications director.

Jury probes killing at Wilmington

WILMINGTON — A special Clinton County grand jury summoned to consider evidence surrounding last week's shotgun slaying of a Martinsville man resumed deliberations at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

The special grand jury recessed shortly after 4 p.m. Monday after a full day's deliberation into. April 22 killing of Randall Goldie, of Martinsville.

A number of witnesses appeared before the special grand jury during Monday's opening session and several more were scheduled Tuesday.

Accused of aggravated murder in Goldie's death is Dale A. Powell, 26, a member of the Wilmington Police Department for the past 26 months who is now under suspension.

Powell was charged with aggravated murder last Wednesday, just two days after the 22-year-old owner of a novelty import shop was found shot to death in his car in the parking lot of Scottie's Restaurant, 1032 Wayne Road.

Meanwhile, a preliminary hearing which had originally been scheduled for 3 p.m. Monday in Wilmington Municipal Court was postponed until 3 p.m. Wednesday.

A police department source said the preliminary hearing would not be held if the special grand jury reports an indictment against the former Wilmington police officer before then.

POWELL, who was arrested in city hall Wednesday, has been free on $25,000 bond since Thursday when he appeared in Wilmington Municipal Court for a bond-setting hearing. He has been suspended from the police force by Police Chief Thomas E. White pending final disposition of the aggravated murder charge.

White, who was appointed to the police chief's position five months ago, said Monday that police are holding a female juvenile for questioning in the case at an undisclosed location.

Two other Wilmington police officers, Ursel Webb, 37, and Paul Dischner, 32, were suspended from the force Friday for alleged failure to disclose all information they knew about the shooting case. White has said Webb and Dischner are not involved in any way in the shooting incident.

There has been widespread speculation that Goldie's shooting was related to illegal drug activities in the area, but no one close to the investigation, including Chief White would confirm it.

Goldie was shot several times at close range with a shotgun. He was discovered dead in his late model sports car at 11 p.m. Monday in the restaurant parking lot after residents in the area reported hearing gunshots. Police found four empty shotgun shells at the scene.

lot of air," said Albright, a 42-year-old apartment manager and self-described Nixon supporter. "But in the short run it's going to create a storm brewed primarily by his detractors."

Bill Sweeney remained generally silent during the speech, but when Nixon again asked that Watergate be left behind, he interjected: "Oh please, don't give me that again."

Later, he took out an envelope on which he had scribbled a passage from a book one of his children was reading. It was the eulogy Nixon had delivered for the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"His life is a reminder to us that there is a moral force in the world more powerful than the might of armies or the wealth of nations," Sweeney read. Then he added: "Why couldn't this man have shown that moral force he talked about?"

Juskiewicz, a 35-year-old salesman, said Nixon should have complied fully with the subpoena. "I think he's trying to be an honest guy, but he's going about it in the wrong way."

The Nixon speech did nothing to shake the opinions of Harold Harris, an 83-year-old retired diamond merchant. "You know the old saying, 'If at first you do deceive, what an awful web you weave.'"

"But I tell you, he's smart and clever," added Harris, who watched the speech in his apartment 15 miles north of Miami. "I'd hate to see him impeached. I'd rather have a smart crook in the White House than a dumb one."

Pemberton, 29, general manager of a consulting firm, said at one point, "He's either naive, or he thinks everyone else is. He let it drag on too long. But I think he's taking a good step."

While he spoke, his wife Linda, also 29 and registered an independent as her husband looked again at their large color television set in their suburban Little Rock home. "The past couple of years have really aged him," she said. "It seems so noticeable."

Stock prices up slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market eked out a small advance today in slow and inconclusive trading.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up .78 at 836.20, and advances led declines by about 5 to 4 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said many investors were holding off on any investment commitments until they could get some indication of when the surge in interest rates would ease.

Consolidated Edison of New York was the Big Board's most-active stock, down 5/8 at 9 7/8. The issue has fallen from a price of 18 since the company announced it was omitting its second quarter dividend.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was up .01 at 89.86.

Metals, aerospace, and oil service issues were among the gainers.

sugar as a leader at prices well below wholesale costs.

Five pounds of granulated sugar on Nov. 1, 1973, cost on the average in the 14 cities surveyed only 80 cents. Today the average is $1.07.

Supermarket officials say the carload wholesale price is about $1.27 for five-pound packages.

Big hikes in the price of flour and sugar contributed to a 17.9 per cent increase in chocolate chip cookies — from an average of 67 cents for a 14 one-half ounce package to an average of 79 cents today.

All paper products have shot up in price. A two-roll kitchen towel package, one of the items in the Ohio marketbasket jumped 19 per cent in price in six months, from 47 cents last November to 56 cents today.

Toilet tissue and napkins have followed much the same price spiral.

Milk prices shot up 12.5 per cent in the same six-month period, too. Government controlled prices paid by producers to farmers reflected higher feed and labor costs.

Peanut butter, a favorite source of protein, moved up 13 per cent as meat moved downward. Six months ago 12 ounces of peanut butter cost 46 cents on average against 56 cents Tuesday.

Cities surveyed for the Ohio marketbasket included Akron, Athens, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Conneaut, Dayton, Lima, Massillon, Portsmouth, Toledo, Van Wert, Youngstown, Coshocton and Zanesville.

The 14 selected items included pork chops, ground chuck, all-beef frankfurters, eggs, butter, cookies, orange juice, paper towels, peanut butter, detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk and sugar.

Executive privilege shift made

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a turnabout from past declarations, President Nixon cited three reasons Monday night why he is setting aside the principle of executive privilege to make public numerous transcripts of presidential conversations.

"First, in the present circumstances the House of Representatives must be able to reach an informed judgment about the President's role in Watergate," he said.

"Second, I am making a major exception to the principle of confidentiality because I believe such action is now necessary to restore the principle itself, by clearing the air of the central question that has brought such pressures upon it ....

"Third, in the context of the current impeachment climate, I believe all the American people as well as their representatives in Congress are entitled to have not only the facts, but also the evidence that demonstrates those facts. I want there to be no question remaining about the fact that the President has nothing to hide in this matter."

Nixon's statement Monday night on the value of the taped conversations precisely contradicted what he said last July in a letter to Chairman Sam J.

Ervin Jr., D-N.C., of the Senate Watergate committee.

This time Nixon referred to the accounts of the conversations as "the evidence which will allow this matter to be brought to a prompt conclusion."

But in the letter to Ervin rejecting a tapes request, Nixon had said much earlier in the Watergate affair:

"If the release of the tapes would settle the central questions at issue in the Watergate inquiries, then their disclosure might serve a substantial public interest that would have to be weighed very heavily against the negatives of disclosure. That fact is that the tapes would not finally settle the central issue."

Nixon said: "Unless a president can protect the privacy of the advice he gets, he cannot get the advice that he needs."

He had elaborated on that theme at length in past public appearances starting almost from the time last July when the existence of a White House tape recording system first was disclosed at the Senate Watergate hearings.

But this time, said Nixon, the three factors "combined to persuade me that a major, unprecedented exception to that principle is now necessary."

Nixon yielded on tapes before.

After losing a federal court appeal on a case involving tapes sought by the Watergate special prosecutor, Nixon stopped short of going to the Supreme Court, choosing instead to hand over the tapes.

An appeal to the highest court, he explained later, would have brought confrontation "between the Supreme Court and the President. And second, it would have established very possibly a precedent, a precedent breaking down constitutionality that would plague future presidencies, not just (the) President."

Kissinger holds talks in Mideast

ALGIERS (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is meeting today with the presidents of Algeria and Egypt after receiving a Soviet assurance of help in getting Syria to agree to a troop disengagement agreement with Israel.

Kissinger talked with Algerian President Houari Boumedienne for 3½ hours Monday night after his arrival from Geneva, and another session was scheduled this morning. U.S. officials said Kissinger wanted to make sure of Boumedienne's "special relationship" with Syria.

The American secretary in a brief statement said the United States is making a major effort to find a basis acceptable to the Syrians and Israelis for stopping the fighting on the Golan Heights.

American officials also reported that relations between the U.S. and Algerian governments were improving but have not yet reached the point of formal restoration of diplomatic relations.

Kissinger was flying to Alexandria this afternoon to confer with President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, then on to Israel Wednesday and Damascus on Thursday. Informed sources said it was likely he also would visit Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and several other smaller Persian Gulf states sometime in the next week.

Kissinger flew to Algiers after nine hours of talks in Geneva with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. They issued a joint communique saying they had agreed to exercise their influence "towards a positive outcome and to remain in close touch with each other so as to strive to coordinate their efforts for a peaceful settlement in the area."

3 women held in officer's death

DEVALLS BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Prosecuting Atty. Sam Weems of Stuttgart said three women would be arraigned here today in connection with a robbery and slaying of a Hazen policeman.

State police said Morris Greenwalt, 51, the policeman, was killed Monday night while trying to apprehend three women wanted in an armed robbery at Brinkley.

Authorities said the women, in their 20s, were captured at Hazen. No charges had been filed Monday night.

Chrysler sets price boosts of nearly $100

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp., staggering from a 98 per cent drop in first-quarter profits, has boosted the average price of its cars $99. It predicts two more increases in the next five months.

Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council condemned the increase Chrysler announced on Monday as "irresponsible."

The 2.9 per cent increase in sticker prices is Chrysler's third since Dec. 10, when the Cost of Living Council lifted controls on the auto industry in return for a promise from all auto makers except Chrysler to limit price hikes to $150 per car for the balance of the 1974 model year barring "unforeseen major economic events."

Chrysler Chairman Lynn Townsend said the new increase is justified because of skyrocketing costs, despite the commitment.

Dunlop fired back, "I view Mr. Townsend's statement as a display of consummate gall in announcing an interpretation of an agreement to which he chose not to be a party."

"While his competitors are participating in the effort through decontrol commitments to stabilize prices through the remainder of the 1974 model year, Mr. Townsend, in effect, now calls on his competitors to raise their prices in violation of their agreements with the council."

With worldwide vehicle sales off 14 per cent and U.S. car sales down 20.3 per cent from 1973, Chrysler reported sales of $2.7 billion, down 7 per cent from the first quarter of 1973.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From
WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

WASHINGTON — President Nixon recently requested an additional five billion dollars in foreign aid appropriations for the Mideast and Indochina.

For the nearly 14 years I have been in Congress, I have opposed foreign aid, but I am particularly against giving any money whatsoever to the Mideast countries for many, many reasons.

We are suffering from one of our worst and prolonged periods of inflation. Some economic experts even believe we are tottering on the brink of a recession, despite the rosy picture recently painted by one presidential advisor. He predicted the economy will begin to stabilize in the second quarter and be on an upturn in the second half of the year.

I don't see how this is possible when the Department of Labor figures for last month revealed that the consumer price index jumped another 1.1 per cent in March. This increase follows fast on the heels of consumer price index rises of one per cent in January and another 1.3 per cent in February.

What this also means is that the average rank-and-file production worker experienced another 0.9 per cent drop in his purchasing power. This is the ninth monthly dip in the last year.

In fact, real spendable earnings now stand a whopping 4.7 per cent below their level of a year ago, which is the largest drop ever on record.

Most people didn't have to wait for the Department of Labor to tell them this statistically: all they had to do was look in their wallets.

MOST CONSUMERS could also tell inflation was still king by checking the pump prices at their local gas stations or by totalling up their monthly grocery bills.

Once again, food and energy prices were the primary cause for the consumer price index increase. And the primary cause for the jump in both of these areas is directly related to the Arab oil embargo.

Under these circumstances, to give any Mideast country millions of dollars in foreign aid after their activities have caused us untold billions of dollars in economic hardship is absolutely ridiculous.

Of the Arab states involved in this latest foreign aid giveaway, Egypt would benefit the most with some $250 million. While Egypt was helpful in encouraging the rest of the Arab countries to end the oil embargo and does not export much oil herself, she did support the oil cutoff to the U.S. last fall.

I suspect she only changed her views once the prospects of getting foreign aid from the U.S. became a possibility, and by then at least three months of the embargo had taken their toll on the American economy in higher prices and fewer jobs.

So now the Administration wants to reward them with a few million dollars to rebuild their country after the latest round of fighting in the Mideast. Israel would also get $350 million and Jordan would be awarded a mere $207 million.

THE MONEY is supposed to be used for reconstruction and aid to refugees mainly, but in spite of the apparent humanitarian intent in giving the aid, I don't see how it will ever help to buy peace in the Mideast. The fighting is still going on there, and giving these countries this money for domestic purposes leaves them with more money to spend of their own on military purposes.

Furthermore, if the fighting flares up again into another major war, we have no assurance whatsoever that the Arabs would not resume their embargo. The money obviously cannot buy peace, then, and our foreign aid has never succeeded in buying friends, so all we would be doing is throwing needed money away, fanning the fires of inflation at home and keeping the flames of war glowing in the Mideast.

We don't have the money in the first place, and our primary responsibility is to keep spending down and try to bring inflation under control here at home. We won't do it with foreign aid. We never have and we never will.

We need, instead, to concentrate on more "domestic aid" and improving our own domestic relations. There is more than enough good uses for the taxpayers money at home than there ever is or will be abroad.

Impeachment effects said far-reaching

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says his impeachment by the House of Representatives would affect "the lives of all Americans for many years to come" and would be felt throughout the world.

In his broadcast address Monday night, Nixon said he is turning over transcripts of Watergate-related conversations to the House Judiciary Committee and making them public "because this (impeachment) is an issue that profoundly affects all the American people."

Even if he is not convicted by the Senate, his impeachment by the House "would put the nation through a wrenching ordeal it has endured only once in its lifetime, a century ago, and never since America has become a world power with global responsibilities," Nixon said.

The President returned several times to the theme of what would happen to the United States if he is impeached, and he stressed how it would affect America's role as a world power.

Asserting that, "We live in a time of very great challenge and great opportunity for America," he provided his assessment of what could happen under a continued Nixon administration:

"We live at a time when peace may become possible in the Middle East, for the first time in a generation.

"We are at last in the process of fulfilling the hope of mankind, for a limitation on nuclear arms—a process that will continue when I meet with the Soviet leaders in Moscow in a few weeks.

"We are well on the way toward building a peace that can last, not just for this, but for other generations as well."

Turning to domestic matters, Nixon said, "There is vital work to be done in moving to control inflation, to develop our energy resources, to strengthen our economy so that Americans can enjoy what they have not had since 1956: Full prosperity without war and without inflation."

He said the voluminous materials he is making public "will provide all the additional evidence needed to get Watergate behind us, and to get it behind us now."

"Every day absorbed by Watergate is a day lost from the work that must be done—by your President and by your Congress—work that must be done in dealing with the great problems that affect your prosperity, affect your security, that could affect your lives."

Ohio campaign law signed by Gilligan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown says Ohio's new campaign finance reform law will free over 3,000 former candidates from a five-year penalty for failing to file expense reports on time.

The bill, signed last week by Gov. John J. Gilligan, will take effect July 23.

Before the legislature passed the bill in early April, a joint conference committee added a provision that would disqualify late filers from seeking office for one year and eliminate the five-year penalty.

The one-year penalty was removed from the bill before it was approved, but the five-year penalty was not reinstated.

James Marsh, assistant secretary of state, said the measure eliminates the five-year penalty, and contains only monetary penalties for late filing.

Brown is sending a directive to county boards of elections this week authorizing them to reject a candidate's petition if it violates the election law. But there is nothing prohibiting acceptance of a petition if a candidate was disqualified under the previous law, Brown said.

Other Statehouse sources contend the law applies only to future candidates. They point out that retroactive laws are unconstitutional in Ohio.

State Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-4 Middletown, is one of the candidates who would be affected by Brown's interpretation.

Lukens was barred from seeking public office until 1978 after his 1972 state senate campaign expense report was filed late. Lukens said he had mailed an expense statement on time, but that it was lost in the mail.

Ohio lottery tickets ordered by board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's first lottery tickets, described as "a four-month's supply, are being ordered from a Philadelphia firm at a cost of $119,000.

The State Controlling Board approved the purchase Monday after being told they will be printed by the Globe Ticket Co. at a cost of $17.71 per thousand sheets. Delivery is expected by June 24, a spokesman for the Department of Administrative Services said.

In other business, the board approved $3,119,000 in additional costs growing out of the tragic tornadoes that wrecked the Xenia area April 3.

Of the total, all but $119,000 went for repairs to the campus of Central State University. The adjunct general's office received $119,000 to pay the remainder of costs of the Ohio National Guard for its service in the storm area.

Along with an earlier allocation for the guard, its total rose to $798,000. The latest amount was for the period from April 11 through April 22 — last day guardsmen were on duty in the area.

In other business, the board approved:

—Release of $1.4 million for the University of Akron's Institute of Polymer Science addition.

—Authorized spending $1.1 million by Kent State University for physical education and other facilities at its Trumbull County branch.

—Authorized the release of $2.3 million for a new technical building and renovation work at Ohio University's Zanesville branch.

—Approved $160,000 and $100,000 for planning at Ohio State University's Mansfield and Marion campuses, respectively.

—Okayed four land purchases totaling slightly more than $1 million for Youngstown State University, most of it for property at the corner of Lincoln Ave. and Phelps St., Youngstown.

—Released $335,764 to the Ohio Board of Regents to purchase equipment for technical institutes at a total of 17 locations.

—Authorized the Department of Natural Resources to spend $26,200 for acquisition of more land for Kelleys Island State Park, and $107,500 for a 75-acre addition to Punderson State Park in Geauga County.

Lame duck junkets

The public benefits derived from congressional travel abroad at public expense are at best somewhat "iffy" in many cases.

Still, one may be inclined to give members of Congress the benefit of the doubt when they head for distant places in supposed pursuance of an obligation to inform themselves about their concerns as lawmakers.

Downright skepticism is warranted, though, when — as happens every year — we hear about lame duck senators or representatives traveling overseas. In such cases it is often hard to find any justification at all for spending tax money.

Examples are instructive. Rep.

Thomas P. O'Neill heads a 50-person delegation to attend interparliamentary conferences in Taiwan and South Korea. Among those in this group is Rep. Charles S. Gubser of California, who plans to retire at year's end.

Another imminent congressional retiree, Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain of Michigan, will be able to reflect at leisure — in his new status as a former public servant — on a similar interparliamentary conference in Romania. The party is going by way of Greece, Turkey and Bulgaria, with a weekend stopoff in Paris on the way home.

Utah's retiring Sen. Wallace F. Bennett and Rep. Thomas S. Gettys

of South Carolina, who won't be around Capitol Hill after his present term either, are on a recess trip to Malaysia. In Kuala Lumpur they will be among "observers" as Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz — also outgoing — takes part in an Asian Development Bank meeting.

Participation in such journeys by lawmakers who will continue on the job may, in varying degree, ultimately serve the public interest. How that interest is served by the participation at public expense of those in the last few months of their public service escapes us.

That derogatory word, "junket," comes insistently to mind.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Why object to Cuba?

WASHINGTON — If you refuse — as I do — to have favorite dictatorships, you are constantly on somebody's blacklist.

For some reason or other, perfectly intelligent, nice people get furious when you inquire why we should boycott Rhodesian chrome and buy it from the Soviet Union. I met with some concerned clerics recently who have been trying to get American universities to rid their investment portfolios of South African stocks — they didn't even smile when I asked if Chase Manhattan should be penalized for establishing a Moscow branch (and or Karl Marx Street, at that).

I gathered they thought I was letting down the side, and perhaps a racist to boot.

Admittedly, I would like to live in a world composed of free nations — I reject the essentially patronizing notion that democracy is simply not appropriate for the "Third World."

But I don't confuse my hopes with reality: the democratic nations at the U.N. could caucus in a small conference room. Indeed, I have long suspected that a secret ballot would find a U.N. majority convinced that representative, free government is dangerous and inherently unstable.

army simply switched sides. Subsequently, as American policy hardened, Castro decided he needed Soviet protection, hastily read "The Communist Manifesto," and announced he was a Communist.

The Soviets must rue that day. The fact is that Castro is a classic "Jefe," a romantic Latin fascist who combines dedication to the "revolution" which an addiction to $1 cigars and the good life. A first-rate demagogue, he has all the ideological sophistication of a fire hydrant.

BUT WE OVERREACTED absurdly. Suddenly we learned there was a Communist bastion "90 miles from Florida." (Actually, 90 miles from Key West, which is a good distance from the mainland.) The CIA cranked up for the Bay of Pigs and disaster, and Khrushchev saw an opportunity to shift the nuclear balance by sticking some intermediate range ballistic missiles (IRBMs) in Cuba. (At that time, Soviet ICBMs, which could reach the U.S. from Russia, were still on the drawing board.)

We know the outcome of that adventure, but fail to realize that the USSR was left with an economic disaster area. Welfare payments to Cuba have probably cost the Soviets over half a billion dollars a year. Cuba, which in 1956 was on the edge of economic take-off (with the highest per capita income in Latin America), has become a model outdoor slum.

(It has gotten so bad that all the good "Cuban" cigars now come from Tampa, the Canary Islands and Honduras. The home-made ones taste as though they had been filled with pulverized tobacco roots. This, in my judgment, ranks as one of the real tragedies of the Cold War.)

Now the Organization of American States (OAS) is considering Cuban readmission. Secretary of State Kissinger, after delivering the patent-office speech on inter-American partnership, stated that we have yet to consider the Cuban issue on the merits.

It seems to me that as long as the Soviets have to pick up the tab, there is no sensible reason why we should object. In other words, let us normalize relations, get good tobacco for the Tampa cigarmakers (mostly Cuban refugees), but insist that the Soviets send Castro his monthly welfare checks.

Our relations, after all, are not based on love: we simply do business with the characters who run various kinds of regimes. That is, unless we have favorite dictatorships and play with a double moral standard.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 1

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)

A day for distinguished planning and achievement. No circuitous road for you, nor lack of enthusiasm! Some of your objectives are close to attainment.

TAURUS (April; 21 to May 21)

Good stellar influences should encourage you to step out and try for bigger gains. Accelerate your pace, but do not reduce effectiveness by scattering energies.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)

Your chances for advancement in cherished pursuits are good now, but don't go too far out on the proverbial limb and don't go off on tangents.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)

Stars indicate that you could now strike out for a higher goal. You may have to take a different route to achieve it, but the new avenue could be a better one.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)

Unique ideas, thoughtfully presented — and at the right time — could bring new gains now. A good period, also, for making long-range plans.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Objectivity and foresight will be this day's prime requirements. Do not be coerced into deals or activities which you would not normally consider.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Your artistry may be so stimulated

now that you wonder, where all your ideas come from. But just follow them to their logical conclusion and you'll be amazed at results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

It may be your turn to take the initiative now, but be as careful in details as you would be in major issues.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Some complicated situations now call for careful discussion, mediation between opposing parties, a shift in positions. Handle all with your innate foresight and discretion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Even though you disagree, LISTEN to others. Their methods may be different but possibly are as good or better than yours. Discuss, don't hassle.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Channel efforts where they will serve advantageously, where you unusual talents are recognized and appreciated. Don't be led off a constructive course.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)

The Piscean is noted for his generosity, but don't let excessive sympathy or emotions divert your altruism into unwise channels. Use good judgment.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine intellect, lofty ambitions and the tenacity required to attain them. The fields in which you can succeed are almost endless since your versatility is outstanding. You have definite inclinations toward art, but are also attracted to science (especially in the medical and research fields); could succeed in the law, diplomacy, music or practically any area of the entertainment world. Do not let tendencies toward willfulness and obstinacy alienate those who have your best interests at heart.

Demo quits Cincy Council

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati City Council was shaken Monday by the unexpected resignation of Vice Mayor Gerald Springer, who was to succeed Theodore Berry as mayor in December.

The announcement leaves only one Democrat now on the council, although the party scored a sweeping victory last fall.

Springer cited "very personal family considerations" for his resignation. The 30-year-old New York native had been one of the Democrats' top vote-getters since entering local politics in 1970.

"My family must and does come before my own political career," Springer said in a message left at his City Hall office.

The move came a day before Springer was to meet with Democratic leaders to assist in the selection of a successor to fill U.S. Rep. Thomas Luken's vacant council seat. Luken was elected in March in a special election to fill the chair of U.S. Rep. William Keating, who resigned to become president of The Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mayor court dispute flares

By PERRY SMITH

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Backers call it a bill whose time has arrived. Opponents contend it is a pork barrel attempt to usurp local authority.

What they are arguing over is a controversial measure that would abolish the some 500 mayors' courts in operation around the state.

Similar legislation has been introduced in every session of the legislature for the past dozen years, but the latest attempt is different.

The difference has backers of mayors' courts worried.

In an effort to get support for his bill, Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, had the measure amended to create 38 new judgeships throughout the state.

Wilkowski admits it is pork barrel legislation.

"Frankly, without creating the new judgeships we would never have gotten the bill out of committee," he said.

It came out — just barely — the day prior to the spring legislative recess. It is now in the House Rules Committee, which can schedule it for a floor vote.

Wilkowski said he hopes to get the bill out of the Rules Committee May 8 and have it on the House floor May 15, the day after the full legislature convenes.

"I have 45 votes counted for it and that is not including a single Republican vote," he said. "I think there are at least four Republicans who will vote for it."

Wilkowski said his main worry will be attendance after the primary.

"Some of the members who are defeated may not show up," he said. Wilkowski said in that case he would try to delay the May 15 floor vote.

The Toledo legislator said he believed the costs of the new judges would be worth the price. "You can't put a dollar figure on justice," he said, "and there is little justice in mayors' courts."

Wilkowski and his supporters believe mayors' courts are little more than revenue-producing sources for municipalities. Many mayors agreed.

"It is the worst kind of justice," said Richard Broughton, former mayor of suburban Upper Arlington. "As a mayor I know. I practiced it."

Broughton said there always was a tendency for a mayor acting as a judge to back his policemen to the fullest, even if they could be wrong.

"They don't want to go against their police officers," he said, "because good ones are hard to find. You try to keep them happy."

Rep. Raymond Luther, R-1 Newark, opposes the bill, contending mayors' courts should remain.

"Nobody knows the problems a person may have like the mayor in a small community," he said. "Anybody who doesn't want to be tried by one can always transfer the case to a municipal court."

Wilkowski counted that few people know of that provision of the law and that few mayors inform them of that right.

Dear Abby:

Young mother really is husband's sister

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago, when I married Peter, we were both 30 years old. I recall that when he introduced me to his mother, I said: "My what a young-looking mother you have!" (That's what everybody says when they first meet her. She looks about Peter's age.)

After being in this family for ten years, I found out accidentally that Peter's "mother" is not his mother at all. She is his sister! He calls her "Mom." She is only 14 years older than Peter. His real mother died when he was an infant, and his sister raised him after she got married. (Peter was 2 and she was 16.) Why everyone keeps this a big secret is beyond me. It also bugs me because I'm sure everyone wonders how come Peter has such a young-looking mother and such an old looking wife.

It would make me feel a lot better if their relationship were to come out. Would it be wrong for me to spill the beans?

PETER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes. If Peter and his family prefer to keep it a secret, keep quiet. "Mom" may not be Peter's biological mother, but she's the only mother he has ever known, and if it gives him (and her) pleasure to perpetuate the illusion, don't destroy it.

DEAR ABBY: I am having a difference of opinion with my mother. I just started dating and my mother says that when my date comes to pick me up I should be upstairs dressing, and keep him waiting about ten minutes.

I think that when my date rings the doorbell I should be the one to answer it. My mom says that if I do, it will make me look too eager. What do you say?

CANDI

DEAR CANDI: I say that at the sound of the bell, come out smiling. I once knew a girl who kept her date waiting half an hour every time he came to pick her up because she didn't want to appear too eager. She'd send her kid sister to answer the door and entertain her date while he waited. (P.S. He married the kid sister.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a pet peeve I have never seen aired in your column. It's women who wear heavy charm bracelets that go "jingle, jangle, clunkety clunk" in church.

This friend of mine always wears a bracelet like that, and she insists on saving me a seat in church beside her. She always picks a seat down in front and in the middle. Every time she moves her hand, those charm bracelets make a dreadful racket, which is annoying to those sitting near us and embarrassing to me. (I've even seen the organist turn around and give her dirty looks between hymns.)

What is wrong with people like my friend? Don't they know any better? Or don't they care? And how can I tell her without hurting her feelings? She doesn't take criticism very well. LIKES CHURCH-HATES BRACELETS

DEAR LIKES: If your friend isn't aware that her bracelets are annoying to you and others, do the friendly thing and tell her. Then, if she doesn't leave the hardware home, find another seat as far from her as possible.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, April 30, the 120th day of 1974. There are 245 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1789, George Washington was inaugurated as the first President of the United States, at Federal Hall in New York.

On this date: In 1798, the U.S. Navy Department was created by an act of Congress.

In 1803, the Louisiana Purchase was made from France. The size of the United States was more than doubled.

In 1812, Louisiana was admitted to the Union as the 18th state.

In 1900, the engineer of a famous American folk song, Casey Jones, was killed in a train wreck at Vaughan, Miss.

In 1915, wireless communication was established between the District of Columbia and the Panama Canal Zone.

In 1945, Moscow announced that the Soviet flag had been raised over the ruins of the Reichstag in Berlin.

Ten years ago ... the Soviet Union was reported putting out feelers about establishing relations with the European Common Market.

Five years ago ... there were artillery battles along the Suez Canal after an Israeli commando raid deep inside Egypt.

One year ago ... White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman; President Nixon's chief domestic adviser, John D. Ehrlichman; Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, and White House counsel John W. Dean left office as the Watergate scandal mushroomed.

Today's birthdays: Queen Juliana of the Netherlands is 65 years old. Conductor Robert Shaw is 58.

Charles Fry fights for identity

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

BLANCHESTER, Ohio (AP) — It was another long campaign day for Charles E. Fry when he walked into Chester Bates' accounting office in Blancheater, passing out literature and shaking hands.

Bates was an old classmate from Ohio State, so Fry took a few minutes to exchange pleasantries. Then Bates wrote out a $75 check for the Fry campaign.

"When are you up for re-election, Charlie?" Bates asked.

Fry's smile flickered for a second, then quickly returned.

"I'm in the May 7 primary, Chester," he said, "for the nomination for governor."

Bates seemed taken aback. "You're running for governor? Against Jim Rhodes?"

He paused for a second, thinking. "I didn't realize that," Bates said, handing over the check. "Boy, Charlie, you've got a tough row to hoe."

Fry kept on smiling. A 12-year-member of the General Assembly, former speaker pro tem of the House, voted outstanding first-term senator, a member of the so-called Little Hoover Commission and a former special agent for the FBI, Fry knows his biggest problem in the primary is that no one knows who he is or that he's running.

He's working hard to keep former Gov. James A. Rhodes from winning by default.

"You can't deny that the name recognition factor is a problem," said Russ Adams, Fry's campaign consultant. Adams' firm also handled the campaign of U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio.

"He hasn't really capitalized on the matters of state that he's been involved with," Adams said. "He does his job, and he doesn't take advantage of his position."

The anonymity of the legislature means that Fry is spending the last two weeks before the election on an exhausting, 12-hour a day whistlestop bus tour through the state.

He's spending his campaign funds on radio spots, trying to get the name across.

And he pounds away on what he calls his number one plank — integrity in government.

"We're going to take the lead in giving Ohio the most honest government in the nation," Fry says, "This is an issue we can carry."

Fry contends Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan is vulnerable on the question of integrity. But he says Rhodes can't capitalize on the issue because of questions raised about the Rhodes administration.

"We need someone who doesn't need to be defensive about his own record," Fry said, "and that isn't Jim Rhodes."

We're going to take what could be an issue against Republicans and turn it to our advantage."

Fry says if Rhodes does win the nomination, he will lose to Gilligan in November. And he's afraid the rest of the Republican ticket may follow.

"It's going to be a tough campaign," he said. "And it's going to be particularly tough for all Republicans if Jim Rhodes heads the ticket."

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Alan Alda has a system for fighting homesickness when he's in Los Angeles filming "M-A-S-H." He writes. But because of this system he'll have to work doubly hard this summer and next fall.

He now has a second CBS series to worry about. It's "We'll Get By," a half-hour comedy show coming up in September. Alda created it, has written six scripts for it and will be its co-producer.

Alda, who lives in suburban New Jersey with his wife and three kids when "M-A-S-H" isn't shooting, was at home with them, toiling at the typewriter, when asked how he found time to write the new show.

"Well, I'm out there (Hollywood) by myself," he said. "And because my family's back here in New Jersey, I keep myself busy with work so I don't get lonely. So I'd write at night and on weekends."

The new show isn't the first TV writing he's done. The Manhattan-born actor said he'd written two "M-A-S-H" scripts that were filmed and a pilot for another proposed series ABC turned down last year. The proposed series was about New York politics, Alda said.

Was it also a comedy? "It would have to be, wouldn't it?" he asked.

"We'll Get By" has an unlikely premise for a comedy series. It's about a sales engineer, his wife and three children. Like Alda, they live in suburban New Jersey.

"There isn't anything about it that sounds like a funny idea, but I think that's one of its strong points," Alda said. "It's not a gimmick show."

"It's an attempt to show, with a sense of humor, people really living in a family. Which hasn't been done yet. There are no funny 'situations,' no cute kids with cute problems."

Alda, who is co-producing the show with Marc Merson, will supervise the script-writing. He'll head back to Los Angeles in mid-May to start production both on "M-A-S-H" and the new series.

One hundred and twenty members and guests assembled in the Masonic Temple for the 80th annual inspection. Mrs. Jessie Denen, Worthy Matron, and Robert Whitaker, Worthy Patron, opened the chapter meeting.

Distinguished guests were introduced: Past Grand Matron and Grand Trustees Irene E. Thornburg, Robert K. South, Past Grand Matron, also a Grand Trustee of Springboro.

Grand officers presented were Associate Grand Patron Raymond E. Belfrage of Reynoldsburg, and Kay Black, Grand Esther of New Holland; Deputy Grand Matron Mrs. Loraine Latham of Waverly, inspecting Grand Officer; and Grand Representatives of other Grand Jurisdiction in Ohio: District of Columbia, Mrs. Margaret Swank of Chillicothe; California, Mrs. Dottie Belfrage of Reynoldsburg; Michigan, Mrs. Elsie Schoenian of Glouster; Nova Scotia, Mrs. Georgia Powell; and Oregon, Mrs. Katherine Stoud.

Worthy Matrons and Worthy Patrons of other chapters were also introduced as well as Past Matrons and Past Patrons of Royal Chapter No. 29.

Fifty-year pins were presented to Mrs. Emma Kelley, Mrs. Ida Kaufman and Robert Rothrock by Past Grand Matron Irene E. Thornburg. Rella Silcot was to receive her 50-year pin but was unable to be present.

Also recognized and welcomed were honored Masons Ronnie Sears and David Six, who is also a trustee of the OES Home in Mount Vernon. Past Grand appointments were recognized and welcomed.

An initiatory ceremony was conducted for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Applegate and Mr. Charles Ellis.

Marvin Thornburg, Associate Patron, presented the new members with a white Bible.

Music was presented by Pauline Benfiel. The 'sunshine' offering was given to the Fire Safety Code at the OES Home in Mount Vernon.

Mrs. Loraine Latham, inspecting officer, complimented the officers on

'Spring Carousel' is theme of ESA charity ball

Mahan Hall was gaily decorated in pink and white for the annual 'Charity Ball' of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, Saturday evening. Approximately 130 couples enjoyed the evening and danced to the music of Herkie Coe and The Wellington's.

Carrying out the theme of the dance, "Spring Carousel", the tables featured miniature pink and white carousels with tiny animals riding around. On the walls were darling baby animals riding on pink and white polls. White streamers hung from the ceiling and various stuffed animals were found about the room.

The main door prize was a blender, donated by a local drugstore.

The Alpha Theta chapter and its president, Mrs. Clyde Cramer, and Beta Omega chapter and Mrs. Jack Shoemaker, president, were in charge of the "fun" evening.

A check for the proceeds of the dance, which will go to Fayette Memorial Hospital, will be presented at a later date.

Miss Milstead bride-elect is feted

A bridal shower complimenting Miss Lynn Milstead, bride-elect of Rick Lewis, was held in the home of Mrs. Richard Houseman and daughter, Jaeie.

Prizes for contests conducted were won by Miss Elaine Houseman, Mrs. Robert Sollars, Mrs. Donald Moore, Mrs. Kenneth Houseman and Mrs. Harry Houseman, who in turn, presented them to the guest of honor.

The gifts were arranged on a table covered with an orange and yellow cloth, and centered with an arrangement of spring flowers. Orange and yellow streamers completed the setting.

Each guest was given a corsage made by the hostess and refreshments of cake, coffee, mints and nuts were served by Miss Jackie Mitchell and Miss Elaine Houseman to Mrs. John Milstead, bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Leonard Milstead and Mrs. Dorothy Bowen, grandmothers of the bride-elect, Mrs. Allen Lewis, prospective groom's mother, Mrs. Roy Dill, Mrs. Richard Bonner and daughter Belinda, Mrs. James DeWitt, Mrs. Robert Sollars; Mrs. Jack Jack.

Also Mrs. Tiffin Houseman, Mrs. Gary Albright, Mrs. Kenneth Houseman, Mrs. Wayne Houseman and daughter, Elaine, Mrs. Harry Houseman, Mrs. Donald Moore, Mrs. Mahline Axline, Mrs. Ethel Long, Mrs. Oleeta Stewart, Mrs. Everett Blakeley, Mrs. Oyer Williams, Mrs. Ralph Cheatum, Mrs. Andy McCann and Miss Susan Milstead.

Trojan Squares guests of Jud-I-Ques

The Jud-I-Ques Western Square Dance Club was visited by the Trojan Squares of Troy recently. They were accompanied by their club caller, Jess Fugate, who called part of the tips along with Jim Lambert, the Jud-I-Ques caller. They 'stole' the club's banner and at least eight couples will have to attend one of their dances to retrieve it.

Attending in addition to local members were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Copeland and Brenda, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Copeland, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holman, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Minnich, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Coate, all of Troy and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Shaton of the Belles and Beaus of Chillicothe, also attended.

Members of the club attending the Spring Fling Dance at Howey Rd. Armory in Columbus were Mr. and Mrs. Lambert, Mrs. Willard Judy, Mr. and Mrs. James Puckett and Mr. and Mrs. Loran Guthrie. This dance was sponsored by the Central Ohio Callers Association.

the group sang a hymn. Mrs. Frank Slager read a humorous poem and the group repeated the Lord's Prayer.

Various reports were made.

Hosesses Miss Purcell, Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Slager and Mr. and Mrs. Omar Rapp served refreshments to 16.

Money Does Matter . . .

By Robert E. English
BANKERS NOW MUST REALLY BE POSITIVE THINKERS!

"Let's see if we can work this out" is a POSITIVE approach which resourceful, successful bankers characteristically use these days.

Gone is the old cold, austere "image" of a banker whose one conservative answer was generally "No!"

Sincerely concerned about helping individuals and merchants, business and industry work out their problems — that is the breed of bankers who are handling today's financial affairs.

The banking business has become highly competitive. To succeed, a bank has to lend money and must not only conform to strict governmental regulations but be sincerely concerned and involved in helping today's often confused individual — helping him work out the complexities in handling his personal money matters.

Today's "commercial bank" is more than a bank for business and industry. It just has to be a warm, friendly, concerned place for individuals to get the answers they need.

Congratulations to:

Garth Cox, being selected to play as an offensive guard for the South Team in the Ohio High School North-South All Star Classic, August 2, 1974 at Fawcett Stadium, Canton, Ohio.

John Marcum, as being elected president of the Washington Court House Jaycees.

The First National Bank of Washington Court House is the kind of a Bank that is not just concerned with "people" but with the concerns of "individuals".

Try out "listening-power" and be convinced that we are a complete service Bank in every respect!

Record speaks for self: Controls failed

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — With economic activity declining at the steepest rate in 16 years and inflation raging at its hottest since 1951, the country today ends its first peacetime experiment with wage and price controls.

No matter what explanations are given for permitting the Economic Stabilization Act to expire at midnight, the record speaks for itself: Controls failed. Inflation is worse than ever, and the economic outlook is confused.

In the first quarter of the year the nation's gross national product, or total output of its goods and services, declined 5.8 per cent. At the same time, price rose at an annual rate of 10.8 per cent over-all, 14 per cent for consumer items.

Strongly suggesting that the inflation problem not only is with us but even growing worse is sharp rise in interest rates the past few months through the money market.

It appears now that interest rates bear almost the entire responsibility for restraining inflation. The prime lending rate for top corporate customers is close to 11 per cent and headed higher, perhaps to 12.

And with this rise in interest rates are coming some serious disruptions to an orderly economy. Money is flowing out of a money pinch.

Some economists foresee a real money crunch coming up because, in spite of those high interest rates, many corporations continue to make expansion plans. In fact, capital spending plans are 13 per cent higher than a year ago.

It can be argued, therefore, that monetary policy also is failing to discourage spending. And if business is

Claim Phillips cruel to horse

LONDON (AP) — Capt. Mark Phillips, Queen Elizabeth's son-in-law, has been accused of being cruel to a horse.

The complaint was leveled by Mrs. Jeane Pyke, who made it after watching Phillips ride a horse named Columbus to victory in the grueling Badminton Horse Trials during the weekend.

"Capt. Phillips obviously terrified Columbus, forcing him over some of those terrible jumps," said Mrs. Pyke, who watched the event on television. She said that Great Britain's Protection of Animals act makes it an offense to "terrify, beat, kick, torture or infuriate an animal."

Mrs. Pyke said she would ask a court to look into the matter. There was no comment from Buckingham Palace.

Service Notes

In outstanding unit

Richard S. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kibler R. Roberts, Rt. 1, Greenfield, is assigned to a Strategic Air Command organization that recently received the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

Capt. Roberts is a judge advocate at Minot AFB, N.D., with a unit of the 91st Strategic Missile Wing which was cited for meritorious service from July 1, 1972 to June 30, 1973.

A 1963 graduate of McClain High School, he received his B.A. degree in 1967 from Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware and was commissioned there through the Reserve Officers Training Corps program. He earned his J.D. degree in 1969 from the University of Michigan.

willing to continue to pay such high rates, almost inevitably it will be reflected in higher prices.

But the immediate verdict on controls isn't the final answer to the question of whether the federal government can or should play an effective role by intervening directly in the marketplace. That question still is debated.

A good many economists of various leanings maintain the Nixon administration never fully believed in controls, even though it resorted to them. That move, they feel, was largely political.

If the administration had unequivocally stated its faith in the power of wage-price restraints, it is argued, they might have been more effective. Instead, its doubts were revealed time after time.

Will the surge of prices recede without controls? The issue still divides economists, although many note that the factors responsible for price increases seem to have abated.

Agricultural output has improved, for example, and the big surge in oil prices already has taken place. These were the two areas of greatest trouble.

Moreover, the economic boom that seemed to occur in countries the world over at the same time seems to be fading. And there are indications that major industrial nations are less willing to tolerate excessive monetary growth.

At the same time, however, all the world's nations are dedicated to improving output, even if it strains their production facilities. And that's how the smoldering rags of industrial society eventually burst into flames.

If the world's governments are committed to accelerating their production to the limit, some economists believe they should be required also to step directly into the marketplace with brakes.

Manhole cover theft under council study

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland City Council has been asked to make theft of manhole covers a criminal offense. The request followed the fatal plunge of Jennifer Hill, 4, through an open manhole.

Councilman Joseph M. Kowalski, in making the request, also recommended that the covers be sealed or bolted in place. He said they often were stolen despite the need for special equipment for prying them up.

Goodwill replaces collection boxes

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Goodwill Industries say it is replacing the bright yellow collection boxes which for years have been recipients of discarded clothing, household goods, personal items and, from time to time, people.

"Yes," Goodwill Operations Director Robert Aylsworth admitted. "I have heard of people being trapped in boxes. They sometimes drop things in that they don't mean to drop, then try to climb in after them."

The new system will have attendants at trailers which the organization hopes will eliminate "the terrible vandalism problems and other disturbing factors related to deposit boxes."

The new system opens today.

Problems?

Aylsworth said he occasionally gets calls from people who have dropped car keys or a ring in a collection box.

Then there was the woman had a fight with her husband and "threw all his clothes in the collection box."

"He had walked out on her, but then they made up, and she was down here frantically looking for his clothes," he added.

The collection boxes, while large enough to accommodate comfortably someone looking for a place to sleep for the night, "fill too fast," Aylsworth said.

"The stuff runs over and creates a mess," he added. "Then, people would bring items too big or too heavy and set them outside. Also, kids get into them and spread everything around."

Aylsworth said the attendant system being started on a demonstration basis today represents the biggest change in Goodwill's 56-year history.

The new center is a large, van-type truck trailer.

"When they fill one trailer, it will be towed away and replaced by an empty one," Aylsworth said.

But the main thing is that centers will have attendants available eight hours a day, six days a week to watch over the contents and police the surrounding areas, he said.

Attendants also will provide receipts, which donors can use with income tax returns.

And there's no big chute that donors may fall in and get trapped.

5-member council studies health plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A five-member council appointed by Atty. Gen. William J. Brown will develop a public health plan to use over $1.5 million in unclaimed consumer funds from a 1968 antitrust settlement with five drug companies.

Members of the Consumer Health Fund Advisory Council are William D. Ginn, president of the Ohio Citizens Council on Health and Welfare; Charles W. Edgar, Ohio State Medical Association; Dr. John Cashman, director of the Ohio Health Department; Dr. Kenneth D. Gaver, director of the Ohio Mental Health and Mental Retardation Department; and Dr. Henry G. Cramblett, dean of the Ohio State University College of Medicine.

Michael DeAngelo, assistant to Brown will serve as chairman.

Supreme Court upholds EPA authority

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency said it is "very pleased" with a U.S. Supreme Court ruling Monday affirming the U.S. EPA's authority to apply emission standards to power generating plants.

A spokesman for the Ohio EPA said the ruling upholds state regulations taken from EPA standards.

The high court upheld a U.S. Circuit Court decision in the case involving four Midwest power companies, despite the companies' charge that the EPA failed to discuss alternate pollution control methods and measure costs against the benefits of the method it chose.

EPA standards significantly curtail use of high-sulfur coal to generate electricity. The companies involved, the Appalachian Power Co., Indiana and Michigan Electric Co., Kentucky Power Co. and Ohio Power Co., said it is "absolutely necessary" that they continue to rely on coal from northern Appalachia, the Midwest, and northern Rocky Mountains.

They argued that uncertain supplies, shortages and growing demands make use of the coal indispensable.

A spokesman for the Ohio Power Co., based in Canton, had no comment Monday on the ruling, saying all officials involved were out of town.

The four companies involved rely almost exclusively on coal, they said. Noreen Wills, public information officer for the Ohio EPA, said Monday's decision applies to new power generating facilities.

The Ohio EPA has been holding hearings since March 4 concerning regulations governing existing generating plants.

Green Beret units being cut back

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Special Forces, once this country's glamour troops, are being cut back again as the Army builds a new elite force of light infantry.

Army officials say the strength of the Green Berets is being reduced to about 5,000 men with the withdrawal of the last 1,400 special forces troopers from the Taiwan and Okinawa by June 30. The peak strength was 11,700 in 1968. When the pullout was announced some time ago, it was indicated the men would be sent to Special Forces units in the United States.

But officials now say most will be reassigned to other Army duties and that many will be encouraged to join three new battalions of Rangers to be formed.

Although the numbers involved are small, the decline of the Special Forces underscores a shift from major concern about guerrilla warfare toward highly mobile units tailored to fight conventional battles in Europe and possibly the Middle East.

The Green Berets got their big boost in the early 1960s when President John F. Kennedy and his advisers feared Communist China and Russia would promote guerrilla style "wars of national liberation" in Asia, Latin America and Africa.

Kennedy administration officials believed the tough, versatile forces, operating in small teams, could be instrumental in helping developing countries overcome such insurgencies.

In South Vietnam, where they reached their zenith, the special forces recruited, taught and led Vietnamese irregulars in reconnoitering and harassing North Vietnamese infiltrators. Sometimes they made forays into neighboring Cambodia and Southern Laos for this purpose.

The only Green Berets overseas will be a battalion in Germany and another in the Panama Canal Zone. Special Forces training teams from the Canal Zone have been helping some Latin American governments troubled by insurgency problems.

Hearing scheduled in officer's slaying

CLEVELAND, Ohio, (AP)—Anthony Roden, 21, of Cleveland, was scheduled to face preliminary hearing in Cleveland Municipal Court on Wednesday on a charge of aggravated murder in the slaying of a Cleveland policeman.

Patrolman William Shapiro was killed Friday by a pointblank blast from a shotgun while he and other officers investigated sniper reports on Cleveland's East Side.

Roden was being held in Cuyahoga County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.

Commissioners back Rattlesnake inquiry

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday afternoon adopted a resolution supporting a preliminary investigation concerning the proposed Rattlesnake Creek Watershed.

Commissioners, with the adoption of the resolution, joined a number of other area organizations, including Washington C.H. City Council and the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce who had earlier adopted similar resolutions supporting the preliminary investigation.

The proposed watershed project

Designer cuts dress prices

NEW YORK (AP) — The same inflation that is forcing middle-income Americans to switch from steak to casseroles is causing upper-crust consumers to cut back on the luxuries of life—those $3,000 evening dresses, for example.

That's why designer George Halley, who showed his fall collection on Monday, slashed prices drastically, cutting them by 90 per cent at the wholesale level.

Halley's prices used to start at $800—wholesale: Posh clothes with four-figure price tags that drew widespread publicity.

Flash flooding sweeps Texas

By The Associated Press

Thundershowers rolled along a line from Texas to western New York today, causing flash flooding in the Lone Star state.

The southwest Texas communities of Longfellow and Sanderson, swamped by up to 6 inches of rain, were hit by flash floods along the Rio Grande and its tributaries. A passenger train was delayed during the night at Longfellow, waiting for the waters to subside.

Flood watches were posted for other areas of Texas and parts of Oklahoma. Two inches of rain soaked Oklahoma City during the night.

Prayer Breakfast attendance grows

Attendance at the Teen Prayer Breakfast at the South Side Church of Christ climbed to 84 Tuesday morning. There were 25 freshmen, 21 sophomores, 25 juniors, eight seniors and five teachers present.

"The Lost Christ" was the theme for the meditation time led by the Rev. Charles J. Richmond. Gina Upthegrove and Linda Hollingsworth, sophomore at Washington Senior High School, led the singing. Kevin Pfeifer, also a sophomore, offered prayer.

Mrs. Patty Cox, who has headed up the kitchen staff for the past five years, spoke to the group on "The Game Plan of Life." She said the basic rule is to "do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Her son Garth, a senior at Washington dismissed the group with prayer.

The Prayer Breakfasts are made possible through contributions for churches, businesses, individuals, and organizations interested in our youth.

The next one will be next Tuesday at 6:45 a.m.

Tappan plans acquisition of Lawson firm

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—A pair of kitchen cabinet manufacturers, Tappan Co. of Mansfield and F. H. Lawson Co., Cincinnati, plan for Tappan to acquire Lawson, if directors approve.

The firms announced Monday they have signed a letter of intent.

Spokesmen said the acquisition probably would entail giving Lawson shareholders a combination of notes and Tappan stock, but details of the plan weren't announced.

Lawson, with plants in Ohio and Tennessee, also makes housewares, office and institutional products and city litter containers. Tappan is a manufacturer of major home appliances and air conditioning and heating equipment.

Rodeo promoter speaks at Kiwanis Club meet

Life on the rodeo circuit was reviewed for members of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club during their regular weekly dinner meeting Monday night in the Lafayette Inn.

Tom Pierson, of Lewisburg, a rodeo promoter at Cowtown Arena in Brookville, was the featured speaker.

Pierson, who has been involved in the rodeo business for 15 years, explained to Kiwanians that he is closely associated with the Ohio Rodeo Cowboys Association which is the sanctioning group for rodeo events in Ohio.

Laurel Oaks COE awards presented

WILMINGTON — The Cooperative Office Education Class at the Laurel Oaks Career Development Campus near Wilmington held its 1973-74 Employer-Employe Banquet at the Oak Club on the Laurel Oaks Campus.

Guests were welcomed by Tanya Kingery, class vice president and special guests were introduced by Debbie Johnson, class secretary. The students presented certificates of appreciation to their employers.

Mrs. Rachel Foster, teacher-coordinator presented the Boss of the Year Award to Robert Sollars, personnel manager at Cincinnati Milacron and the Outstanding COE Student Award to Janet White.

The class and guests enjoyed a meal served by the junior food service class and teacher, Mrs. Josie Garcia.

Connie Stayrook, Doug Joseph, and Donnie Pepper from Miami Trace High School provided entertainment accompanied by their vocal music teacher, Mrs. Cinda Stinson.

Attending the banquet were COE students from Washington Senior, Miami Trace, Wilmington, Greenfield McClain and Hillsboro high schools.

Club member Gerald Begin introduced Pierson.

DURING the business meeting, conducted by club president George Gibbs, a letter of appreciation to the club from Carl Whitaker, administrator of the Fayette Progressive School, was read. The Kiwanis Club is paying the expenses of five Progressive School students on a Kings Island outing.

Tom Mossbarger reported on Teen Talent Show receipts and said that a final report should be available soon.

A five-year perfect attendance pin was presented to Richard Maddux by Duane French.

Sheila Gordon, an American Field Service student attending Miami Trace High School this year, will show slides and comment on her homeland in the Republic of South Africa during next week's program, Gibbs said.

Lions lose fifth straight

By MARK REA

Record-Herald Sports Writer
Washington C.H.'s Blue Lion baseball squad lost its fifth game in a row and sixth of its last seven, despite a fine pitching performance by senior Craig Stabelton, to the Tigers of Greenfield McClain by a score of 5-2. Stabelton gave up just two earned runs but four costly errors meant the difference.

Stabelton had control problems at times as he walked five batters. In his seven innings of work he struck out 12 Tigers and allowed only six hits in addition to his walks and earned runs.

Greenfield pitcher Randy Carle pitched in spurts. He had control problems, walking six, but always seemed to bear down and get the important out. Carle, who went the distance, tallied six strikeouts, while giving up two runs on just five hits.

The first Washington C.H. run was scored in the first inning when Mark Johnson singled, stole second, took third on a strikeout and scored on a sacrifice bunt by Alan Coppock.

Greenfield fought back to tie the game at 1-1 in the third when Carle reached second on a two-base error and scored when batterymate Curt Hull rifled a single into right-center field.

The Tigers took the lead in the fifth on a walk issued to Bill Flynn, a single by Carle, a walk to Hull and a two-run double by first baseman Steve Willett to make it 3-1.

Greenfield got their final two runs in the sixth inning to put the game away.

Mistakes costly to Panthers in Lancaster loss

LANCASTER — Behind a four-run outburst in the bottom half of the first inning, Lancaster rode on to a 8-2 victory over Miami Trace, Monday evening.

Mistakes, both mentally and fielding, once again were major contributing factors to the Panthers' defeat. Miami Trace, which is now 5-3 in the South Central Ohio League and 6-9 overall, allowed the Golden Gales four unearned runs in the contest.

Lancaster tagged the Panthers' sophomore ace, Greg Cobb, for 10 hits in six innings. Cobb also hit three batters, while striking out six and walking one.

The Golden Gales started the ball rolling when they loaded the bases, as Tim Dagdenminre and Randy Hinton singled and Jeff Allen was hit by a pitch. Brett Hughes brought Dagdenminre and Hinton across the plate with a single. John Young's single scored Allen, but Hughes was thrown out at the plate. Young came in for the fourth run by stealing second, advancing to third on a wild pitch and crossing the plate on a ground out.

Center fielder Make Adams and Flynn each reached on an error. Carle then lashed a double into the gap in right-center field to score both Adams and Flynn.

The Lions pushed across their final run in the sixth inning. Third sacker Larry Dumford walked and took second on a wild pitch. Second baseman David Rittenhouse then proceeded to smack his third hit of the day, a single, scoring Dumford. The

One of the objections of fans attending sporting events in this media-diluted age is that there are no replays. Lee May took care of that gripe Monday night when the Houston Astros mugged the Chicago Cubs 18-2.

For those fans who missed May's two-run homer in the sixth inning, the Houston slugger belted ... another two-run homer in the sixth inning.

"All I do is go up there swinging," said the Astros' slugging first baseman, who went 5-for-5 in Houston's 20-hit attack. "I do the same thing every game. Both homers came off breaking pitches."

Elsewhere, the Cleveland Indians edged the Minnesota Twins 3-2 in baseball's only afternoon contest; the California Angels dropped the Boston Red Sox 7-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers squeezed past the New York Mets 8-7.

In all, the Astros scored five runs in the first, added single runs in the second and fourth, two more in the seventh, plus the nine-run sixth.

May slugged his first homer off Burt Hooton, the fifth of six Chicago pitchers, and followed eight batters later with a 400-foot blast off Jim Krummel, his fourth of the baseball season.

Dave Roberts, who tossed a seven-hitter, was the beneficiary of May's power production, pitched in offensively with two RBIs.

Indians 3, Twins 2

The Indians cashed in their first dividend from last Friday's seven-player deal with the New York Yankees

final score was 5-2.

In his last three games, of which he is 1-2, Stabelton has struck out 32 men for an average of almost 11 strikeouts per game.

The loss sends the Lions even further in the depths of the SCOL race with a 2-6 league mark while their overall mark is a dismal 3-9.

Court actions continue with WFL, NFL teams

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The new World Football League tries to score its first points against the National Football League today.

"We are asking this court to make a novel decision," said WFL attorney George Moscarino. "Evidence will show the NFL is... trying to suppress this league."

With that as the theme, the WFL hammered away Monday in U.S. District Court that the NFL has been guilty of the same acts the fledgling league has been accused of: illegal player raids.

The Cincinnati Bengals, in the NFL's first test case, are seeking a preliminary injunction against their star linebacker Bill Bergey and the WFL.

The Bengals claim the new league is inducing away its players and interfering in a manner which could leave the NFL club "decimated and wrecked."

Less than half the players and officials subpoenaed could testify Monday, and the hearing was carried over to today. A temporary restraining order, issued 10 days ago against the WFL, was not renewed, despite protests by Bengal attorneys.

Bergey, who has signed a $525,000 three-year contract with the Virginia Ambassadors of the WFL, testified he was "not interested in being pushed around."

He said he turned down an offer by the Bengals for a trade to another NFL club which could meet the salary offered by the WFL.

Mike McCormack, head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles, told the crowded courtroom that a trade was discussed in January. McCormack said he later turned down the swap because Bergey "would be a division on my club."

McCormack said he had been prepared to offer the Bengals a couple of high draft choices and a selection "from five of our starting players last year."

Trade discussion ended when Bergey announced he was joining the WFL in 1976, McCormack said.

"If I were to bring in Mr. Bergey, I'd be saying I'm compromising my position and telling my players they were fools because they didn't take advantage" of the new league, McCormack said.

Moscarino challenged the Bengals' claim of "foul" by noting that Cincinnati head coach and general

Houston clobbers Minnesota

HOUSTON (AP) — Most hockey teams consider a penalty-killing situation a disadvantage. When the Houston Aeros are shorthanded, they've got the opposition right where they want them.

Houston, one of the top penalty killers in the World Hockey Association this season, isn't satisfied just to kill a penalty—it likes to score goals in the process.

The Aeros scored two shorthanded goals in less than one minute Monday night en route to a 9-4 victory over Minnesota to take a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven WHA semifinal playoff series.

The other WHA semifinal series resumes tonight with the Toronto Toros visiting the Chicago Cougars. Chicago leads it, 3-2.

In the National Hockey League, both semifinal series continue tonight. The Boston Bruins take a 3-2 lead into Chicago against the Black Hawks and the New York Rangers visit the Philadelphia Flyers with the teams tied at two games apiece.

Houston scored the goals while winger Ted Taylor was serving time in the penalty box. Rookie Mark Howe, who had six shorthanded goals during the season, scored first at 15:48. His father Gordie added another at 16:30, and the rout was on.

as Steve Kline hurled an eight-hitter in his first start for Cleveland.

Ninth-inning RBI singles by Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan made Kline a winner. Bill Campbell, who had not yielded an earned run in any of his 10 previous appearances, took the loss.

Angels 7, Red Sox 2

Tom McCraw knocked in four runs with a pair of doubles to help the Angels snap a five-game losing streak.

McCraw belted his first homer of the season in the second, doubled to set up a run in the fourth, doubled to drive in a run in the sixth and slammed a two-run homer in the eighth.

Bill Singer tossed a seven-hitter, struck out seven and walked three.

Dodgers 8, Mets 7

Willie Crawford singled in two runs in the first and one more in the second to help Los Angeles build an 8-0 lead after two innings and the Dodgers held on for their seventh straight victory.

Canonero II similarities have good chance in Derby

LOUISVILLE (AP) — In Stalls 9 and 11 of Barn 42 at Churchill Downs are Set N' Go and Lexico, two contenders for the 100th Kentucky Derby who are American-bred and Venezuelan-raced and owned—as was Canonero II, who won the 97th Derby.

"I have a chance to win," Marcial Iriza, trainer of Lexico, said Monday. "He's a good horse. I think my horse will finish strong."

"I think this horse is better than he ever was," said Manuel Aspuria, who will saddle Set N' Go for Saturday's Derby.

"We take a chance to bring him here. We know there are a lot of good horses, but none like Secretariat last year."

The strongest contenders for the Centennial Derby, which is expected to draw about 22 starters, appeared to be two entries and Meeken Stable's Agitate, who has five wins, including the California Derby, in six starts as a 3-year-old.

One of the entries is the Woody Stephens-trained pair of Seth Hancock's Judger, winner of the Florida Derby and Blue Grass Stakes, and John M. Clin's Cannonade, first in the Stepping Stone Purse at Churchill Downs last Saturday.

The other entry, owned by Sigmund Sommer and trained by Frank "Pancho" Martin, is Accipiter and Ruben The Great. The latter was first in divisions of the Gotham and Wood Memorial.

Junior high posts victory

Jason Rummer reset his three-quarter mile mark, as the Washington Junior High track team defeated Hillsboro 69-40 in a dual meet, Monday evening.

Rummer, the seventh grader who had previously recorded a 3:57.2, ran the course in 3:52.8. His teammate, James Anders, once again finished second.

The Blue Lions captured eight first places in the meet. None of the thin-clads won more than one event in individual competition.

Other top finishers for the Lions were as follows:

Low Hurdles: 1. (tie) Greg Bullock and Terry Wilson, 18.5

100: 1. Jeff Elliott, 11.5 2. Greg Greene

440 relay: 1. Greg Greene, Greg Bullock, Devi Hargo and Terry Wilson, 54.7

440: 2. Bill Davis

880: 2. Tracy Wilson

180: 1. Gary Huysman, 21.5 2. Devic Hargo

880 relay: Bill Davis, Randy Hinkley, Gary Huysman and Jeff Elliott, 1:50

High jump: 1. John Denen, 5' 2. Gary Huysman

Pole vault: 1. James Brown, 8'6" 2. Randy Hinkley

Shot put: 3. Doug Stewart

Discus: 3. Doug Stewart

Karate club in state meet

Ku-Sustemi-Dojo, Washington Court House's karate club, will be competing in the 1974 state karate championships at Bishop Hartley High School in Columbus on May 4. Al Conaway, who is a third degree black belt, is the instructor of the local group.

Booster meeting

There will be a meeting for the Washington Senior High Baseball Boosters tonight. The meeting will take place at the high school at 8 p.m.

The final Derby prep was today's one-mile Derby Trial Stakes. Seven eligibles were entered.

Derby horses officially will be entered Thursday morning and a field of 22 would tie the record set in 1928.

The 100th certainly will be the richest Derby, breaking last year's record purse of $198,800. With only 10 starters, the race would gross $229,000 because of a record 290 nominations and stiff

PLANTING SEASON — Members of the Jeffersonville Cub Scout dens began their planting season on Arbor Day at Jeffersonville Elementary School. In all, the young Scouts planted 50 trees over the weekend in the Jeffersonville community. One was planted at each boy's home, and 36 others were placed at the school, at churches, and other locations. Manning the project were Cub Scout Dens 1 and 2, under the leadership of Mrs. Jane Pollock, pictured above, the Webelos, supervised by Jack Hare.

Wilmington College offers 'tech school' cooperation

WILMINGTON — The Wilmington College board of trustees, in endorsing the establishment of a five-county general and technical college district has expressed its interest in working with the district to help provide educational services to residents of the district on a contractual basis.

The board's letter to the John M. Briley, chairman of the Ohio Board of Regents, dated April 12, and released to the public today, expressed the willingness of Wilmington College to contract for the offering of general studies courses on the Laurel Oaks Joint Vocational School campus on the former Clinton County Air Force Base in Wilmington, once the technical college is established.

It also proposes that Wilmington College provide on its own campus instruction for district students seeking an associate of arts degree, with reimbursement to the college on a full-time equivalent basis.

Under this arrangement, Wilmington College would retain its identity as a private four-year institution, serving a wide geographical area while offering the use of its classrooms and instructional and certain administrative services to associate of arts students of the district.

IN THE LETTER, signed by Wallace T. Collett, chairman of the college board of trustees, it was stated that the Wilmington College administration "has for some time indicated its support for post secondary technical education in the Adams, Brown, Highland, Clinton and Fayette county area.

The letter further said that the college recognizes that inevitably the district would offer not only a technical degree, but also the associate (two-year) of arts degree.

Therefore, the Wilmington College board feels its proposal to the Ohio Board of Regents "will meet the needs of area residents with substantial savings to the taxpayers of Ohio, while insuring Wilmington College's continued effective service."

The letter from the Wilmington College board of trustees concludes by saying:

"The board of trustees wants the public record to show that Wilmington College endorses the establishment of the five-county district and endorses the necessity of providing the full range of associate degrees to all citizens of the district. The board makes this endorsement in the faith that a mutually beneficial relationship between Wilmington College and the new district can be established with no duplication of educational programs in Clinton County."

Spring band concert at MTHS Friday

The 12th annual spring band concert will be presented by the county schools in the Miami Trace School auditorium Friday.

Participating in the program will be the Miami Trace Concert and Symphonic bands and the county's sixth grade band. The concert will begin at 8 p.m.

The Miami Trace bands, directed by Paul R. Febo, will present a variety of musical scores, including a number of popular tunes. The Concert Band will feature a medley of five Hal David-Burt Bacharach songs. The Symphonic Band will close with six selections from the musical score of the movie "Shaft."

The sixth grade band, directed by Charles B. Lutz, will present a number of old favorites, including two marches and "On Top of Old Smokey." Students from seven elementary schools will participate.

During the performance, senior band members will be introduced, and the John Philip Sousa Award will be presented to the outstanding senior band member.

This and other awards will be presented by Mrs. Doris White.

DP&L's tornado loss $1.7 million

DAYTON — The Dayton Power and Light Co. discloses that total losses to the company are now estimated at $1.7 million as a result of the Xenia tornado.

DP&L crews spent more than 30,000 man hours to restore service during the emergency. As many as 350 DP&L employees were assigned to Xenia around the clock for a week after the tornado hit. Electric service had to be restored to 8,000 homes.

Approximately 130,000 feet (about 24.6 miles) of electric lines had to be installed. In the gas system 90 mains had to be cut off. DP&L personnel visited 7,000 homes, first to turn off services, then to relight gas furnaces, water heaters and other appliances.

The company at one time had more than 250 people visiting homes in an all-out effort to turn furnaces back on before cold weather set in following the disaster.

Extra crews will continue to work in the Xenia area for several weeks — or as long as they are needed — extending services to new and rebuilt homes and businesses which suffered severe damages or were destroyed by the tornado.

Joe Spring of the San Francisco Seals, Pacific Coast League, caught a baseball dropped from an airship at about 1,000 feet over Treasure Island in 1939. The force of catching the ball broke his jaw.

Rhodes runs hard against Gilligan

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Youthful-looking James A. Rhodes, at age 64, shows no sign of slacking from his customary 18 hours of go, go, go . . .

Seeking the governorship once again, the former eighty-year Republican chief executive says he will divide his time between his industrial development office and politics until after the primary.

"After the primary, we will devote full time to the campaign," Rhodes said. "I have got business commitments I have to take care of first." Rep. Charles E. Fry, R-75 Springfield, and Bert Dawson Jr., Columbiana County engineer, oppose Rhodes in the May 7 election. But Rhodes fails to mention either in his appearances.

"I am campaigning against John Gilligan," Rhodes emphasizes, claiming the Democratic governor who replaced Rhodes in 1970 is vulnerable on several fronts.

"The mismanagement of state affairs is the major weakness," he said.

3 Republicans in attorney general race

By HENRY HEILBRUNN
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Three politically experienced Republicans from different Ohio geographical areas are seeking the nomination for attorney general in the May 7 primary.

One will be placed on the November ballot to face incumbent William J. Brown, a 33-year-old first-term Democratic attorney general.

Sen. Stanley Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, Stark County Prosecutor David Dowd of Canton and Franklin County Prosecuting Attorney George C. Smith in Columbus are running for the position as Ohio's chief legal officer.

Aronoff, a legislator since 1960, said that, if elected, he would "install performance rather than public relations as the mark of achievement in the office, eliminate political favoritism in the trial and settlement of cases and curtail slush funds from special legal counsel."

The 41-year-old chairman of the Financial Institutions, Insurance and Elections Committee in the Senate also said he would "establish a policy of speedy trials and create firm policies against 'bugging' in order to protect the privacy of all Ohio residents."

Aronoff has lashed out against Brown, claiming he "made a mockery of campaign finance reform by failing to disclose the names of sources of more than $233,195."

Dowd, county prosecutor since 1967, said, "I've become more and more concerned about the fact that the law enforcement system in Ohio lacks coordination at the state level. Because of that fragmentation, it needs some person to pull it together so it is more

"It is overlapping mismanagement. It's a shabby operation and messy approach to management."

"They've taken the old Parkinson's concept," he said of Gilligan and his cabinet. "When you can't solve a problem, add 200 people."

Rhodes contends state employment is up 8,000 since Gilligan took office. "When they reorganize a department, they add employees and give less service," he said.

Rhodes keeps his political appearances at a minimum, two or three a week until after the primary.

He's without a campaign staff now. Instead, his business workers research issues. Later, he'll assemble the professional campaigners.

"A lot of people seem to think I am still in government. They think I should be available every minute. When you are in business you can't pick up and go," he said.

Three years as a developer has given him insight into state problems, he said. "Your view is much broader of the needs in the state."

Rhodes indicated he would still campaign on a job-oriented platform. "But there will be new approaches, new ideas and new thoughts for the 80s," he said.

"When we were governor, we had the finest industrial development in the United States, the No. 1 highway program, and we saw that an institution of higher learning was within 30 miles of every Ohio boy and girl," he said.

Rhodes said he believes Gilligan will spend at least $1 million of taxpayers money in the re-election campaign.

"They will be using state autos, planes, publicity men, directors and photographers — all paid by the state," he added.

"They have around 60 people in statehouse offices now concentrating on the campaign," he said. "We'll have to go out and still go to work."

Rhodes, who still finds time to play a few rounds of golf with a four stroke handicap, said he will discuss the shortcomings of the Gilligan administration after the primary.

As he talks, he constantly repeats the phrase "after the primary," leaving no doubt he expects the nomination.

OCSEA Council to meet here

The regular meeting of the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association, District 6 Council, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 6 in the Dayton Power and Light Co., auditorium, 101 East St.

Gary Johnson, vice president of the district council, said the council represents all OCSEA members in Delaware, Fayette, Franklin, Madison, Marion, Morrow, Pickaway and Union counties. All chapter presidents and delegates from all 25 chapters in the district will be in Washington C.H. to finalize resolutions to be presented to the OCSEA state convention in September.

All state, county and city employees are invited to attend the meeting.

About 85 billion Lincoln pennies have been minted since 1900.

Armstrong Solarian is a floor that keeps its promise.

It shines without wax.

Here's a floor that really does shine without waxing! Homemakers from coast to coast have discovered that Solarian keeps its high gloss—without waxing—far longer than an ordinary vinyl floor can, including their neighbor's "no-wax" floors. Spills, dirt, even black heel marks come up easily, ending the drudgery of scrubbing, waxing and stripping.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♣	1♠	2♥	Pass
3♣	Pass	3NT	Pass

Opening lead - ten of spades.

Let's assume you're in three notrump and West leads the ten of spades. When you follow low from dummy, East signals with the eight and you win the trick with the king. You have eight winning tricks and the big question is what to do at trick two, remembering of course that you see only the North-South cards.

Two methods of play are worthy of consideration. One is to lead the king or queen of hearts, discarding a diamond from dummy, and the other is to lead the nine or jack of diamonds, planning to finesse.

The fact is that one of these plays is clearly correct and the other is clearly wrong. All the same, it is perfectly possible to make the wrong play, which is to lead a diamond instead of a heart at trick two.

The superficial attraction of leading a diamond is that you plan to finesse into the non-dangerous hand, East, who cannot advantageously return a spade. This reasoning is fallacious, as is demonstrated when West plays the queen of diamonds at trick two and knocks you right out of the box. As the cards lie, you are doomed, whatever you do next.

The correct view is that the contract cannot be made against proper defense unless East has the ace of hearts. The diamond setup is a snare and a delusion.

A diamond play at trick two contributes nothing of value to making the contract. Even if the diamonds are favorably placed, the contract will still be defeated with proper defense if West has the ace of hearts.

Leading the king or queen of hearts offers a much better chance for the contract and, in the actual case, settles the issue when it turns out that East has the ace.

SCOUT TROOP 67
Scout Troop 67 held its weekly meeting with senior patrol leader Jeff Robinette opening the meeting. Mike Toppins led the Pledge of Allegiance; Mark Hoppes the Scout Oath; and Darrell Hanna the Scout Laws.

We received our new songbooks that the Mother's Auxiliary Club raised money for and we sang our first song out of them, "One Finger, One Thumb, One Hand." Stanley Burnett and Gary Conn led the song. We also received our tickets for the Scout-O-Rama, for May 18 and 19; we hope many people will buy them.

Troop 67's project for this year is going to be "Camping." We are interested in showing people who are not in Scouts, that camping is for everyone.

We discussed the campout and found out that we are going to use 13 canoes and that is a total of 26 people on the canoe trip down the Little Miami River. We also discussed the next paper drive for May 4.

Next we had the Scoutmaster's minutes, and Fred Doyle, Scoutmaster, talked with us regarding safety precautions in a canoe.

Then we had the closing with the Scout Benediction.

Crystal Cave gave the health report. The topic was "Food for Fitness."

Susan Morrow joined the club and we are pleased to have her.

New Business: We are to attend the 4-H Style Show at Miami Trace on April 26th from 7-9:00 p.m. A demonstration was given by Pam Pitzer. Work session was pinning patterns and straightening material.

Refreshments were served by Nancy Farmer.

STITCH AND STIR 4-H
The third meeting of the Staunton Stitch and Stir 4-H Club was held in the home of Kim and Lori Preston. President Karmel Knedler called the meeting to order and Kim led the 4-H Pledge.

We answered roll call by telling our hobbies. A report was given by Marsha Markle on "Tornadoes." Mrs. Pero gave a demonstration on "Material Weights."

The club has a new member, Debbie Neitz, and one guest, Angie Swackhamer. Lori Preston motioned the meeting be adjourned and Tracy Taylor seconded the motion.

Refreshments were served. The next meeting was held in the home of Carol Rex on April 18.

Atlantic Richfield drilled the discovery well on the Alaskan North Slope, and pushed for the pipeline venture. Robert O. Anderson is chairman of the board of Atlantic Richfield. In 1969, Robert O. Anderson gave $80,000 to a militant activist who organized Friends of the Earth. Friends of the Earth was one of the three political-environmental groups that stopped the Alaska pipeline cold with a lawsuit. How come? Grayson I. Kirk (a Fayette County boy who made good), member of the board of Mobil Oil, also a participating company in the pipeline venture, is a director of the C. F. R. (Hang in there, I'm making a point.) Now the owners and the guys who run the NEW YORK TIMES are leaders in the C. F. R. outfit, and they are supplying much loot to the environmental groups that are harassing small business in the United States. The TIMES has editorially condemned the Alaska pipeline venture (still with me?), but in the very same edition, the TIMES carried an article eulogizing Siberian oil operations in the Soviet Union. Like Howcome? There's something going on here, dad, and unless you know all about the C.F.R., the inner workings of these oil companies, Dr. Armand Hammer, of Oxy, his daddy, Julius, one of the founders of the American Communist Party, and lots of other trivia you just can't get the thing in focus.

That's where Dan's book comes in. THE BUSINESS END OF GOVERNMENT is the book. Dan Smoot, the author. Remember THE INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT? That was his book on the C.F.R. It's worth reading, too. To my way of thinking, however, THE BUSINESS END OF GOVERNMENT is the most important book published in the last two years. If you haven't read it, get a copy and read it - even if you have to buy a copy; after all, it's only a buck. Yes, you can buy the book at our place. Speaking of Your Health... Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Relief For Varicose Veins

I have varicose veins. I have been told that the only way I can get any relief is by an operation called "stripping."

Can you tell me how successful this is? Is it safe at the age of 58? — Mr. A.S., N.Y.

Dear Mr. S.: Varicose veins are an enlargement of the blood vessels that bring blood back from the feet to the heart. It is said that the upright position of man is probably one of the greatest contributors to this condition.

Small valves are present in the superficial and deep veins of the feet and legs. Because of back pressure within the veins these valves very often lose their effective function. The veins then become enlarged and less effective in carrying the blood to the heart.

"Stripping" of the veins is a highly specialized technique which surgeons now use with great success for the removal of varicose veins. The results are excellent and the procedure is remarkably safe.

Before any surgery is undertaken on people in your age group, a general examination is made to rule out any hidden problems that may exist. In the absence of these, surgery at 58 is not hazardous. The excellence of modern anesthesia adds to the safety of the operation

Is it possible for a woman who has given birth by Caesarean delivery to again have a child without a similar operation? — Mrs. R.B. Nev. Dear Mrs. B.:

The most frequent reason for Caesarean delivery is probably some anatomical defect of the mother's pelvis which makes it impossible for the normal delivery through the vaginal canal.

If this is the cause and the anatomical defect is present, the likelihood is, of course, that further deliveries will be made in the same way.

There are, however, a number of other reasons why a Caesarean operation is performed. A long labor, with exhaustion of the mother, may threaten the life of the baby and urgent delivery then becomes imperative.

An old axiom, "once a Caesarean, always a Caesarean," may not be as scientifically correct today as it was at the turn of the century.

THE BETTER HALF By Barnes

"I am NOT giving you lots of fat and bone - you're paying for every bit of it!"

Edited tapes released

television time for tonight to respond to Nixon.

Hutchinson said he would be "perfectly willing" to undertake the job of verifying the transcripts, but thought the committee should examine them first to see if anything further was needed.

"If it represents the complete record of Watergate, which the President says it does, then I think it would be adequate," he said.

It would take a majority vote of the committee's 21 Democrats and 17 Republicans to accept Nixon's plan. The vote for the subpoena was 33 to 3.

Rodino has declared repeatedly that he does not want to have a confrontation with Nixon over the tapes, and it is likely the committee will take no immediate action.

A briefing session at which no votes can be taken is scheduled for today, and the next likely meeting date is Thursday.

Reaction among other committee members generally was along party lines, Republicans approving of Nixon's offer and Democrats finding it unsatisfactory.

One Republican not endorsing the proposal was Rep. Thomas F. Rainsback, R-Ill., who said he thought the edited tapes also should be turned over to the committee.

Rainsback said, however, that he thought Nixon had "for the first time come through in a very convincing way" in detailing his role in the Watergate investigation.

Nixon had the bound volumes of the transcripts in his office as he spoke and the television cameras showed them to viewers. He said in addition to turning them over to the Judiciary Committee he intends to make them public, along with relevant portions of other Watergate tapes he already has given the committee.

Nixon said he had spent hours over the last several days "personally deciding questions of relevancy"—the main point of dispute with committee members demanding full compliance with the subpoena.

"The overriding issue is can the President control the information we have access to?" said Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah.

Nixon said that if, in reviewing the tapes to verify the transcripts, Rodino and Hutchinson disagree with his decision of what is relevant, he would be willing to meet with them personally to settle the matter.

He said his determined effort to protect the privacy of the tapes was dictated by the need of a President to protect the confidentiality of the advice he gets.

But the compelling needs in the present climate of impeachment to clear the air and let the nation have the facts "have now combined to persuade me that a major, unprecedented exception to that principle is now necessary," he said.

Nixon said the transcripts he was releasing contained "the rough as well as the smooth," and admitted there were ambiguities in some of the conversations that could lead different people to different conclusions.

He dwelt at length on the conversation he had on March 21, 1973, with John W. Dean III, White House counsel at the time, in which blackmail demands by Howard Hunt, one of the Watergate defendants, were discussed.

Nixon said Hunt was threatening to reveal "highly secret national security matters" unless he was given $120,000 immediately and that his concern over protecting national security led him to suggest it might be necessary to meet Hunt's demands.

"But I also traced through where that would lead."

He said, "The money could be raised. But money demands would lead inescapably to clemency demands, and clemency could not be granted. I said, 'It's wrong, that's for sure.'"

Nixon singled out Dean as the main source of his Watergate troubles and said the transcripts will refute Dean's sworn Senate testimony that Nixon was aware of the Watergate cover-up in September 1971.

Girl, 4, bruised as car hits her

A 4-year-old Willard Street girl was hit by a car Monday evening, police reported.

Jody Benson, 1034 Willard St., suffered back and arm bruises when she ran in front of a car driven by Paul L. Mabry, Jr., 25, of 719 Willard St., at 8:10 p.m. Monday and was struck.

She was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by ambulance where she was treated and released.

The accident occurred on S. Elm Street, near the Willard Street intersection, police reported.

Paint Creek dedication plans made

HILLSBORO — A tentative schedule for dedication of the Paint Creek Lake on June 15 has been established by a multi-community planning committee.

The dedication ceremony and related activities will be based at the dam. The lake straddles the Highland-Ross county line, just seven miles south of Greenfield on Rapid Forge Road.

The festivities will open at 10:30 a.m. with a water skiing demonstration to be followed by a hot air balloon ascension. Band concerts will be held at 11:30 a.m. and at 1 p.m.

Congressman William H. Harsha will be the featured speaker for the dedication, and Carl Sitterle, a Greenfield insurance agent, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Following the dedication ceremony, a sailboat regatta has been planned to be followed by another hot air balloon ascension at 4 p.m.

The Greenfield McClain High School band will participate in the ceremonies, along with Greenfield Jaycees, who will operate a concession stand and Boy Scout Troop No. 440, which will distribute programs. The Rev. Clair Emrick, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Greenfield, will deliver the benediction at the dedication.

Glenn raps President's statement

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Democratic senate candidate John Glenn expressed dissatisfaction Monday night with President Nixon's decision to provide the House Judiciary Committee with transcripts of Watergate tapes.

"The President's arrogant refusal to cooperate with the Judiciary Committee should weigh heavily on the committee's decision of whether or not to impeach," the former astronaut said.

"It is high time for the Congress—representing the people of this country—to absolutely force the President's hand to get every bit of information surrounding the whole Watergate situation so that we punish the guilty."

"Even more important," Glenn said in a statement, "We need all of the information to prevent similar or worse catastrophes from occurring in the future."

"The powers of the leaders in government are well defined," Glenn said. "The President seems determined to change that balance."

Glenn's opponent for the Democratic Senate nomination, Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, declined comment on Nixon's televised statement.

Russell W. Hidy, 23, of 928 Lakeview, reported to police that his motorcycle was hit by an unidentified red Dodge car in the city parking lot at 2:24 p.m. Monday. A damage estimate was not made.

A minor accident occurred at 11:45 a.m. Monday, involving cars driven by Sarah J. Seitz, 29, Bloomingburg, and Donald E. Thornton, 26, Bloomingburg, on Court Street, near the Fayette Street intersection, police reported.

WSHS choir concert set for Friday

The Washington Senior High School choir will present its annual spring concert at 8 p.m. Friday in the Washington Junior High School auditorium.

Charles L. Shaffer, who will be directing the WSHS choir, said the program will also feature the junior high school freshman choir, under the direction of Miss Marci Willman, and an elementary choir led by Mrs. Sidney Terhune.

The program will be composed mainly of popular music featuring a medley from the rock opera, "Godspell." Other selections include, "If," "Top of the World," "If I Were a Carpenter," and many other popular hits.

The public is invited to attend and a small donation will be received at the door, Shaffer said.

CURATORS' AWARD — This award for outstanding achievement was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. B.E. Kelley, curators of the Fayette County Museum, during a joint annual meeting of the Ohio Historical Society and the Ohio Association of Historical Societies held over the weekend in Columbus. The Kelleys, who were honored with a standing ovation from the 400 persons attending the meeting, have been members of the organizations since 1924.

Police investigate brace of larcenies

A breaking and entering, in which $150 was stolen from coin-operated machines, was reported at Bert's Bar, 703 Delaware St.

City Police also report a tape player stolen from a Washington C.H. woman's car and two stolen bicycles.

Bert's Bar was entered over the weekend through a hole in the roof of an adjoining garage by a thief, who once inside, rifled the coin operated cigarette, bowling and juke box machines for $150 worth of change, police have learned.

Specialists Bill Cales and Larry Walker of the Washington C.H. Police Department believe the larceny took place sometime between 2 a.m. and noon Sunday.

Heavy damage was incurred by the vending machines owned by Kirk Music Co., Williamsburg. Investigation is continuing.

A BRAND NEW TAPE PLAYER was taken from a car owned by Gretchen Grondalski, 730 Broadway, while it was parked in front of her residence between 11 p.m. Saturday and 12:45 p.m. Sunday, police were told.

Officers said there were no signs of forced entry into the Grondalski auto.

Two new 10-speed bikes belonging to the sons of Mrs. Melvin Hinkley, 813 Pearl St., were taken from the front porch of the residence sometime between Friday evening and 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

Police said the bikes were valued at $110 each and described them as being dark green with city licenses.

Urge signup by farmers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Farmers employing one or more workers risk losing their farms if a worker is killed or injured and he is not covered under the Ohio workmen's compensation law, the president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation warned today.

Farmers employing one or more workers must be covered under workmen's compensation by July 1 under a new Ohio law, said Leonard Schnell. Schnell urged farmers to sign up immediately rather than wait until the last minute and risk being caught without coverage.

Employers not covered are liable for an injured worker's medical costs, Schnell said. If he is covered, however, the state pays the bills, he added.

Schnell estimated that at least half—or about 55,000—of Ohio's farmers have not signed up for the protection, which costs $7.19 per $100 of payroll.

The average Yugoslav eats 240 pounds of bread annually.
